Russia Trots Out Same Old Peace Plan

Stop Arming, Scuttle NATO Says Vishinsky

Gross Calls Proposal 'Stale Old Record'

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 9 (AP)—Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky today trotted out a batch of old Stalinist proposals—often beaten down in the U. N.—as elements of Premier Malenkov's new peace formula. Only on the subject of Korea did the Soviet chief delegate take account of recent developments.

U. S. Ambassador Ernest A. Gross promptly tagged Vishinsky's two hour speech to the U. N. Political Committee as "stale, dull and regressive — an old record played for the fourth time in as many years."

Obviously surprised that Vishinsky's proposals did not reflect the apparent new trend of conciliation coming from Moscow, Gross told Vishinsky the American people are "willing to go half way."

Which Way From Where?

"The question is: half-way to what?" Gross added.

Here are the proposals that Vishinsky and his Polish associate, Foreign Minister Stanislaw Skrzeszewski, said would ease tension and help bring peace:

1. For the West to stop stuffing arms into its pockets and stop building up its armed forces.

2. Ban the atomic bomb immediately and cut the armed strength of the five great powers by one-third.

3. Dissolve the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, abandon the Schuman Plan, the European Defense Community, and stop plans for rearming Western Germany.

All these have been rejected by formal U. N. votes.

No Name-Calling

The only new element introduced by Vishinsky and Skrzeszewski was a revision which in effect recognized the recent developments in Korea.

Delegates who had long awaited what Vishinsky brought back from his conferences in Moscow with the new Malenkov government expressed amazement when he settled back in his chair. They noted that he refrained from calling the Western countries warmongers, murderers, cannibals and aggressors — but otherwise his speech was, as Vishinsky said it would be described, "old hat."

Jean, Josephine To Tour Africa

LUXEMBOURG, April 9 (AP) — Prince Jean of Luxembourg and Princess Josephine of Belgium knelt on silk cushions before a glittering array of royalty today and took marriage vows which linked the reigning families of the two nations.

They plan a two-month tour of Africa as a honeymoon and then will live in a 25-room mansion outside Luxembourg.

The 32-year-old groom, slim, dark and mustached is the heir apparent to the throne of the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg, a tiny nation whose large steel mills lend strength to the Atlantic Allies. His blue-eyed bride of 25 is the sister of Belgium's young King Baudouin.

Luxembourg's ancient cathedral sparkled with blue, gold and scarlet uniforms of nobles from 11 nations and diplomats from all over the world, among them Mrs. Perle Mesta, resigned U. S. minister to the duchy.

Marines Retake Hill, Kill 20 Chinese

SEOUL, Friday, April 10 (AP) — U. S. Marines Thursday recaptured a Western Front hill within artillery range of the truce village of Panmunjom, knocking out more than two-thirds of 350 Chinese Communist attackers.

The Reds overran Carson Hill in a massive assault before dawn Thursday. But pockets of Marines battled on for more than three hours until a relief column drove up the slopes and recaptured the height.

Overcast skies curtailed aerial action Thursday.

Hall Assured Election As Republican Leader

Party Heads Praise Ike's Record

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP) — President Eisenhower joined other GOP leaders today in endorsing Leonard W. Hall of New York for chairman of the Republican National Committee. This makes his election tomorrow a certainty.

At the same time the national committee issued a statement singing the praises of the first 75 days of the Eisenhower administration as a period of "memorable and significant" results.

The committee listed what it called "75 accomplishments based upon 13 pledges" made during the campaign, in the inaugural address, and in the State of the Union message.

The report will be furnished committee members when they meet tomorrow to choose a successor to C. Wesley Roberts.

Among the "strides forward made on each pledge, the report mentioned creation of a new executive department of Health, Education and Welfare with cabinet rank. It also listed budget cuts of $444,707,300 promised by the first of six departments and 13 independent agencies to report on efforts to trim the 1953-54 Truman budget. The committee recalled that Truman said it could not be cut.

The Democratic National Committee was quick to reply: It called attention to published accounts of a speech by Sen. Taft of Ohio before the Washington alumni of Yale University this week in which the Senate Republican leader was quoted as saying:

"Some progress has been made, but it seems slow and will seem slower in the future. Men who have been eminently successful in their own lives have been chosen (for government posts, but as far as I know they don't have a single day's experience running a federal government—the biggest institution the world has ever seen."

NEW UN BOSS — Dag Hammarskjold, new United Nations secretary general, arrives at International Airport in New York yesterday to be sworn in today. He replaces Trgve Lie, who has retired.

Committee Okays Controls Bill But Hard Fight Seen

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP)—The Senate Banking Committee stamped formal approval on a new controls bill today after voting to allow landlords to raise rent ceilings about 8 per cent in some cases.

Chairman Capehart (R-Ind) said he would submit the final draft of the controversial measure to the Senate tomorrow. It will be debated after the Senate completes action on the submerged lands bill.

One section of the proposed controls legislation would give President Eisenhower authority to freeze all wages, prices and rents for 90 days in the event of a national emergency like war.

Another would extend rent controls in non-critical housing areas (those in which shortages are not the result of defense expansion) until Sept. 30 and in critical areas until April 30, 1954.

The decision to give landlords a break was a last minute one. The committee reached substantial agreement on the bill yesterday, but before approving it formally on a 12 to 3 vote today it inserted a provision for the rent rises.

Missing from the final draft of the controls bill was a section requiring strict import curbs on dairy products. This section was dropped out earlier in the week at the request of the Eisenhower administration. Dairy state senators probably will fight on the floor for restoration of the curbs.

In any event, the bill faces a hard passage through Congress.

'No Conclusion' On Korea Partition

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP)—The White House said today the Eisenhower administration has reached no conclusion that a permanent division of Korea is either desirable or feasible.

Further, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told reporters, the administration has never decided that such a division would be "consistent with the decisions of the United Nations."

He also said there has been no consideration of a United Nations trusteeship for Formosa.

Released Briton Home

LONDON, April 9 (AP) — George Edward Robinson, 27, British seaman released recently from a Soviet jail, returned to England today in a Royal Air Force transport plane from Berlin. He was released under a Soviet amnesty on April 2 after serving six months of a 12 months sentence for "hooliganism."

Doctor Wins $5,000 Polio Work Award

BALTIMORE, April 9 (AP) — Dr. John F. Enders of Boston today was named the 1953 winner of the annual Passano Foundation Award for his development of methods for culturing polio viruses in tissue.

The selection was announced by Robert S. Gill, president of the foundation, which was established here nine years ago by the late Edward B. Passano for the encouragement of medical research.

Dr. Enders' project was described as one of the most outstanding contributions to the problem of polio since the disease was first recognized.

Foundation directors said laboratory production of polio virus opens the way for preparation of a vaccine which may be used for active immunization against infantile paralysis.

The award, a cash prize of $5,000, will be presented to Dr. Enders in New York on June 3 while the American Medical Association is in convention.

Dr. Enders is associate professor of bacteriology at the Harvard Medical School.

TWUA, Textile Mills Reach Agreement

BOSTON, April 9 (AP)—Representatives of the CIO Textile Workers Union and 23 New England cotton and rayon mills agreed today on a two-year contract renewing present wage scales and fringe benefits for some 25,000 workers.

Under the present two-year contract, the cotton and rayon workers in the 23 mills averaged $1.36½ an hour. The minimum wage is $1.11 an hour.

Civilians Cut Ammo Output, Senator Says

Symington Asserts Lovett Passed Buck

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP)—Sen Symington (D-Mo) said today that civilian heads of the Defense Department slashed funds for ammunition just before the Chinese Reds jumped into the Korean War late in 1950.

Symington, former secretary of the Air Force, said the Joint Chiefs of Staff had asked for two billion dollars for ammunition and the civilian heads cut it to one billion. At that time, Gen. George C. Marshall was secretary of defense and Robert A. Lovett, who later became secretary, was under secretary.

Says Lovett Passed Buck

Symington injected his statement into hearings on Korean ammunition supplies before a Senate armed services subcommittee. He said he was astounded that Lovett had "dumped" responsibility for ammunition scarcities "primarily on the Army to the exclusion of the Defense Department." Lovett testified yesterday that the Army as a whole was to blame.

"Just before the Chinese crossing of the Yalu," Symington said, "the amount of money requested by the Army for ammunition was considered much too high by the civilian heads of the Department of Defense."

Symington, the first air secretary after the Air Force became a separate military branch, resigned in April, 1950. He is not a member of the investigating subcommittee but he was allowed to ask some questions and make some observations at the end of a day of questioning Frank Pace Jr., former secretary of the Army, and Archibald S. Alexander, former under secretary of the Army.

Thought War Would End Soon

Both Pace and Alexander testified that early in the war nobody in Washington was aware how much ammunition the Korean fighting would require.

In fact, said Pace, it was the judgment of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as well as the general thinking in Washington that the war in Korea would be over by the end of 1950.

While ammunition production wasn't neglected, Pace said, there was "no real production" during the first two years of the war and it was necessary to dip into the large stocks left over from World War II.

Rising Publishing Costs Bring Higher Newspaper Prices

NEW YORK, April 9 (AP) — The steadily rising cost of publishing your newspaper has resulted in the 6 cent and 10 cent paper becoming more common, the American Newspaper Publishers Association announced today.

The ANPA annual survey of street sale prices of newspapers showed today that the number of 6, 7 and 10 cent papers now totals 168 compared with 29 in 1951.

Out of 1,762 U. S. newspapers, 1,517 are selling for 5 cents per copy, 77 less than in 1951.

Only 4 daily newspapers now sell for 2 cents a copy and only 33 for 3 cents, according to the survey.

Sunday newspaper prices also are up. In 1951, 122 Sunday papers were priced at more than 10 cents. Today 165 Sunday newspapers cost more than 10 cents.

Head Prisoner Exchange

Stassen Declares Curb On Treaties Security Danger

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen closed the administration's case against a proposed constitutional curb on the President's treaty-making powers today by saying it would imperil "a whole complex of international treaties, agreements and understandings" essential to American security.

Chairman Langer (R-ND) said his Senate judiciary subcommittee will be called back next week to begin drafting a report for the full committee.

The committee has under consideration both a proposed constitutional amendment drafted by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) in which 63 other senators, including Senate Majority Leader Taft are joined, and another drafted by an American Bar Association committee.

Both proposals are designed to prevent treaties originating in the United Nations from superseding U. S. laws on human rights, press freedom, educational, labor, cultural and other fields.

The fears that inspired their introduction grow out of a constitutional provisions which makes treaties "the supreme law of the land." The amendments would make any treaty inapplicable if it conflicts with constitutional rights.

Mutual Security Administrator Stassen, while expressing sympathy with the fears, said he believed the amendments would "bring upon us far greater evils."

No. 1 French Red Heads For Home

HELMSTEDT, Germany, April 9 (AP)—Maurice Thorez, France's No. 1 Communist, crossed into West Germany here today en route to Paris from Moscow, where he went in 1950 for treatment following a stroke.

West German customs police said he was aboard an inter-zonal train from Berlin to Paris via Cologne. Reporters were unable to talk to him.

Red Labor Bosses Use T-H As 'Shield For Deception,' Says Justice Dept. Official

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP) — Communist labor union officers are using the Taft-Hartley Act "as a shield for Communist deception," a Justice Department official told the Senate Labor Committee today.

Warren Olney III, assistant attorney general in the criminal division, said the law's non-Communist oath section "places the Communist-led union in a position of strength never intended by the act."

The provision compels all union officers to sign an oath they are not Communists or else lose the services of the National Labor Relations Board.

Olney said "many unions with suspected Communist leaders caused affidavits to be filed in formal compliance with the act and it may be taken as practical certainty that those union leaders who have been Communists in the past will have been sure to have protected themselves against criminal prosecution by tendering a formal resignation from the Communist party prior to the day upon which they signed the non-Communist affidavit."

No CIO or AFL union today is suspected of being Communist-led. But eight or nine independent unions, expelled from the CIO in 1949 and 1950 for alleged Communist domination, are still representing an estimated half a million or fewer workers.

Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz) asked Olney for an immediate Justice Department study of a bill he has introduced on the question of left-wing unions.

His bill would empower the Subversive Activities Control Board to investigate and identify all Communist-led unions. Once identified, a union would have 30 days to purge itself of Communist leadership or lose all its rights and privileges as a union.

Catholic Charity Drive Scheduled May 3-17

BALTIMORE, April 9 (AP)—Archbishop Francis P. Keough said today the fifth annual Catholic Charity Appeal will be conducted May 3-17.

James Keelty Jr., who headed the 1952 drive, will be chairman and the Rev. Thomas A. Whelan executive secretary. The 1952 campaign raised $740,000 for the Associated Catholic Charities.

Kentucky Girl, 12, Gives Birth To Healthy Twins

RUSSELLVILLE, Ky., April 9 (AP)—Drowsy-eyed Ronald and Donald Brummett bawled with healthy lungs today to the delight of their 12-year-old mother.

The boys, 3-days-old now, were brought in for a brief visit with Mrs. Myrle Brummett at Logan County Hospital. Then they were returned to the incubators that will be their homes until they gain some weight.

The twins weighed 4 pounds apiece when they were born Monday.

Their father, William Brummett, 22, remains close by. He arrived from an Army base in Maryland, with some emergency help from the Red Cross, shortly before the twins were born.

The Brummetts were married last June. Mrs. Brummett "fibbed" that she was 16 and had her mother's consent to marry.

Governor To Name Study Commission On Court System

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 9 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin said tonight he will name a commission to prepare court legislation attractive enough to get through the General Assembly next year.

"I feel that our effort to improve the administration of justice in our lower courts—traffic and police—did not receive the attention it deserved at the hands of the General Assembly" in the session just ended, the Governor said.

Discussion was profitable, nonetheless, he added, and "we shall succeed in this reform."

The governor said Clarence W. Miles, Baltimore attorney, will serve as chairman of the commission. Other members will be appointed soon.

Marylander Will Claim Scot Title

SALISBURY, Md., April 9 (AP)—Adrian Ivor Dunbar plans to pull up stakes soon and go to Scotland to claim title as the 11th baronet of Dunbar.

He advertised today that he will sell his 3½-acre farm in Fairmount, Md., his home furnishings and his farm machinery. "I'm leaving the country," he said.

Dunbar will be trading his small Eastern Shore farm for a 2,000-acre estate in Scotland.

Seven Britons Are Released In Manchuria

Reopening Of Truce Talks Not Broached

MUNSAN, Friday, April 10 (AP)—Rear Adm. John C. Daniel today said Allied and Red liaison teams hoped to complete and sign tomorrow an agreement for exchanging disabled war captives which would return 120 Americans, 20 British, 15 French, Turks, Canadians, Greeks and Dutch and about 450 South Koreans to the U. N. side.

The admiral said the Reds reported the breakdown of the Allied prisoner group during a 35-minute morning session at Panmunjom.

Agreement on exchanging disabled captives could lead to armistice in Korea.

Britons Are Released

Plans call for the Communists to turn over 600 sick and wounded—no more than 125 of them Americans—at the rate of 100 a day. The United Nations Command will deliver 5,100 North Korean and 700 Chinese sick and wounded at the rate of 500 a day.

(In another move in the Communist peace offensive, the North Korean radio at Pyongyang announced that seven British civilians held since early in the war had been freed in Manchuria for repatriation.)

A Communist correspondent at Panmunjom said it was unlikely Maj. Gen. William Dean would be among those sent home because the captured former 24th Division Commander was in excellent health. Dean is the highest ranking American captive. He was taken early in the war.

Agreement Reached

The Reds cleared the way late Thursday for the signing when they answered a handful of minor technical questions.

Earlier, almost complete agreement had been reached at Panmunjom on a nine-point exchange plan submitted by Rear Adm. John Daniel, chief Allied liaison officer.

Daniel said the Reds so far have made no mention in the liaison sessions of reopening the armistice talks broken off last fall.

Any armistice talk resumption depends upon a reply from the Red high command to a letter from Gen. Mark Clark, U. N. commander, sent last Sunday.

Hospital Train Ready

PUSAN, Korea, April 10 (AP)—An American hospital train left Pusan today for Munsan, where it will be used for sick and wounded Allied prisoners released by the Communists, Korean Railway officials said.

The train has six sleeping cars filled with hospital-type bunks and three freight cars.

Peron Relative Takes Own Life

BUENOS AIRES, April 9 (INS) — The Argentine government announced today the suicide of Juan Duarte, the brother of the late Eva Peron and until three days ago, private secretary to his brother-in-law, President Juan Peron.

A source close to the family disclosed that he ended his life with a bullet from a heavy caliber revolver at one o'clock in the morning in his apartment. His valet discovered the body when he went to awaken him seven hours later.

The text of what the Government called a farewell note to Peron from Duarte included an expression of deep affection for the President. At one point Duarte proclaimed:

"I love you with all my soul and say that the greatest man I ever knew is Peron."

An official Government statement said the suicide was the result of "a campaign of calumny."

The barely legible note, written in an obviously trembling hand, said: "wicked traitors" had tried to separate Duarte from the President.

Greece Devalues Money

ATHENS, April 9. (INS)—The Greek Government announced tonight it is devaluing its currency to a degree that doubles the value of the dollar, the British pound sterling and other foreign currencies.

The drachma henceforth will be pegged at 30,000 to the dollar instead of 15,000.

Navy Working On New Fuel To Give Subs Full Speed Underwater

WASHINGTON, April 9 (INS) — The Navy revealed today that it is working on a revolutionary type of power fuel that will enable conventional submarines to run at full speed for several hours while submerged .

The fuel, which presumably carries its own oxygen, will receive its first tryout in a 25-ton midget sub to be built by the Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corp., and to be launched sometime next year.

The development is expected to eliminate the 137-ton power battery that comprises nearly 10 per cent of the weight of fleet-type subs, while at the same time enabling underseas craft to make full submerged speed at depths greater than those reached by the snorkel "breathing tube."

Navy sources said the proportions of the projected U. S. Midget, being built as a target submarine for testing harbor defenses, proved ideal for the power experiment because a standard diesel engine originally designed for a truck could be modified to burn the new fuel.

The Navy refused for security reasons to divulge the chemical nature of the fuel, other than to say it is not the hydrogen-peroxide combination with which the Germans conducted numerous successful experiments in underwater propulsion.

It is known, however, that more than 100 types of rocket fuels carrying their own oxygen and capable of propelling missiles in outer space have been developed since World War II. The spokesmen said it is "good speculation" that the same principle will be applied to underwater power.

Asked why the new fuel could not be used for an entire mission, the spokesmen said the present project is limited to achieving "several hours" of submerged power.

This would equal the power duration of the big batteries now carried for submerged propulsion, while at the same time giving conventional subs greater underwater speed for the attack and getaway portions of their combat runs.

The two atomic submarines the Navy is building will be capable of full speed submerged for indefinite periods, but these cost more than $30,000,000 each. Modification of existing vessels to burn the new fuel may be possible at moderate cost.

The Navy's contract with an aircraft firm to build the first U. S. Midget has stirred wide speculation that a fleet of these may be added to American undersea strength.

Navy headquarters says, however, that at present only the one Midget is contemplated, and that it will not be a combat vessel. Reports that it will be remotely controlled or capable of firing missiles are denied. It is scheduled to carry a crew of three men.

In fact, said Pace, it was the judgment of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as well as the general thinking in Washington that the war in Korea would be over by the end of 1950.

While ammunition production wasn't neglected, Pace said, there was "no real production" during the first two years of the war and it was necessary to dip into the large stocks left over from World War II.

Rising Publishing Costs Bring Higher Newspaper Prices

NEW YORK, April 9 (AP) — The steadily rising cost of publishing your newspaper has resulted in the 6 cent and 10 cent paper becoming more common, the American Newspaper Publishers Association announced today.

The ANPA annual survey of street sale prices of newspapers showed today that the number of 6, 7 and 10 cent papers now totals 168 compared with 29 in 1951.

Out of 1,762 U. S. newspapers, 1,517 are selling for 5 cents per copy, 77 less than in 1951.

Only 4 daily newspapers now sell for 2 cents a copy and only 33 for 3 cents, according to the survey.

Sunday newspaper prices also are up. In 1951, 122 Sunday papers were priced at more than 10 cents. Today 165 Sunday newspapers cost more than 10 cents.

Head Prisoner Exchange

Stassen Declares Curb On Treaties Security Danger

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen closed the administration's case against a proposed constitutional curb on the President's treaty-making powers today by saying it would imperil "a whole complex of international treaties, agreements and understandings" essential to American security.

Chairman Langer (R-ND) said his Senate judiciary subcommittee will be called back next week to begin drafting a report for the full committee.

The committee has under consideration both a proposed constitutional amendment drafted by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) in which 63 other senators, including Senate Majority Leader Taft are joined, and another drafted by an American Bar Association committee.

Both proposals are designed to prevent treaties originating in the United Nations from superseding U. S. laws on human rights, press freedom, educational, labor, cultural and other fields.

The fears that inspired their introduction grow out of a constitutional provisions which makes treaties "the supreme law of the land." The amendments would make any treaty inapplicable if it conflicts with constitutional rights.

Mutual Security Administrator Stassen, while expressing sympathy with the fears, said he believed the amendments would "bring upon us far greater evils."

No. 1 French Red Heads For Home

HELMSTEDT, Germany, April 9 (AP)—Maurice Thorez, France's No. 1 Communist, crossed into West Germany here today en route to Paris from Moscow, where he went in 1950 for treatment following a stroke.

West German customs police said he was aboard an inter-zonal train from Berlin to Paris via Cologne. Reporters were unable to talk to him.

Red Labor Bosses Use T-H As 'Shield For Deception,' Says Justice Dept. Official

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP) — Communist labor union officers are using the Taft-Hartley Act "as a shield for Communist deception," a Justice Department official told the Senate Labor Committee today.

Warren Olney III, assistant attorney general in the criminal division, said the law's non-Communist oath section "places the Communist-led union in a position of strength never intended by the act."

The provision compels all union officers to sign an oath they are not Communists or else lose the services of the National Labor Relations Board.

Olney said "many unions with suspected Communist leaders caused affidavits to be filed in formal compliance with the act and it may be taken as practical certainty that those union leaders who have been Communists in the past will have been sure to have protected themselves against criminal prosecution by tendering a formal resignation from the Communist party prior to the day upon which they signed the non-Communist affidavit."

No CIO or AFL union today is suspected of being Communist-led. But eight or nine independent unions, expelled from the CIO in 1949 and 1950 for alleged Communist domination, are still representing an estimated half a million or fewer workers.

Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz) asked Olney for an immediate Justice Department study of a bill he has introduced on the question of left-wing unions.

His bill would empower the Subversive Activities Control Board to investigate and identify all Communist-led unions. Once identified, a union would have 30 days to purge itself of Communist leadership or lose all its rights and privileges as a union.

Catholic Charity Drive Scheduled May 3-17

BALTIMORE, April 9 (AP)—Archbishop Francis P. Keough said today the fifth annual Catholic Charity Appeal will be conducted May 3-17.

James Keelty Jr., who headed the 1952 drive, will be chairman and the Rev. Thomas A. Whelan executive secretary. The 1952 campaign raised $740,000 for the Associated Catholic Charities.

Kentucky Girl, 12, Gives Birth To Healthy Twins

RUSSELLVILLE, Ky., April 9 (AP)—Drowsy-eyed Ronald and Donald Brummett bawled with healthy lungs today to the delight of their 12-year-old mother.

The boys, 3-days-old now, were brought in for a brief visit with Mrs. Myrle Brummett at Logan County Hospital. Then they were returned to the incubators that will be their homes until they gain some weight.

The twins weighed 4 pounds apiece when they were born Monday.

Their father, William Brummett, 22, remains close by. He arrived from an Army base in Maryland, with some emergency help from the Red Cross, shortly before the twins were born.

The Brummetts were married last June. Mrs. Brummett "fibbed" that she was 16 and had her mother's consent to marry.

Governor To Name Study Commission On Court System

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 9 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin said tonight he will name a commission to prepare court legislation attractive enough to get through the General Assembly next year.

"I feel that our effort to improve the administration of justice in our lower courts—traffic and police—did not receive the attention it deserved at the hands of the General Assembly" in the session just ended, the Governor said.

Discussion was profitable, nonetheless, he added, and "we shall succeed in this reform."

The governor said Clarence W. Miles, Baltimore attorney, will serve as chairman of the commission. Other members will be appointed soon.

Marylander Will Claim Scot Title

SALISBURY, Md., April 9 (AP)—Adrian Ivor Dunbar plans to pull up stakes soon and go to Scotland to claim title as the 11th baronet of Dunbar.

He advertised today that he will sell his 3½-acre farm in Fairmount, Md., his home furnishings and his farm machinery. "I'm leaving the country," he said.

Dunbar will be trading his small Eastern Shore farm for a 2,000-acre estate in Scotland.

Reopening Of Truce Talks Not Broached

MUNSAN, Friday, April 10 (AP)—Rear Adm. John C. Daniel today said Allied and Red liaison teams hoped to complete and sign tomorrow an agreement for exchanging disabled war captives which would return 120 Americans, 20 British, 15 French, Turks, Canadians, Greeks and Dutch and about 450 South Koreans to the U. N. side.

The admiral said the Reds reported the breakdown of the Allied prisoner group during a 35-minute morning session at Panmunjom.

Agreement on exchanging disabled captives could lead to armistice in Korea.

Britons Are Released

Plans call for the Communists to turn over 600 sick and wounded—no more than 125 of them Americans—at the rate of 100 a day. The United Nations Command will deliver 5,100 North Korean and 700 Chinese sick and wounded at the rate of 500 a day.

(In another move in the Communist peace offensive, the North Korean radio at Pyongyang announced that seven British civilians held since early in the war had been freed in Manchuria for repatriation.)

A Communist correspondent at Panmunjom said it was unlikely Maj. Gen. William Dean would be among those sent home because the captured former 24th Division Commander was in excellent health. Dean is the highest ranking American captive. He was taken early in the war.

Agreement Reached

The Reds cleared the way late Thursday for the signing when they answered a handful of minor technical questions.

Earlier, almost complete agreement had been reached at Panmunjom on a nine-point exchange plan submitted by Rear Adm. John Daniel, chief Allied liaison officer.

Daniel said the Reds so far have made no mention in the liaison sessions of reopening the armistice talks broken off last fall.

Any armistice talk resumption depends upon a reply from the Red high command to a letter from Gen. Mark Clark, U. N. commander, sent last Sunday.

Hospital Train Ready

PUSAN, Korea, April 10 (AP)—An American hospital train left Pusan today for Munsan, where it will be used for sick and wounded Allied prisoners released by the Communists, Korean Railway officials said.

The train has six sleeping cars filled with hospital-type bunks and three freight cars.

Peron Relative Takes Own Life

BUENOS AIRES, April 9 (INS) — The Argentine government announced today the suicide of Juan Duarte, the brother of the late Eva Peron and until three days ago, private secretary to his brother-in-law, President Juan Peron.

A source close to the family disclosed that he ended his life with a bullet from a heavy caliber revolver at one o'clock in the morning in his apartment. His valet discovered the body when he went to awaken him seven hours later.

The text of what the Government called a farewell note to Peron from Duarte included an expression of deep affection for the President. At one point Duarte proclaimed:

"I love you with all my soul and say that the greatest man I ever knew is Peron."

An official Government statement said the suicide was the result of "a campaign of calumny."

The barely legible note, written in an obviously trembling hand, said: "wicked traitors" had tried to separate Duarte from the President.

Greece Devalues Money

ATHENS, April 9. (INS)—The Greek Government announced tonight it is devaluing its currency to a degree that doubles the value of the dollar, the British pound sterling and other foreign currencies.

The drachma henceforth will be pegged at 30,000 to the dollar instead of 15,000.

Navy Working On New Fuel To Give Subs Full Speed Underwater

WASHINGTON, April 9 (INS) — The Navy revealed today that it is working on a revolutionary type of power fuel that will enable conventional submarines to run at full speed for several hours while submerged.

The fuel, which presumably carries its own oxygen, will receive its first tryout in a 25-ton midget sub to be built by the Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corp., and to be launched sometime next year.

The development is expected to eliminate the 137-ton power battery that comprises nearly 10 per cent of the weight of fleet-type subs, while at the same time enabling underseas craft to make full submerged speed at depths greater than those reached by the snorkel "breathing tube."

Navy sources said the proportions of the projected U. S. Midget, being built as a target submarine for testing harbor defenses, proved ideal for the power experiment because a standard diesel engine originally designed for a truck could be modified to burn the new fuel.

The Navy refused for security reasons to divulge the chemical nature of the fuel, other than to say it is not the hydrogen-peroxide combination with which the Germans conducted numerous successful experiments in underwater propulsion.

It is known, however, that more than 100 types of rocket fuels carrying their own oxygen and capable of propelling missiles in outer space have been developed since World War II. The spokesmen said it is "good speculation" that the same principle will be applied to underwater power.

Asked why the new fuel could not be used for an entire mission, the spokesmen said the present project is limited to achieving "several hours" of submerged power.

This would equal the power duration of the big batteries now carried for submerged propulsion, while at the same time giving conventional subs greater underwater speed for the attack and getaway portions of their combat runs.

The two atomic submarines the Navy is building will be capable of full speed submerged for indefinite periods, but these cost more than $30,000,000 each. Modification of existing vessels to burn the new fuel may be possible at moderate cost.

The Navy's contract with an aircraft firm to build the first U. S. Midget has stirred wide speculation that a fleet of these may be added to American undersea strength.

Navy headquarters says, however, that at present only the one Midget is contemplated, and that it will not be a combat vessel. Reports that it will be remotely controlled or capable of firing missiles are denied. It is scheduled to carry a crew of three men.

Hearings On 5 Disputed Bills Set For Today

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 9 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin has scheduled five public hearings tomorrow on measures passed by the General Assembly, including one to permit two days of steeplechase racing with betting at Fair Hill, Md.

The Governor announced today the rapid-fire order of hearings requested by opponents of the bills. Sponsors also have been invited.

The Governor's office said hearing on a half-dozen other bills passed before the Legislature adjourned this week will be conducted early next month.

McKeldin leaves next week for a two-week vacation and speaking tour. He will sign a batch of measures yet to be selected in his Baltimore office Saturday.

He will hear arguments on these bills tomorrow:

Exempting renewals and transfers to new owners from the Baltimore ban against granting liquor licenses when more than half the property owners within 200 feet of the tavern protest. Neighborhood and citizens groups asked to be heard.

Allowing pari-mutuel betting on steeplechase races at Fair Hill in Cecil County the two Saturdays after Labor Day every year. Donald Cole, chairman of the Cecil Republican committee, said a number of churchmen and organizations had objected to this twist on the fashionable jump races staged every year by William du Pont, Jr.

Revising the Anne Arundel County police laws.

Amending the State corporation laws, on which a number of Garrett County businessmen asked to be heard.

Requiring the licensing of foster homes in Carroll and Howard Counties.

SON RESCUES FATHER — Loy Roy Lollar, 9, of Marion, Ill., shyly receives his father's thanks for saving his life. The 50-pound boy used a buoyant cushion from his father's overturned boat on nearby Crab Orchard Lake and pulled the father, Wayman, 42, to shore. Lollar, who weighs 200 pounds, collapsed in an effort to save two other occupants of the boat who drowned.

MATS Planes Grounded

WASHINGTON, April 9. (INS)—The Civil Aeronautics Administration grounded today 10 civilian planes flying the Pacific Airlift to Japan and Korea for the Military Air Transport Service.

The planes, which transport supplies and personnel to and from the Far East under Government contract, were grounded because of minor engine difficulties. All planes now are at Travis Air Force Base, Calif., and are expected to be in operation within four or five days.

Edward Cartwright, English clergyman, invented the power loom in 1785.

Faithful Dog Rescues Tot From Drowning

CORTLAND, N. Y., April 9 (AP)—A dog apparently rescued a 2-year-old boy from drowning today.

Leslie Seltzer was found on a small island in the Tioughnioga River, a half-hour after he had disappeared from home. He was soaking wet. His pal, a German police dog, stood guard over him.

Although Leslie was conscious, firemen administered oxygen before taking him to a hospital, where he was reported in good condition.

Mrs. Wayne Seltzer noticed her son was missing from the yard of their home, on the outskirts of this Central New York city, and started a search.

One of the searchers, Bruce Powers, 14, said the dog appeared "awfully concerned" and swam alongside as he waded ashore, with Leslie in his arms, through the waist-deep, swiftly moving stream.

Md. Contractor Dies

SYKESVILLE, Md., April 9 (AP)—Thomas F. Arrington, 49-year-old Carroll County construction contractor who handled work all over Maryland, was found dead in his home here yesterday of a heart ailment.

He carried out many construction jobs for the Gas and Electric Co. and the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. He was a member of the County's Democratic State Central Committee and on the county Board of Education.

Auto Insurance Firms Consider Rate Revision

NEW YORK, April 9 (AP)—Insurance companies are studying possible revision of the automobile insurance classification plan in general use across the nation.

But their spokesmen counseled today against any undue optimism by motorists that present rates would be cut sharply.

They said revision under study would be downward in preferred risk categories and upwards in others for more equitable distribution of insurance costs.

The Mutual Insurance Rating Bureau, representing a number of mutual casualty insurance companies, has filed new rate schedules in 11 Midwest and Western states in the past week.

A spokesman for the bureau said the rate structure in other states was being studied but that he could not say where or when other schedules would be filed, nor what the possible revisions would be.

The bureau spokesman declined to name the states in which the new rate schedules were filed, saying the bureau wished to give the state officials a chance to study them first.

Schedules filed in the West were understood to have cut rates up to 25 per cent for adults who drive less than 7,500 miles a year and for parents who control "part-time" driving by younger members of the family.

Rates would rise up to 30 per cent for youthful drivers with no family ties or restrictions.

Prof. Cyril Joad Dies In England

LONDON, April 9 (AP)—Prof. Cyril E. M. Joad, dapple-bearded wise-cracking philosopher who raised many a controversy by twitting Americans, died today. He was 61.

Noted for a caustic wit that often shocked Britons and stirred up international wrangles, Joad was replaced on BBC's "brain trust," a radio quiz program, in 1948. That was after he and the other four members of the panel had given Britain a "sanity test" on radio.

It also was after he had been convicted and fined 40 shillings ($5.60) for trying to sneak a $2 ride without a ticket on a third class railway coach. He never did explain what he was trying to prove by that episode.

An agnostic for years, he died a devout believer as a member of the Church of England. He once said that when the mind becomes old it "becomes matted with God-webs."

Retired Minister Dies

BALTIMORE, April 9 (AP)—The Rev. Thomas Edwin Copes, 85-year-old retired Methodist minister, died today in Maryland General Hospital where he had been a patient since last Friday.

Car Dealers Plan Probe Of Alleged Used Auto Racket

BALTIMORE, April 9 (AP) — The president of the Associated Used Car Dealers of Maryland said today the organization has scheduled a meeting for tomorrow night to discuss charges that some dealers in Baltimore have been levying exorbitant finance rates.

Charles R. Miller, head of the dealer group, said about 20 members have demanded that the meeting be arranged.

Miller said it was the first time in the association's eight-year history that an extraordinary session has been called.

Miller said only a few dealers are responsible for the charges of usury and misleading advertising which brought criticism from the Better Business Bureau and promises of an investigation from the Federal Trade Commission.

Miller said he believed newspapers which accept false advertising are as guilty as dealers who place it.

He added that the principal business of the meeting will be to consider adoption of a code of ethics for advertising proposed by the Better Business Bureau.

Miller said the organization recently expelled three members for unethical practice.

Pinball Machines Are Illegal, Says State's Attorney

SALISBURY, Md., April 9 (AP) — Wicomico County State's Attorney Hamilton P. Fox, Jr., said a Circuit Court jury decision opens the way for confiscation of all pinball machines that pay off in free games.

In a test case tried yesterday the jury held that a "pin bowler" game that paid off in free games constituted a gambling devvice.

J. Edward Waller, a partner in a Salisbury confectionary store, had brought action to recover a machine seized 15 months ago by sheriff and police officers. His attorneys argued that the ban against gambling for money or "any other thing," did not extend to anything so intangible as free games.

Court Says Congress Should Pay Inventor

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP)—The U. S. Court of Claims suggests that Congress pay a Maryland inventor $5,000 for expenses in demonstrating his invention to the Government.

The suggestion is in an opinion in the case of Otho F. Hipkins and trustees of the Hipkins Traction Device Co. of Port Deposit, Md.

The court was asked by a Congressional resolution to pass on claims of $490,000 by the company for demonstration expenses and for alleged unauthorized use by the armed forces of Hipkins' traction invention for trucks.

The opinion said the government has not used the invention as claimed by Hipkins. It did suggest payment of $5,000 for demonstration expense.

Fockler Commissioned

HAGERSTOWN, Md., April 9 (AP)—George S. Fockler, a Democrat, was commissioned by Governor McKeldin today as a member of the Washington County Board of Commissioners.

He will serve out the unexpired term of Winslow F. Burhans, who resigned to become Mayor of Hagerstown. The term will run another two years.

My New York

by Mel Heimer

NEW YORK — I was still puzzled and pondering Ernest Hemingway's "Green Hills of Africa," and wondering what is was that made some men want to put a bullet into, say a tiger in full flight across the fields—a sight more beautiful than any Rembrandt painting—when I met up with the Denises, Armand and Michaela, who may at this point be the world's most celebrated explorers.

They not only agreed with me. When I mentioned Hemingway, you'd have thought I'd said a dirty word.

We were sitting in Danny's Hideaway, a comfortable East Side restaurant with atmosphere about as far removed from a salt lick in Kenya as possible. The orange-haired Michaela, for whom Broadway must have invented the phrase "Listen—this is a doll," was flat and to the point about men who shoot animals. "They're pathological," she said.

The powerfully-built Armand, who has traveled more than 120,000 miles in Africa to film animals and occasionally bring one back for a zoo, elaborated a little. "I should think that the useless taking of life would be enough to stop any man," he said, for once sober—he and his lovely wife are always laughing, always having themselves a ball—"but even if he has no sensitivity, a hunter might sit back and consider the sad fact that wild life is vanishing from the world at an appalling rate.

"The interesting aspects of the world are disappearing and the planet is becoming gray and drear. Wild life always has made this world interesting—and now Michaela and I are aghast to the point where we have become fanatical conservationists."

I drank to that.

They shook their heads over Hemingway, who has been killing animals since he was a boy in the woods of the midwest, and they even shed a tear or two for Bob Ruark, the writer, who seems to be trying to fill Hemingway's footsteps.

"Hunters always are beating their breasts about the sportsmanlike aspect of their silly, miserable antics," Armand said. "You know—don't shoot a lion from a sitting position, or something like that. Sportsmanlike—rats. Just let one of those hunters take on the lion or elephant without a gun." Michaela nodded grimly.

"I'll bet Freud would have had a field day phycho-analyzing hunters," she said.

Only once in all his exploring history has Armand — who's here finishing the cutting of his newest film, "Below the Sahara" (he also did "Goona, Goona"; "Dark Rapture" and "Savage Splendor") — had to have an animal shot. That was on the Albert Reserve in the Belgian Congo, when a truck he was driving accidentally bumped a lion cub—and the cub's mother charged like an enraged lioness and made straight for a cameraman atop the truck.

Denis' mechanic, sitting in the back seat, poked a rhino gun out the window and blew the lioness chest off...after which incidentally, she ran for 60 yards before toppling over with her foot in the air, dead as Stalin.

New York troubles the Denises—"We get caught in the swinging doors and nearly get killed." Michaela says — but they try to take it in stride, as befits a couple who were married 14,000 feet up in the Bolivian mountains. That was five years ago.

Armand, who had kept running across this flame-haired dish on his expeditions (she was a fashion designer who used to quit work regularly to hunt for ceramics in foreign lands), was stuck with her in Potosi, "the silver city of the Spaniards" in Bolivia.

"I was a sinister spinster on a mule," she said, giggling, "and at 5 a. m. he came over to my caravan, shook me, awoke me and said "Would you like to get married?" We were married that night. One of the witnesses was the Potosi town drunk, who we gave two quarts of burning alcohol and propped up in a corner."

In 20 years, Armand Denis has been charged by elephants and rhinos, clawed at by lions and struck at by snakes. He hasn't killed one yet. He hasn't even killed a chicken. How can you help but like a guy like that?

Ike has Taft and Martin on his team. But they are working without television.

One thing is for sure. There is no man's collar on the Congressional laundry frank.

When Franklin Roosevelt wanted to top Congress he threw another loggerhead on one of his fireside chats. He took his case to the highest court in the world—public indifference.

Ike is too much of a sportsman to pull that gimmick. He will play ball with Congress. But he will not play tiddly-winks with soggy waffles.

No real reason for Congress to have its back up higher than a stuffed wildcat. But it has and that's those.

Ike's get-together lunches didn't make much difference in the Congressional picture. He already knew what they looked like sitting down.

The Biggest Why

Science assumes that there is order in the universe and that man can understand it. Hence science has two jobs: to find examples of order, and to explain them. To do the one, it asks what; to do the other, it asks why.

In reply to the what, it notes such facts as that water never runs uphill, that spring never comes in January, that the sun rises and sets once in a day.

In reply to the why it formulates theories about gravitation and electromagnetism and matter and energy. Each answer to why, if it is even partly right, brings man closer to understanding the order in the universe.

Albert Einstein, in his theories of relativity, has tried to answer the biggest why of all. He has spent his life working toward a theory that will comprise within itself the answers to all the smaller whys. His special and general theories of relativity have carried science a long way toward this goal of unification, and they have met every experimental test of them so far.

But these theories, promulgated in 1905 and 1915, fell short of the goal. They did not provide a common explanation, expressible in the higher language of mathematics, for gravitation and electromagnetism.

Gravitation and electromagnetism both exist. If the primary assumption of science is correct, they both manifest orderly behavior and are both subject to the same ultimate laws of order. But the earlier theories of relativity did not reconcile them. The observed facts about both could only be reconciled by postulating an alien element of disorder in the universe.

The quantum theory, the behavior of electrons, and other matters similarly failed to fit into the total relativity picture.

This bothered Einstein. To make it unnecessary to postulate disorder, he has come up with a refinement of the relativity theories, which he calls the Unified Field Theory. The Unified Field Theory is a mathematical statement which has yet to be tested experimentally; nor is it yet clear what tests can be made. Einstein, at 74, cannot hope to see its verification. He will never be certain whether he was right or wrong.

But Einstein, of all scientists, has come closest to answering the biggest why.

Communism In Colleges

Much hard thinking has been devoted to the policy statement that has just been issued by the Association of American Universities. Prepared by a committee of five university heads under the chairmanship of Dr. A. Whitney Griswold of Yale, it comes to grips with the question of communism in colleges.

This question has been raised by congressional investigations into the infiltration of the American educational system by Communist teachers. Communists have been eager to cry out that academic freedom is in danger.

This statement, entitled "The Rights and Responsibilities of Universities and Their Faculties," cuts through much of the current confusion It is emphatically clear on the point that their faculties must have freedom of expression, because a university must enjoy free enterprise in the search for truth. But is is just as clear that faculty members must be not only competent but "diligent and loyal in citizenship"—indeed they are bound to be honest and independent in forming their judgments and expressing their conclusions, in the classrooms and elsewhere.

From these principles the statement draws the conclusion that no true scholar can adhere to "such a regime as that of Russia and its satellites" and that no such adherent "has any place in a university." Universities should "re-examine" the qualifications of teachers who have refused to testify on grounds of self-incrimination. Law-breakers deserve no special treatment merely because they are faculty members.

The statement declares that universities must share the general concern over the menace of communism. They should therefore co-operate in congressional investigations. All in all, while this statement may not be the last word on a subject that has worried many parents of college students—communism in education—it is a responsible and thoughtful effort to face its main issues.

Perchance To Dream?

Daydreaming has a bad reputation, and probably deserves it. Even poets, who themselves stand accused of the vice, have said many a harsh word about dreams and dreamers. Shakespeare's Caesar says contemptuously of the soothsayer: "He is a dreamer; let us leave him," and passes on.

But today's psychiatrists, much as they respect Freud's pioneering work, do not all condemn daydreaming. Maybe it serves a useful purpose — as Dr. Boyd McCandless, director of the child welfare research station at Ohio University, remarked the other day.

A perfectly adjusted child would not daydream, McCandless conceded. Most children feel more or less anxiety. A reasonable amount of daydreaming may help them cope with it. So a child who is daydreaming may really be applying a wholesome measure of psychotherapy to his anxieties. If so, he is showing better sense than the adults who try to stop him.

There are, in short, good and bad day dreams. Dreams which are a substitute for action are harmful. But it is not necessary that dreams be of the escapist variety as too many of them undoubtedly are. Shaemas O'Sheel wasn't wholly wrong when he wrote: "He whom a dream hath possessed knoweth no more of doubting."

Though he might prefer to qualify it a bit, Dr. McCandless seems to have been saying approximately the same thing.

It's A Republic

Representative Van Zandt, Pennsylvania congressman, is the latest to urge that Americans refer to their country as a republic, not a democracy. The same thought was expressed several years ago by the then president of the National Association of Manufacturers. It has been stressed repeatedly by several newspapers and anti-leftist columnists.

It seems strange that it is necessary to remind Americans that they live under a republican form of government. In fact there never was a suggestion to the contrary until Woodrow Wilson used the phrase, "Make the world safe for democracy." In recent years so-called liberals have gone hog wild in efforts to convert the republic into a democracy—on paper, at least. But, as Congressman Van Zandt says, this is a republic.

How To Keep Well

Frozen Food Development

Frozen food is now a major industry. Without the slightest difficulty, most shoppers can obtain at a moment's notice a wide range of foods varying from duck to melon balls. Frozen products are not only palatable and nutritious but safe and easy to prepare.

Freezing is only one way in which foods are preserved but it appears to be popular, according to production figures. Its safety stems from the fact that chemical changes and deterioration of the food take place more slowly at lower temperatures. Furthermore, when properly stored in this manner, there is minimal loss of flavor, vitamins, and other nutritional elements. The secret depends upon the selection, preparation, and packaging of the materials as well as the freezing rate and storage facilities.

Selection is important because most of the prime fruits and vegetables have the highest vitamin content. Their value along this line depends upon climate, sunlight, and soil, hence processing usually is done in parts of the country where such conditions are ideal. They must be harvested at just the right time for best appearance and flavor. Speed also is essential because after being picked the produce deteriorates rapidly while waiting to be frozen.

Processing requires blanching to inactivate certain enzymes, to retard loss of carotene and ascorbic acid during storage, and to prevent development of off-flavors. There is some loss of water soluble vitamins, up to 16 per cent of vitamin C, for example, as a result of the procedure. But the industry has minimized such losses by shortening the blanching time via the use of boiling water or flowing steam.

The rate of freezing need not be as rapid as was thought previously. Flavor and vitamins are preserved even tho freezing takes eight to 12 hours in contrast to the old idea of bringing the temperature of the package to 0 degrees F. within and hour and a half to two hours. Quick freezing prevents rupturing of the cell walls by ice crystals, which in turn also delays decomposition after thawing. Slower freezing (longer than 12 hours) destroys flavor and leads to leakage of soluble proteins and other nutrients.

Most of our home freezing units are now gauged to freeze foods properly so that there is no occasion for concern from this point of view. On the other hand, nutritional value is decreased when the temperature of the freezer rises to 10 degrees F. or fluctuates between 0 to 20 degrees F. This is particularly true if stored for long periods. The ascorbic acid loss in peas, for example, is 50 per cent, in beans 80 per cent, and strawberries 65 per cent if kept for a year in the 0 to 20 degrees F. range. Storage for this long a time calls for 0 degrees F. or lower altho orange juice kept at 8 and 12.2 degrees F. for a year and a half showed no loss of vitamin C. In another study, no carotene was lost from 27 different vegetables stored at 0 degrees F. for less than three months but after six months, there was some loss. After six month of storage at 6 degrees F., the thiamine content of snap beans was reduced to 10 to 20 per cent but thiamine in pork was not affected in a temperature of 0 to 20 degrees F.

TOMORROW: Breastfeeding again is popular.

ITCHING EAR CANALS

J. H. writes: My husband's ears itch badly and every day a scab or tough coat forms over the opening. What could be wrong?

REPLY

This condition is known as otitis externa and a fungous infection is responsible in the majority of cases. Laboratory tests should be done to determine the specific culprit before effective treatment can be instituted.

DORMANT STATE

T. Y. writes: What is meant by smoldering rheumatism in a boy of 12?

REPLY

In this condition, rheumatic fever continues to run a persistent but mild course. There is slight fever with moderate aching and the individual is almost but not quite well. Physicians prefer the term, rheumatic state, for this disorder.

SILVER NOSEDROPS

W. T. writes: Is it harmful to use argyol nosedrops every night for post-nasal drip?

REPLY

Yes, especially when the drops are instilled nightly over a long period of time because there is danger of developing argyria. In this condition, silver is absorbed through the nasal membranes and deposited in the skin, where it produces a grayish discoloration. Let's be reasonable and stop this medication as it seldom cures post-nasal drip.

HANSEN'S DISEASE

L. T. writes: Is leprosy curable?

REPLY

Like tuberculosis, the disease can be arrested—temporarily in many and permanently, in a few. The outlook is determined by the type of infection present.

McCarthy And Dulles Enjoy Stassen-Meat; Hell's Canyon Project Proves Hot Spot; Bureau Of Standards Should Be Above Party Politics

WASHINGTON—Senator Joe McCarthy was hurrying back to his office. He had just lunched with John Foster Dulles where the secretary of State stroked the Wisconsin senator's fur back into place after Mutual Security Boss Harold Stassen had ruffled it by condemning McCarthy's private agreement with Greek shipowners.

As McCarthy bounced into his office, reporters started firing questions about the luncheon.

"Girls," he said to his staff in a loud voice for all to hear," "I'm going into my room. If you hear any news about Stassen jumping out of a tall building, let me know at once."

"What did you and Secretary Dulles have for lunch?" queried a reporter.

"It was very pleasant," replied Joe. "Stassen-meat."

NOTE — Stassen was the man McCarthy boomed for President in 1948, worked for him diligently at the GOP convention in Philadelphia.

Ike's Power Problems

Genial Donald McKay, the hard-working secretary of the Interior, is having a tough time making up his mind about the biggest remaining water- power project in the United States—Hell's Canyon.

In fact, he's very much on the spot.

Probably the reason is that he can't get a definite decision from the White House.

During the Presidential campaign, General Eisenhower almost took a stand on this dynamite-laden power project between Idaho and Oregon. But he didn't. He still hasn't.

Last summer Ike was invited to a meeting of Western state governors in Boise at the office of Idaho's Governor Len Jordan, where it was expected that he would come out for private development of the Snake River by the Idaho Power Company.

However, opponents of the private utilities, including his brother Milton, got very busy backstage. They inspired several newspaper editorials warning Ike that the question of public power vs. private utilities was full of political headaches. Roscoe Flemming of the Denver Post also published an open letter to Eisenhower warning him of the pitfall at Boise. So Ike sidestepped, took no stand as between private or government development of Hell's Canyon.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Gracie Pfost of Nampa, Idaho, runing for Congress on the Democratic ticket, met the issue head-on, came out for public power, and was elected. Not only was she the only Democrat elected from Idaho, but she defeated a sitting Republican.

Ike Hesitates

Meanwhile the Eisenhower administration has hesitated. Unfortunately it can't hesitate much longer. For the Idaho Power Company has put Secretary McKay and the White House squarely on the spot by asking the Federal Power Commission for a license to build the Ox Bow project. This is a smaller dam on the Snake River which would be swallowed up and flooded if the larger Hell's Canyon dam is built.

If Hell's Canyon is developed, there is no use letting the Idaho Power Company build the Ox Bow dam; so Secretary McKay has got to make up his mind soon. Also he's got to tell Congress how he feels.

Congress asked him two months ago for an opinion on developing Hell's Canyon, but McKay ducked. He has also asked the FPC for an extension of time to reply regarding the Ox Bow dam. But he will have to reply before May.

Meanwhile, McKay is looking anxiously in the direction of the White House waiting for the cue.

NOTE—Hell's Canyon is the last ideal dam site on the North American Continent. It has the deepest hole for impounding water, does not inundate farmland, is located on a natural canyon where the water can easily be stored. It will supply 1,400,000 kilowatts of energy, and all its water will be used in seven drops to the Pacific.

Battle Of The Standards

To get the full significance of the firing of the director of the Bureau of Standards on a charge of scientific unfairness you have to appreciate the ultra-sensitive job performed by the bureau.

It is the custodian and tester of the scientific standards of the nation. In a vault in the South Building is carefully guarded the National Standard Meter, from which come such measurements as the foot, the yard, etc. Industry relies heavily on this meter and periodically sends its master gauge blocks to the Bureau of Standards for calibration tests.

The United States Of Europe

Since the fall of the Roman Empire left Europe in disorder, constructive minds have often searched for a European unanimity of purpose and action. Charlemagne's empire might have spread out to include the whole of Europe, as it actually did include most of Western Europe. This empire fell apart.

Since Charlemagne, there have been a number of efforts to unite Europe by force, the two most notable in modern times being the empires of Napoleon and Hitler. But force does not change the mind of man, and when the use of military power lessens, the old lesions open again. The empires of both Napoleon and Hitler, having been established by military force, were destroyed by military force. After Napoleon, the peace was maintained by the Concert of Europe, but it was a 99-year peace without unity. In fact, during the 99 years of peace, nationalistic differences were emphasized. World War I put an end to that peace and in Europe articulated an unrealistic nationalism.

An effort was made through the League of Nations to establish a synthetic unity in Europe, and for that matter in all the world. This failed long before World War II because it was a political effort without either an economic or moral basis. Hitler's empire employed several methods to achieve unity—political propaganda, the elimination of population elements by mass murders, the projection of Nietzsche's ideas concerning an elite race, the Uebermensch, the Superman, the integration of all Germanic peoples into an economic state and, finally, war. Whereas Hitler might have united Europe, he failed.

The Russians tried to unify Europe under the leadership of Stalin and by the creation of a pseudo-religious movement out of Marxism. By ingenious diplomacy at Teheran and Walta, by propaganda among the peoples and infiltration into governments, by economic unification, the absorptions of weaker nations on her borders, and by war, Russia has built one of the largest and best integrated empires in history. Yet, already there are signs that the period of growth has been arrested. Soviet Russia is standing still; her satellites are uneasy; her missionaries and agents abroad are frightened.

Meanwhile, the successor to the League of Nations, the United Nations, continues to labor for some kind of unity. The United Nations Charter is so involved a document and its methods are so complex that progress toward European unity had to be made outside it, in a series of conferences and agreements which have been astonishingly successful.

The first of these was the formation of the Benelux Customs Union in September 1944. This is an economic union of Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. It has functoned admirably. If its principles could be extended to the whole of non-Russian Europe, the advantages would be enormous.

The Economic Commission for Europe was set up in March 1947, and included Russian satellites as well as free countries—Belgium, Byelorussia, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, France, Greece, Iceland, Luxembourg, Netherlands, Norway, Poland, Sweden, Turkey, Ukraine United Kingdom, Russia and Yugoslavia. This was too involved to be realistic.

The Dunkirk Treaty of Alliance was signed between Great Britain and France on March 4, 1947, and was followed by the Brussels Treaty of 1948 between the Benelux countries and France and Great Britain, strengthening the Benelux concept of a European customs union.

This was followed by the agreement for the Organization for European Economic Co-operation (the Marshall Plan) in Paris on April 16, 1948. This included the countries which we now term Western Europe, supported by the United States. It is to be noted that Turkey and Greece here take their places among Western countries.

On December 28, 1948, in London, the international Ruhr Authority, among Belgium, France, West Germany, Netherlands, Luxembourg, United Kingdom and the United States, was arranged, taking that area of contention out of danger to Germany and France.

Then came the North Atlantic Treaty (Washington, 1949) which established a comity among Western European countries and actually stopped the further advance of Russia in Europe. It was strengthened by the Council of Europe (1949) and the European Defense Community (1952). These latter agreements are popularly referred to as NATO.

One other step toward European unity must be referred to. This is the European Coal and Steel Community (the Schuman Plan), agreed to in 1951 and now actually functioning. This may save the economy of Western Europe.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON.—Despite all the alibis and the inspired excuses that have been planted here and there by the Pentagon and its apologists, the truth is coming out about the ammunition shortage in Korea.

The most damaging evidence thus far has come from Robert Lovett, former Secretary of Defense, and Assistant Secretary Wilfred J. McNeil. The Senate subcommittee of the Armed Services committee now has received confirmation of the main points made by General Van Fleet.

The facts are that there has been a serious shortage during the Korean War — and that it has been overcome. But the red tape and cumbersome machinery which gave rise to the shortage has not been removed, and something of the same kind in other phases of our armed services operation could happen again.

Mr. Lovett is one of the most candid and forthright public officials that Washington has seen in many years — and in many respects perhaps the most nonpolitical. For what he said in his testimony damages the record of the Truman administration of which he was a cabinet officer. Doubtless he had a choice of pussyfooting and presenting alibis for political reasons or telling the whole story as a means of securing once and for all a corrective that would prevent a recurrence of the weakness in our defense setup.

Shortages World Wide

While there were world-wide shortages of ammunition—not only in Korea but in Europe—the fact remains that America's productive capacity was equal to the emergency and was not given a chance to function. The planning was bad—and Mr. Lovett frankly admits it. He tried to put the finger of blame at the time on particular places in the complicated organization of the Pentagon, but he was unable to do so. He did point out that contracts took a long time to negotiate—too long. One reason, of course, is the restriction placed by Congress itself on the letting of contracts. Politics enters into it.

Thus the Army can't always award a contract where it can get the job done most quickly. It must bear in mind the political pressures which say that big business gets too many contracts and small business doesn't get enough.

Over 200 Operators

Mr. McNeil testified that a contract sometimes goes to as many as 42 sections or divisions and involves some 200 operations..

As a consequence of all this, the Senate subcommittee decided to delve into the methods by which contracts are awarded and to find out just who all along the line was responsibile for the delays. A resolution asking for the detailed information was adopted.

The real question is being sidestepped by some of the Pentagon officers who are feeding the press stories that General Van Fleet couldn't have resumed the offensive in June 1951, even if permitted to do so. All the messages haven't been made public, but it is significant that stories are being inspired that make it appear that General Van Fleet himself didn't want to go on the offensive for fear of too many casualties. Actually the General wanted the Pentagon to move into a big amphibious operation. He needed ammunition for offensive operations of various kinds. But for the type of operation he wanted — namely, an end run—the situation could have been handled with the Navy and the available supplies. For it did not involve a continuance of warfare over entrenched positions.

Tried To Cure Delay

Mr. Lovett repudiated any suggestion that the warfare in Korea, insofar as withholding ammunition was concerned, was related to the type of war the State Department wanted to conduct. But he did say that he tried for many months to cure the delays in getting ammunition to Korea and that he didn't succeed until December 1952 — which is about the time General Eisenhower as president-elect made his trip to Korea. Mr. Eisenhower referred guardedly in his public statements then to shortages of supply.

What Mr. Lovett has disclosed will affect not merely the ammunition controversy but the whole set-up in the Pentagon. Has America a command staff which can handle instantly a large-war operation? Has the Pentagon an assured system of supply for wartime? Does the National Defense Act, which set up a big bureaucracy on top of the Armed Services themselves, provide too much machinery, and is a streamlining needed? These are questions which are being asked as Senator Byrd, Democrat, characterizes the disclosures about delays and red tape as "the most colossal and terrifying thing I have ever known."

Certainly a Congressional committee is doing a real job here, notwithstanding the efforts in some quarters to minimize the importance of the inquiry.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Target: Germany

WASHINGTON

The next target of the Soviet peace offensive is almost certainly Germany. On this point, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and his advisers see eye to eye with the leading American officials. Both the Americans and the Germans are so convinced that a new Soviet move in Germany is inevitable that this prospect, and what to do about it, have been the chief subject of anxious discussions since Adenauer came to Washington.

The sense of anxiety is conveyed by one official's remarks—"I keep wondering if the Russians are going to ask for a conference on Germany this afternoon at 2 o'clock, or maybe at 3." Some advisers are urging President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles boldly to seize the initiative, perhaps themselves proposing a conference on a German peace treaty, based on free elections and a united Germany.

The American leaders are certainly considering some such course, and they have certainly discussed the matter with Chancellor Adenauer. Yet the issue is in doubt, partly because the whole problem has produced a curious schizophrenic reaction in the State Department. The prospect of renewed negotiations with the Russians about Germany fill some officials with something very like panic. Others, while recognizing the grave dangers involved, believe that it is just possible that a time of great opportunity is at hand.

The panic is understandable. Even a seemingly serious offer by the Soviets to negotiate a reasonable German peace treaty could throw the Western alliance into an uproar. It could bring the already faltering European army project to a dead halt. It could persuade the Germans that only the Americans stood in the way of a united Germany.

If a German peace treaty should actually be negotiated, moreover, the basis of Western strategy will be twisted out of shape. The Soviets will certainly demand the withdrawal of all occupation troops as a condition of agreement. This is, at least in German eyes, by no means too high a price to pay for German unity. But where else on the continent, fearful officials ask, can American troops be stationed? And how can the West be sure that a sovereign Germany will not ultimately ally itself with the Soviet Union?

Yet some of the bolder policy makers hold that such fears are irrational. It is almost inconceivable, they say, that the Soviets are really serious about a German peace treaty. If the Soviets are merely planning a wrecking operation, they say, it is easy enough to find this out. And if the Soviets are really ready to get out of East Germany, then we are well on the way to winning the cold war.

These bolder spirits point to certain clear tests of Soviet intentions. There will be no German peace treaty without an Austrian peace treaty—this is already agreed among the Western allies. With both treaties signed, the Soviets would be legally obliged to withdraw all Russian troops back to the Soviet borders—and the Western powers would demand absolute proof that this obligation had been fulfilled. Another test is the eastern territory taken from Germany by Poland. Can the Soviets wrench this territory from their Polish satellite, and turn it over to Poland's ancient enemy, while Soviet troops were being withdrawn from Poland?

Perhaps the hardest test of all are the free all-German elections which are the West's first condition for a German settlement. Many experienced officials believe that the Soviets will ostensibly agree to free elections. But can they really do so? Unless all observers are dead wrong, Communism would be overwhelmingly repudiated in East Germany, in the first free election Communism ever faced. Thus the last fig leaf would be stripped from the world Communist movement.

Add such sacrifices as the loss of the German uranium mines and the forward Soviet bases in Europe. Add the risk that a united, strongly anti-Communist Germany would turn to the West, whatever might be written into a peace treaty—a risk which certainly haunts the Kremlin as much as the fear of a pro-Soviet Germany haunts the West. These are some of the reasons why Eisenhower and Dulles are being advised to adopt a bold aggressive policy.

Whatever the final decision, it already seems likely that the new Administration is to be faced with a difficult and challenging time when, as one official remarked, "we've got to reshuffle the whole deck and start over again." Painful as it was, the Korean war simplified matters for the last Administration. As long as the aggression in Korea continued, direct East-West contact was ruled out. Korea thus acted as a sort of shield behind which the effort to strengthen the West could go on. It is now quite probably the Kremlin's intention to remove the shield.

If so, it will be most dangerous for the Western powers to remain frozen in position. Here it is worth recalling a remark which Berlin's brave Mayor, Ernst Reuter, made some time ago to one of these reporters. He pointed to a map of divided Germany on the wall of his office. "No one with a sense of history," Reuter said, "can believe that Germany will stay divided for very much longer." In national policy, it is best to be on the side of history.

The Biggest Why

Science assumes that there is order in the universe and that man can understand it. Hence science has two jobs: to find examples of order, and to explain them. To do the one, it asks what; to do the other, it asks why.

In reply to the what, it notes such facts as that water never runs uphill, that spring never comes in January, that the sun rises and sets once in a day.

In reply to the why it formulates theories about gravitation and electromagnetism and matter and energy. Each answer to why, if it is even partly right, brings man closer to understanding the order in the universe.

Albert Einstein, in his theories of relativity, has tried to answer the biggest why of all. He has spent his life working toward a theory that will comprise within itself the answers to all the smaller whys. His special and general theories of relativity have carried science a long way toward this goal of unification, and they have met every experimental test of them so far.

But these theories, promulgated in 1905 and 1915, fell short of the goal. They did not provide a common explanation, expressible in the higher language of mathematics, for gravitation and electromagnetism.

Gravitation and electromagnetism both exist. If the primary assumption of science is correct, they both manifest orderly behavior and are both subject to the same ultimate laws of order. But the earlier theories of relativity did not reconcile them. The observed facts about both could only be reconciled by postulating an alien element of disorder in the universe.

The quantum theory, the behavior of electrons, and other matters similarly failed to fit into the total relativity picture.

This bothered Einstein. To make it unnecessary to postulate disorder, he has come up with a refinement of the relativity theories, which he calls the Unified Field Theory. The Unified Field Theory is a mathematical statement which has yet to be tested experimentally; nor is it yet clear what tests can be made. Einstein, at 74, cannot hope to see its verification. He will never be certain whether he was right or wrong.

But Einstein, of all scientists, has come closest to answering the biggest why.

Communism In Colleges

Much hard thinking has been devoted to the policy statement that has just been issued by the Association of American Universities. Prepared by a committee of five university heads under the chairmanship of Dr. A. Whitney Griswold of Yale, it comes to grips with the question of communism in colleges.

This question has been raised by congressional investigations into the infiltration of the American educational system by Communist teachers. Communists have been eager to cry out that academic freedom is in danger.

This statement, entitled "The Rights and Responsibilities of Universities and Their Faculties," cuts through much of the current confusion It is emphatically clear on the point that their faculties must have freedom of expression, because a university must enjoy free enterprise in the search for truth. But is is just as clear that faculty members must be not only competent but "diligent and loyal in citizenship"—indeed they are bound to be honest and independent in forming their judgments and expressing their conclusions, in the classrooms and elsewhere.

From these principles the statement draws the conclusion that no true scholar can adhere to "such a regime as that of Russia and its satellites" and that no such adherent "has any place in a university." Universities should "re-examine" the qualifications of teachers who have refused to testify on grounds of self-incrimination. Law-breakers deserve no special treatment merely because they are faculty members.

The statement declares that universities must share the general concern over the menace of communism. They should therefore co-operate in congressional investigations. All in all, while this statement may not be the last word on a subject that has worried many parents of college students—communism in education—it is a responsible and thoughtful effort to face its main issues.

Perchance To Dream?

Daydreaming has a bad reputation, and probably deserves it. Even poets, who themselves stand accused of the vice, have said many a harsh word about dreams and dreamers. Shakespeare's Caesar says contemptuously of the soothsayer: "He is a dreamer; let us leave him," and passes on.

But today's psychiatrists, much as they respect Freud's pioneering work, do not all condemn daydreaming. Maybe it serves a useful purpose — as Dr. Boyd McCandless, director of the child welfare research station at Ohio University, remarked the other day.

A perfectly adjusted child would not daydream, McCandless conceded. Most children feel more or less anxiety. A reasonable amount of daydreaming may help them cope with it. So a child who is daydreaming may really be applying a wholesome measure of psychotherapy to his anxieties. If so, he is showing better sense than the adults who try to stop him.

There are, in short, good and bad day dreams. Dreams which are a substitute for action are harmful. But it is not necessary that dreams be of the escapist variety as too many of them undoubtedly are. Shaemas O'Sheel wasn't wholly wrong when he wrote: "He whom a dream hath possessed knoweth no more of doubting."

Though he might prefer to qualify it a bit, Dr. McCandless seems to have been saying approximately the same thing.

It's A Republic

Representative Van Zandt, Pennsylvania congressman, is the latest to urge that Americans refer to their country as a republic, not a democracy. The same thought was expressed several years ago by the then president of the National Association of Manufacturers. It has been stressed repeatedly by several newspapers and anti-leftist columnists.

It seems strange that it is necessary to remind Americans that they live under a republican form of government. In fact there never was a suggestion to the contrary until Woodrow Wilson used the phrase, "Make the world safe for democracy." In recent years so-called liberals have gone hog wild in efforts to convert the republic into a democracy—on paper, at least. But, as Congressman Van Zandt says, this is a republic.

Frozen Food Development

Frozen food is now a major industry. Without the slightest difficulty, most shoppers can obtain at a moment's notice a wide range of foods varying from duck to melon balls. Frozen products are not only palatable and nutritious but safe and easy to prepare.

Freezing is only one way in which foods are preserved but it appears to be popular, according to production figures. Its safety stems from the fact that chemical changes and deterioration of the food take place more slowly at lower temperatures. Furthermore, when properly stored in this manner, there is minimal loss of flavor, vitamins, and other nutritional elements. The secret depends upon the selection, preparation, and packaging of the materials as well as the freezing rate and storage facilities.

Selection is important because most of the prime fruits and vegetables have the highest vitamin content. Their value along this line depends upon climate, sunlight, and soil, hence processing usually is done in parts of the country where such conditions are ideal. They must be harvested at just the right time for best appearance and flavor. Speed also is essential because after being picked the produce deteriorates rapidly while waiting to be frozen.

Processing requires blanching to inactivate certain enzymes, to retard loss of carotene and ascorbic acid during storage, and to prevent development of off-flavors. There is some loss of water soluble vitamins, up to 16 per cent of vitamin C, for example, as a result of the procedure. But the industry has minimized such losses by shortening the blanching time via the use of boiling water or flowing steam.

The rate of freezing need not be as rapid as was thought previously. Flavor and vitamins are preserved even tho freezing takes eight to 12 hours in contrast to the old idea of bringing the temperature of the package to 0 degrees F. within and hour and a half to two hours. Quick freezing prevents rupturing of the cell walls by ice crystals, which in turn also delays decomposition after thawing. Slower freezing (longer than 12 hours) destroys flavor and leads to leakage of soluble proteins and other nutrients.

Most of our home freezing units are now gauged to freeze foods properly so that there is no occasion for concern from this point of view. On the other hand, nutritional value is decreased when the temperature of the freezer rises to 10 degrees F. or fluctuates between 0 to 20 degrees F. This is particularly true if stored for long periods. The ascorbic acid loss in peas, for example, is 50 per cent, in beans 80 per cent, and strawberries 65 per cent if kept for a year in the 0 to 20 degrees F. range. Storage for this long a time calls for 0 degrees F. or lower altho orange juice kept at 8 and 12.2 degrees F. for a year and a half showed no loss of vitamin C. In another study, no carotene was lost from 27 different vegetables stored at 0 degrees F. for less than three months but after six months, there was some loss. After six month of storage at 6 degrees F., the thiamine content of snap beans was reduced to 10 to 20 per cent but thiamine in pork was not affected in a temperature of 0 to 20 degrees F.

TOMORROW: Breastfeeding again is popular.

ITCHING EAR CANALS

J. H. writes: My husband's ears itch badly and every day a scab or tough coat forms over the opening. What could be wrong?

REPLY

This condition is known as otitis externa and a fungous infection is responsible in the majority of cases. Laboratory tests should be done to determine the specific culprit before effective treatment can be instituted.

DORMANT STATE

T. Y. writes: What is meant by smoldering rheumatism in a boy of 12?

REPLY

In this condition, rheumatic fever continues to run a persistent but mild course. There is slight fever with moderate aching and the individual is almost but not quite well. Physicians prefer the term, rheumatic state, for this disorder.

SILVER NOSEDROPS

W. T. writes: Is it harmful to use argyol nosedrops every night for post-nasal drip?

REPLY

Yes, especially when the drops are instilled nightly over a long period of time because there is danger of developing argyria. In this condition, silver is absorbed through the nasal membranes and deposited in the skin, where it produces a grayish discoloration. Let's be reasonable and stop this medication as it seldom cures post-nasal drip.

HANSEN'S DISEASE

L. T. writes: Is leprosy curable?

REPLY

Like tuberculosis, the disease can be arrested—temporarily in many and permanently, in a few. The outlook is determined by the type of infection present.

The Russians tried to unify Europe under the leadership of Stalin and by the creation of a pseudo-religious movement out of Marxism. By ingenious diplomacy at Teheran and Walta, by propaganda among the peoples and infiltration into governments, by economic unification, the absorptions of weaker nations on her borders, and by war, Russia has built one of the largest and best integrated empires in history. Yet, already there are signs that the period of growth has been arrested. Soviet Russia is standing still; her satellites are uneasy; her missionaries and agents abroad are frightened.

Meanwhile, the successor to the League of Nations, the United Nations, continues to labor for some kind of unity. The United Nations Charter is so involved a document and its methods are so complex that progress toward European unity had to be made outside it, in a series of conferences and agreements which have been astonishingly successful.

The first of these was the formation of the Benelux Customs Union in September 1944. This is an economic union of Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. It has functoned admirably. If its principles could be extended to the whole of non-Russian Europe, the advantages would be enormous.

The Economic Commission for Europe was set up in March 1947, and included Russian satellites as well as free countries—Belgium, Byelorussia, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, France, Greece, Iceland, Luxembourg, Netherlands, Norway, Poland, Sweden, Turkey, Ukraine United Kingdom, Russia and Yugoslavia. This was too involved to be realistic.

The Dunkirk Treaty of Alliance was signed between Great Britain and France on March 4, 1947, and was followed by the Brussels Treaty of 1948 between the Benelux countries and France and Great Britain, strengthening the Benelux concept of a European customs union.

This was followed by the agreement for the Organization for European Economic Co-operation (the Marshall Plan) in Paris on April 16, 1948. This included the countries which we now term Western Europe, supported by the United States. It is to be noted that Turkey and Greece here take their places among Western countries.

On December 28, 1948, in London, the international Ruhr Authority, among Belgium, France, West Germany, Netherlands, Luxembourg, United Kingdom and the United States, was arranged, taking that area of contention out of danger to Germany and France.

Then came the North Atlantic Treaty (Washington, 1949) which established a comity among Western European countries and actually stopped the further advance of Russia in Europe. It was strengthened by the Council of Europe (1949) and the European Defense Community (1952). These latter agreements are popularly referred to as NATO.

One other step toward European unity must be referred to. This is the European Coal and Steel Community (the Schuman Plan), agreed to in 1951 and now actually functioning. This may save the economy of Western Europe.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON.—Despite all the alibis and the inspired excuses that have been planted here and there by the Pentagon and its apologists, the truth is coming out about the ammunition shortage in Korea.

The most damaging evidence thus far has come from Robert Lovett, former Secretary of Defense, and Assistant Secretary Wilfred J. McNeil. The Senate subcommittee of the Armed Services committee now has received confirmation of the main points made by General Van Fleet.

The facts are that there has been a serious shortage during the Korean War — and that it has been overcome. But the red tape and cumbersome machinery which gave rise to the shortage has not been removed, and something of the same kind in other phases of our armed services operation could happen again.

Mr. Lovett is one of the most candid and forthright public officials that Washington has seen in many years — and in many respects perhaps the most nonpolitical. For what he said in his testimony damages the record of the Truman administration of which he was a cabinet officer. Doubtless he had a choice of pussyfooting and presenting alibis for political reasons or telling the whole story as a means of securing once and for all a corrective that would prevent a recurrence of the weakness in our defense setup.

Shortages World Wide

While there were world-wide shortages of ammunition—not only in Korea but in Europe—the fact remains that America's productive capacity was equal to the emergency and was not given a chance to function. The planning was bad—and Mr. Lovett frankly admits it. He tried to put the finger of blame at the time on particular places in the complicated organization of the Pentagon, but he was unable to do so. He did point out that contracts took a long time to negotiate—too long. One reason, of course, is the restriction placed by Congress itself on the letting of contracts. Politics enters into it.

Thus the Army can't always award a contract where it can get the job done most quickly. It must bear in mind the political pressures which say that big business gets too many contracts and small business doesn't get enough.

Mr. McNeil testified that a contract sometimes goes to as many as 42 sections or divisions and involves some 200 operations..

As a consequence of all this, the Senate subcommittee decided to delve into the methods by which contracts are awarded and to find out just who all along the line was responsible for the delays. A resolution asking for the detailed information was adopted.

The real question is being sidestepped by some of the Pentagon officers who are feeding the press stories that General Van Fleet couldn't have resumed the offensive in June 1951, even if permitted to do so. All the messages haven't been made public, but it is significant that stories are being inspired that make it appear that General Van Fleet himself didn't want to go on the offensive for fear of too many casualties. Actually the General wanted the Pentagon to move into a big amphibious operation. He needed ammunition for offensive operations of various kinds. But for the type of operation he wanted — namely, an end run—the situation could have been handled with the Navy and the available supplies. For it did not involve a continuance of warfare over entrenched positions.

Tried To Cure Delay

Mr. Lovett repudiated any suggestion that the warfare in Korea, insofar as withholding ammunition was concerned, was related to the type of war the State Department wanted to conduct. But he did say that he tried for many months to cure the delays in getting ammunition to Korea and that he didn't succeed until December 1952 — which is about the time General Eisenhower as president-elect made his trip to Korea. Mr. Eisenhower referred guardedly in his public statements then to shortages of supply.

What Mr. Lovett has disclosed will affect not merely the ammunition controversy but the whole set-up in the Pentagon. Has America a command staff which can handle instantly a large-war operation? Has the Pentagon an assured system of supply for wartime? Does the National Defense Act, which set up a big bureaucracy on top of the Armed Services themselves, provide too much machinery, and is a streamlining needed? These are questions which are being asked as Senator Byrd, Democrat, characterizes the disclosures about delays and red tape as "the most colossal and terrifying thing I have ever known."

Certainly a Congressional committee is doing a real job here, notwithstanding the efforts in some quarters to minimize the importance of the inquiry.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Target: Germany

WASHINGTON

The next target of the Soviet peace offensive is almost certainly Germany. On this point, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and his advisers see eye to eye with the leading American officials. Both the Americans and the Germans are so convinced that a new Soviet move in Germany is inevitable that this prospect, and what to do about it, have been the chief subject of anxious discussions since Adenauer came to Washington.

The sense of anxiety is conveyed by one official's remarks—"I keep wondering if the Russians are going to ask for a conference on Germany this afternoon at 2 o'clock, or maybe at 3." Some advisers are urging President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles boldly to seize the initiative, perhaps themselves proposing a conference on a German peace treaty, based on free elections and a united Germany.

The American leaders are certainly considering some such course, and they have certainly discussed the matter with Chancellor Adenauer. Yet the issue is in doubt, partly because the whole problem has produced a curious schizophrenic reaction in the State Department. The prospect of renewed negotiations with the Russians about Germany fill some officials with something very like panic. Others, while recognizing the grave dangers involved, believe that it is just possible that a time of great opportunity is at hand.

The panic is understandable. Even a seemingly serious offer by the Soviets to negotiate a reasonable German peace treaty could throw the Western alliance into an uproar. It could bring the already faltering European army project to a dead halt. It could persuade the Germans that only the Americans stood in the way of a united Germany.

If a German peace treaty should actually be negotiated, moreover, the basis of Western strategy will be twisted out of shape. The Soviets will certainly demand the withdrawal of all occupation troops as a condition of agreement. This is, at least in German eyes, by no means too high a price to pay for German unity. But where else on the continent, fearful officials ask, can American troops be stationed? And how can the West be sure that a sovereign Germany will not ultimately ally itself with the Soviet Union?

Yet some of the bolder policy makers hold that such fears are irrational. It is almost inconceivable, they say, that the Soviets are really serious about a German peace treaty. If the Soviets are merely planning a wrecking operation, they say, it is easy enough to find this out. And if the Soviets are really ready to get out of East Germany, then we are well on the way to winning the cold war.

These bolder spirits point to certain clear tests of Soviet intentions. There will be no German peace treaty without an Austrian peace treaty—this is already agreed among the Western allies. With both treaties signed, the Soviets would be legally obliged to withdraw all Russian troops back to the Soviet borders—and the Western powers would demand absolute proof that this obligation had been fulfilled. Another test is the eastern territory taken from Germany by Poland. Can the Soviets wrench this territory from their Polish satellite, and turn it over to Poland's ancient enemy, while Soviet troops were being withdrawn from Poland?

Perhaps the hardest test of all are the free all-German elections which are the West's first condition for a German settlement. Many experienced officials believe that the Soviets will ostensibly agree to free elections. But can they really do so? Unless all observers are dead wrong, Communism would be overwhelmingly repudiated in East Germany, in the first free election Communism ever faced. Thus the last fig leaf would be stripped from the world Communist movement.

Add such sacrifices as the loss of the German uranium mines and the forward Soviet bases in Europe. Add the risk that a united, strongly anti-Communist Germany would turn to the West, whatever might be written into a peace treaty—a risk which certainly haunts the Kremlin as much as the fear of a pro-Soviet Germany haunts the West. These are some of the reasons why Eisenhower and Dulles are being advised to adopt a bold aggressive policy.

Whatever the final decision, it already seems likely that the new Administration is to be faced with a difficult and challenging time when, as one official remarked, "we've got to reshuffle the whole deck and start over again." Painful as it was, the Korean war simplified matters for the last Administration. As long as the aggression in Korea continued, direct East-West contact was ruled out. Korea thus acted as a sort of shield behind which the effort to strengthen the West could go on. It is now quite probably the Kremlin's intention to remove the shield.

If so, it will be most dangerous for the Western powers to remain frozen in position. Here it is worth recalling a remark which Berlin's brave Mayor, Ernst Reuter, made some time ago to one of these reporters. He pointed to a map of divided Germany on the wall of his office. "No one with a sense of history," Reuter said, "can believe that Germany will stay divided for very much longer." In national policy, it is best to be on the side of history.

The Old Second Guesser

by John Wheeler

The Life Of Riley

There is a theory newspapermen have such interesting lives. Sometimes, yes; sometimes, no. As a reporter, I still have a bad taste in my mouth once in a while left over from unpleasant experiences.

John Wheeler

I have been insulted by butlers who didn't want to let me in to interview their bosses, until they found I had my foot stuck in the door. I don't know whether schools of journalism teach this trick, but it is a fundamental, or was in my day. I stood the night watch in all sorts of weather when Dorothy Arnold disappeared never to be found.

In the syndicate business, like all salesmen, I have yessed customers from one end of the country to the other. This is all right, for the editors and publishers are friendly and considerate, so I have no kick about that. My conscience still compels me to take a briefcase full of samples when I travel to try to keep my hand in.

After that long-winded introduction. I come down to the nub of this piece, if it has a core. The last week has been full of stimulating excitement with a dash of glamor. My wife came to the office to pick me up the other afternoon, and you could have knocked her over with a tractor when I walked out of the building with beautiful Vanessa Brown, star of "The Seven Year Itch," whose picture was recently on the cover of Life magazine.

Since it was raining hard, she got in the car with us, and we drove her to the theater. We would have done it if the weather had been clear. She had come into the office to see about an interview. My missus and she got to be great friends in no time, as they found a mutual acquaintance on whom they promptly agreed. Some of the remarks they made about her might have been appropriate at a dog show. She invited my wife to go see the "Itch." She is plenty smart, as she used to be a quiz kid.

Last Tuesday my old friend, John Golden, asked me to go to the Dutch Treat Club lunch with him. We got to talking on the subject of stingy people.

"I can tell you about two," he said. "One was a fellow I met coming out of the Lambs Club.

" 'Did you hear the story about the two chorus girls?' he began. 'No, on second thought, I'm not going to tell it to you, because you would spread it all around, and everybody would know it. Then no one would listen to me'.

'He shut up and walked off down the street.

"Next there was a man who ran a hotel and had a clock in the lobby which passers-by could see through the door. He was annoyed that pedestrians were getting this free ride, so he pasted a sign on it which read:

" 'For guests, only'."

"Do you take a bath every day?" I asked Golden.

"Yes," he replied, "and always a shower. I haven't been in a tub for 20 years. I bring my own hose and nozzle with me when I travel. Bill Muldoon, who was the greatest trainer ever lived, I think, claims he invented the shower bath when conditioning John L. Sullivan for a fight. He fixed up an elevated hogshead and filled it with water. He said you stewed in your own juice in a tub. I agree."

The Mr. Muldoon to whom Mr. Golden was referring used to run what was known as a health resort near White Plains, New York, where worn-out businessmen paid high prices to be abused by the professor and hustled out of bed at six in the morning to do some heel and toe exercises before breakfast.

On the Dutch Treat program were Rosalind Russell and a young lady named Miss Adams, a tonic for tired eyes, both from the hit show, "Wonderful Town." Yes, it's been quite a glamorous week, and perhaps newspapermen have more fun than stock brokers, at that.

Every teenager must master the ABC's of a smart coiffure. Here are the necessary fundamentals!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

So you, as a teenager, want to know how you can create for yourself the prettiest hair-do in town. It's easier than you may think, once you master the A B C's of the perfect style. They are principles you will go on using the rest of your life, so you might as well get them straight right now.

The A stands for Activity. Your hair style must be suited to the kind of life you lead. Since you are an active, busy girl, you need a style with flexible action — one that is easy to switch from day-to-date or from school-to-prom look.

Your Special Type

The B is for Becomingness. Unless your arrangement becomes or, better still, flatters your face and personality it will subtract from your looks and individuality. Even worse, it is apt to give your lovely tresses the effect of the costumer's wig used in a stage play.

C stands for Carefree. This is the feeling you must always have about your hair dress. Before you adopt any new style, make certain that it is quick to set, holds a setting for a reasonable length of time and dresses and grooms to perfection with a few flicks of the hair brush. There are too many other interesting things in this world than to squander time and money on hair arrangements that require excessive and fussy care to look perfection. That's true no matter how much time and money you have!

Winning Hair-do

To put these principles to work for you, collect a stack of teen magazines and thumb through them, snipping out photographs of the models who have your shape of face and reflect your personality type. Look into your mirror carefully before you start and you will be sure to find yourself in the magazines many times over. You may be sure that the styles the teen models of your type are wearing were created for becomingness by expert hands and eyes.

From your collection, next select the arrangements conforming to both A and C that you like best. There you have it . . . the winner! On you, it's the prettiest hair-do in town!

But just as your team's track star may be beaten if he breaks training rules, so can you lose your tress triumphs if you break grooming rules. For those, watch tomorrow's column. It will give you the ways and means of holding on to your honors.

AMA, Legion Deny They Made Deal

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP) — A Louisville Times story saying the American Medical Association (AMA) and the American Legion made a "deal" on health policies brought denials from both organizations last night.

The Times, in a copyrighted story, said the Legion in 1949 joined the AMA in opposing compulsory health insurance, and the AMA in turn refrained from opposing expansion of veterans' hospitalization.

Population Trend Upward Forecast In Western Md.

20 Per Cent Hike Predicted By 1970

The four Western Maryland counties will increase from the 1950 level of 251,988 to 302,400 in 1970, a 20 per cent boost, according to the predictions of the Maryland Sate Planning Commission.

By 1970 Allegany and Washington counties will be just about on a par, the commission figures. They guess that Allegany County will increase 13.8 per cent, from 89,556 of 1950 to 101,900 in 1970. Washington County, the planners say, will advance from 78,886 of 1950 to 101,800 by 1970, a 29 per cent increase.

Frederick Up

Also scheduled for a sizeable increase in the coming 20 years is Frederick County, expected to move up from its 1950 level of 62,287 to 78,000 in 1970, an increase of 25.2 per cent.

The State Planning Commission figures that the population growth in Washington and Frederick Counties will be sustained as industry and farming continue to flourish in that area.

For Garrett County the commission has a downward prediction. The planners guess that Garrett County is likely to lose 559 persons from its 1950 population of 21,259, a decrease of 2.6 per cent. That would place the 1970 population at 20,700.

The loss of population for Garrett County is forecast on the assumption that present birth and death rates will not change substantially and that no large-scale industrial development will take place in the area during the two decades under review. Such developments would, of course, change the forecast and probably reverse the trend in population decline, the planners concede.

Five-Year Intervals

For each county, the commission offers a forecast on five-year intervals. These predictions, with 1950's actual figures:

Allegany County, 1950, 89,556; 1955, 92,100; 1960, 94,800; 1965, 98,100; 1970, 101,900; Garrett County, 1950, 21,259; 1955, 21,000; 1960, 20,800; 1965, 20,700; 1970, 20,700; Washington County, 1950, 78,886; 1955, 84,000; 1960, 89,500, 1965, 95,300; 1970, 101,800; Frederick County, 1950, 62,287; 1955, 66,000; 1960, 69,800; 1965, 73,600; 1970, 78,000.

According to the commission's figures, the entire state will reach a population of 3,469,000 persons by 1970, as compared with the 2,343,001 counted in the 1950 census.

State-Wide Boost

That would mean an increase of 1,125,999 persons, or 48.1 per cent over the 1950 total.

The commission said it based its conclusions on a study of net migration and natural increase for each county and for Baltimore.

Resident births and deaths were analyzed and were projected through 1970. Past trends in migration, and the future economic prospects of each area were studied to determine the number of persons who may be expected to move into or out of each county by 1970.

By 1955, said the commission, the state's population should stand at about 2,598,400, an increase of 255,399 over 1950; by 1960, 2,868,900, an increase of 525,899; by 1965, 3,148,300, an increase of 805,299.

Seal Campaign Returns Lagging

William R. Carscaden, chairman of the Allegany County Easter Seal drive, yesterday reported that returns have been slow in the campaign, although the response to date has been promising.

Carscaden explained that 12,000 letters had been mailed to county residents in the annual appeal, and that from this number 3,726 returns had been received. Contributions to date amount to $5,073.55, Carscaden said, adding that three persons had made $50 donations, three had made $25 and one other resident had contributed $10. The other returns have been in smaller amounts, he stated. The sale of lilies this year netted $510.20, Carscaden announced.

Sen. Beall Explains Stand In Backing Tidelands Bill

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall has claimed in a statement that the pending tidelands oil bill in Congress re-establishes state property rights that have existed since the founding of this nation.

He emphasized, further, that the legislation would confirm the control of the federal government over the submerged lands in the continental shelf outside of the states' boundaries.

The Maryland Senator from Frostburg defended the bill in a statement written in response to criticisms of the proposal which were expressed April 6 by Philip B. Perlman, solicitor general of the United States during the Truman Administration.

Beall is one of the 40 sponsors of the bill being debated in the Senate. Its chief purpose is to vest in the coastal states the title to the submerged offshore lands extending seaward from their coast lines to their "historic boundaries" — matter of prime importance to Texas, Louisiana and California, off whose shores oil deposits are found.

Perlman had described the proposal as "a thousand times worse than the Teapot Dome scandal" of the Harding Administration and as "the boldest, most brazen grab of national assets in history."

Beall replied that Perlman's "use of investive and intemperate remarks reduces his argument to the level of a street-corner harangue and is hardly in keeping with the distinguished position he once held."

"We must remember that Mr. Perlman, despite his legal qualifications, supports the political philosophy, which held that the federal government could arbitrarily seize the steel industry of the United States, and therefore could logically seize a labor union or whatever else the federal government wished," Beall said.

The Senator noted that the bill declares that it is in the public interest that title and ownership of lands beneath navigable waters within the boundaries of the states, and the resources therein, shall be vested in the states.

"This merely affirms the philosophy of the decisions of the Supreme Court over a period of 150 years — and some 50 decisions were given — that the individual states owned the submerged lands within their boundaries," he said, referring to Supreme Court decisions prior to those in which the court held that the federal government has the paramount interest in the offshore lands.

"The National Association of Attorneys General unanimously agreed with the earlier court decisions," Beall continued. "The Hon. Hall Hammond, member of the Court of Appeals, as Attorney General for Maryland, was chairman of the association's committee on tidelands and wrote its report which was concurred in by former Attorney General William C. Walsh and our present Attorney General Edward D. E. Rollins."

Beall remarked that Perlman had attempted to "mislead the public into believing that there is no limit (in the Senate bill) as to what a state could claim."

The bill defines the boundary of each coastal state as three geographical miles from its coast line, the Senator pointed out, although he added that it would not prejudice any claim a state may have that its boundary extends beyond that line.

Texas and Florida, as has been brought out in congressional debate, claim that their boundaries extend three leagues, or 10½ miles, into the Gulf of Mexico.

"Each state would be granted title to all submerged lands within its historic boundaries—or to would have title to all lands within the boundaries established when the state was admitted to the Union, or as subsequently approved by Congress," Beall explained.

"What, then, becomes of the lands in the continental shelf where there are believed to be vast natural resources," Beall asked.

"If Mr. Perlman had studied Senate Joint Resolution 13, and I am most certain that he did, he should have in all fairness to the reader explained that Section 9 of the resolution gives statutory confirmation to the jurisdiction and control of the United States over the lands in the continental shelf. It is obvious that it is not the 'steal' he so rashly described.

County Weather Was Mild During The Past Winter

The temperature went down to eight degrees on two occasions in Frostburg, and down to ten degrees in Cumberland one time during the past winter.

This information is contained in a summary of the weather of the three western Maryland counties of Allegany, Washington and Garrett counties compiled by G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission.

The lowest temperatures observed by State Roads Commission workers were eight degrees on November 29 and December 28 at Frostburg. Cumberland had a ten degree reading on December 28.

The minimum temperatures were:

October—Cumberland 20; Frostburg 19; Oakland 11; Sines 14; Hagerstown 16; Hancock 11.

November — Cumberland 14; Frostburg 8; Oakland 4; Sines 4; Hagerstown 16; Hancock 11.

December — Cumberland 10; Frostburg 8; Oakland 0; Sines 2; Hagerstown 14; Hancock 8.

January—Cumberland 20; Frostburg 12; Oakland 4; Sines 10; Hagerstown 17; Hancock 14.

March—Cumberland 19; Frostburg 14; Oakland 13; Sines 14; Hagerstown 18; Hancock 16.

State Income Tax Refunds Due Many As Deadline Nears

Attaches at the local office of the state comptroller have been busy the past week or so aiding taxpayers file their state income tax forms.

Edward V. Welsh, field representative for the state comptroller's office, said there are only four more days left before the tax deadline of April 15 is reached. The office, at 9 Market Street, is closed Saturday and Sunday.

Persons who fail to file their returns by April 15 will be required to pay penalties and interest. Then too, those who fail to file by that date cannot take advantage of the quarterly installment plan of paying taxes.

Refunds on state income taxes due those who paid the full amount this year before the legislature approved a 15 per cent reduction are being processed income tax officials at Annapolis said yesterday.

Aproximately 20,000 persons paid their taxes before the legislature acted late in February. About 5,200 returns have been audited and refund checks will be sent shortly. The remainder will be audited as quickly as possible, it was said.

Thus far 81,000 taxable returns have been received out of approximately 420,000 expected. Taxpayers apparently are putting off their State payments until the last minute, officials said.

Those who pay their state income tax quarterly and have made the first installment without deducting the allowable 15 per cent will have adjustments made for them as the state sends out bills for the remaining quarters. In view of pressure of work to June 30, the end of the fiscal year, many of these adjustments will not be possible until third quarter bills at least.

Many who did not get the 15 per cent reduction on 1951 income either because they themselves failed to take the adjustment last year or because the state has not yet sent a refund, still are eligible for such payments.

Claims for refunds will be helped, officials said, if the taxpayer in his letter to the income tax division gives the code number which was placed on his check, money order or cash receipt at the time they were received. This same number was stamped on his tax return.

Officials renewed their request that individuals attach Form 509 to their tax forms. The forms are information sheets given by employers when reports were made on 1952 income. These forms, similar to the W-2 Federal withholding form, greatly assists in auditing state returns. Their enclosure with tax returns is being required this year for the first time.

Population Trend Upward Forecast In Western Md.

20 Per Cent Hike Predicted By 1970

The four Western Maryland counties will increase from the 1950 level of 251,988 to 302,400 in 1970, a 20 per cent boost, according to the predictions of the Maryland Sate Planning Commission.

By 1970 Allegany and Washington counties will be just about on a par, the commission figures. They guess that Allegany County will increase 13.8 per cent, from 89,556 of 1950 to 101,900 in 1970. Washington County, the planners say, will advance from 78,886 of 1950 to 101,800 by 1970, a 29 per cent increase.

Frederick Up

Also scheduled for a sizeable increase in the coming 20 years is Frederick County, expected to move up from its 1950 level of 62,287 to 78,000 in 1970, an increase of 25.2 per cent.

The State Planning Commission figures that the population growth in Washington and Frederick Counties will be sustained as industry and farming continue to flourish in that area.

For Garrett County the commission has a downward prediction. The planners guess that Garrett County is likely to lose 559 persons from its 1950 population of 21,259, a decrease of 2.6 per cent. That would place the 1970 population at 20,700.

The loss of population for Garrett County is forecast on the assumption that present birth and death rates will not change substantially and that no large-scale industrial development will take place in the area during the two decades under review. Such developments would, of course, change the forecast and probably reverse the trend in population decline, the planners concede.

Five-Year Intervals

For each county, the commission offers a forecast on five-year intervals. These predictions, with 1950's actual figures:

Allegany County, 1950, 89,556; 1955, 92,100; 1960, 94,800; 1965, 98,100; 1970, 101,900; Garrett County, 1950, 21,259; 1955, 21,000; 1960, 20,800; 1965, 20,700; 1970, 20,700; Washington County, 1950, 78,886; 1955, 84,000; 1960, 89,500, 1965, 95,300; 1970, 101,800; Frederick County, 1950, 62,287; 1955, 66,000; 1960, 69,800; 1965, 73,600; 1970, 78,000.

According to the commission's figures, the entire state will reach a population of 3,469,000 persons by 1970, as compared with the 2,343,001 counted in the 1950 census.

State-Wide Boost

That would mean an increase of 1,125,999 persons, or 48.1 per cent over the 1950 total.

The commission said it based its conclusions on a study of net migration and natural increase for each county and for Baltimore.

Resident births and deaths were analyzed and were projected through 1970. Past trends in migration, and the future economic prospects of each area were studied to determine the number of persons who may be expected to move into or out of each county by 1970.

By 1955, said the commission, the state's population should stand at about 2,598,400, an increase of 255,399 over 1950; by 1960, 2,868,900, an increase of 525,899; by 1965, 3,148,300, an increase of 805,299.

Seal Campaign Returns Lagging

William R. Carscaden, chairman of the Allegany County Easter Seal drive, yesterday reported that returns have been slow in the campaign, although the response to date has been promising.

Carscaden explained that 12,000 letters had been mailed to county residents in the annual appeal, and that from this number 3,726 returns had been received. Contributions to date amount to $5,073.55, Carscaden said, adding that three persons had made $50 donations, three had made $25 and one other resident had contributed $10. Sen. Beall Explains Stand In Backing Tidelands Bill

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall has claimed in a statement that the pending tidelands oil bill in Congress re-establishes state property rights that have existed since the founding of this nation.

He emphasized, further, that the legislation would confirm the control of the federal government over the submerged lands in the continental shelf outside of the states' boundaries.

The Maryland Senator from Frostburg defended the bill in a statement written in response to criticisms of the proposal which were expressed April 6 by Philip B. Perlman, solicitor general of the United States during the Truman Administration.

Beall is one of the 40 sponsors of the bill being debated in the Senate. Its chief purpose is to vest in the coastal states the title to the submerged offshore lands extending seaward from their coast lines to their "historic boundaries" — matter of prime importance to Texas, Louisiana and California, off whose shores oil deposits are found.

Perlman had described the proposal as "a thousand times worse than the Teapot Dome scandal" of the Harding Administration and as "the boldest, most brazen grab of national assets in history."

Beall replied that Perlman's "use of investive and intemperate remarks reduces his argument to the level of a street-corner harangue and is hardly in keeping with the distinguished position he once held."

"We must remember that Mr. Perlman, despite his legal qualifications, supports the political philosophy, which held that the federal government could arbitrarily seize the steel industry of the United States, and therefore could logically seize a labor union or whatever else the federal government wished," Beall said.

The Senator noted that the bill declares that it is in the public interest that title and ownership of lands beneath navigable waters within the boundaries of the states, and the resources therein, shall be vested in the states.

"This merely affirms the philosophy of the decisions of the Supreme Court over a period of 150 years — and some 50 decisions were given — that the individual states owned the submerged lands within their boundaries," he said, referring to Supreme Court decisions prior to those in which the court held that the federal government has the paramount interest in the offshore lands.

"The National Association of Attorneys General unanimously agreed with the earlier court decisions," Beall continued. "The Hon. Hall Hammond, member of the Court of Appeals, as Attorney General for Maryland, was chairman of the association's committee on tidelands and wrote its report which was concurred in by former Attorney General William C. Walsh and our present Attorney General Edward D. E. Rollins."

Beall remarked that Perlman had attempted to "mislead the public into believing that there is no limit (in the Senate bill) as to what a state could claim."

The bill defines the boundary of each coastal state as three geographical miles from its coast line, the Senator pointed out, although he added that it would not prejudice any claim a state may have that its boundary extends beyond that line.

Texas and Florida, as has been brought out in congressional debate, claim that their boundaries extend three leagues, or 10½ miles, into the Gulf of Mexico.

"Each state would be granted title to all submerged lands within its historic boundaries—or to would have title to all lands within the boundaries established when the state was admitted to the Union, or as subsequently approved by Congress," Beall explained.

"What, then, becomes of the lands in the continental shelf where there are believed to be vast natural resources," Beall asked.

"If Mr. Perlman had studied Senate Joint Resolution 13, and I am most certain that he did, he should have in all fairness to the reader explained that Section 9 of the resolution gives statutory confirmation to the jurisdiction and control of the United States over the lands in the continental shelf. It is obvious that it is not the 'steal' he so rashly described.

County Weather Was Mild During The Past Winter

The temperature went down to eight degrees on two occasions in Frostburg, and down to ten degrees in Cumberland one time during the past winter.

This information is contained in a summary of the weather of the three western Maryland counties of Allegany, Washington and Garrett counties compiled by G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission.

The lowest temperatures observed by State Roads Commission workers were eight degrees on November 29 and December 28 at Frostburg. Cumberland had a ten degree reading on December 28.

The minimum temperatures were:

October—Cumberland 20; Frostburg 19; Oakland 11; Sines 14; Hagerstown 16; Hancock 11.

November — Cumberland 14; Frostburg 8; Oakland 4; Sines 4; Hagerstown 16; Hancock 11.

December — Cumberland 10; Frostburg 8; Oakland 0; Sines 2; Hagerstown 14; Hancock 8.

January—Cumberland 20; Frostburg 12; Oakland 4; Sines 10; Hagerstown 17; Hancock 14.

February—Cumberland 16; Frostburg 10; Oakland 10; Sines 14; Hagerstown 16; Hancock 12.

March—Cumberland 19; Frostburg 14; Oakland 13; Sines 14; Hagerstown 18; Hancock 16.

State Income Tax Refunds Due Many As Deadline Nears

Attaches at the local office of the state comptroller have been busy the past week or so aiding taxpayers file their state income tax forms.

Edward V. Welsh, field representative for the state comptroller's office, said there are only four more days left before the tax deadline of April 15 is reached. The office, at 9 Market Street, is closed Saturday and Sunday.

Persons who fail to file their returns by April 15 will be required to pay penalties and interest. Then too, those who fail to file by that date cannot take advantage of the quarterly installment plan of paying taxes.

Refunds on state income taxes due those who paid the full amount this year before the legislature approved a 15 per cent reduction are being processed income tax officials at Annapolis said yesterday.

Aproximately 20,000 persons paid their taxes before the legislature acted late in February. About 5,200 returns have been audited and refund checks will be sent shortly. The remainder will be audited as quickly as possible, it was said.

Thus far 81,000 taxable returns have been received out of approximately 420,000 expected. Taxpayers apparently are putting off their State payments until the last minute, officials said.

Those who pay their state income tax quarterly and have made the first installment without deducting the allowable 15 per cent will have adjustments made for them as the state sends out bills for the remaining quarters. In view of pressure of work to June 30, the end of the fiscal year, many of these adjustments will not be possible until third quarter bills at least.

Many who did not get the 15 per cent reduction on 1951 income either because they themselves failed to take the adjustment last year or because the state has not yet sent a refund, still are eligible for such payments.

Claims for refunds will be helped, officials said, if the taxpayer in his letter to the income tax division gives the code number which was placed on his check, money order or cash receipt at the time they were received. This same number was stamped on his tax return.

Officials renewed their request that individuals attach Form 509 to their tax forms. The forms are information sheets given by employers when reports were made on 1952 income. These forms, similar to the W-2 Federal withholding form, greatly assists in auditing state returns. Their enclosure with tax returns is being required this year for the first time.

Old Discovery
A Blend of the Choicest Straight Whiskies from the Three World-Famous Whiskey States

A Story of the Old South... and Old Discovery

And it came to pass that two distillers, a Marylander and a Kentucky Colonel, fell out over the merits of their whiskies. A duel was averted only when a mutual friend from Pennsylvania appeared with a blend of the two whiskies, plus some from his own stock. Today, this blending of the finest whiskies from these 3 states achieves a smoother, more delightful drink. For the complete story of this interesting legend, read the back label on the bottle of Old Discovery.

Festive Fare For Sunday Dinner

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

If you like to serve ham for Sunday dinner, you can choose one of two types: Cook-before-eating or the fully cooked style. Both are prepared the same way, only the cooking times vary.

Use the most modern method for roasting; Place the ham, fat side up, on a rack in an open pan in a slow (325°F.) oven. Don't add water or other liquid aand don't cover the pan. A cook-before-eating ham is done when the roast meat thermometer indicates an internal temperature of 150F; the fully cooked ham needs an internal temperature of 130F. Pour off the drippings, cover with your favorite glaze, then put the ham back in a very hot (450F.) oven for about 15 minutes to brown.

Just for fun, make carrot lilies for the ham garnish. Use a razor-like vegetable parer to make thin lengthwise slices of carrot for the petals and cut strips of green pepper for stamens; put together with bits of toothpick.

What dish to prepare from the leftover ham? Here's a suggestion:

SURPRISE HAM LOAF . . . Sunday favorite.

Surprise Ham Loaf

Ingredients: 6 slices of bread, ¾ cup milk, 4 cups ground cooked ham, ¼ cup ground onion, ¼ teaspoon celery seed, pepper, 4 hard-cooked eggs (sliced).

Method: Break bread into small pieces; add milk and whip with a fork until bread is soft and dough-like. Stir in ground ham, onion, celery seed, and pepper to taste. Pack one-half of meat mixture into bottom of oiled loaf pan (10 by 5 by 3 inches). Lay sliced hard-cooked eggs on top. Pack remaining meat mixture on top of sliced eggs. Bake loaf in moderate (350F.) oven 1 hour. Makes 8 servings.

Serve Ham 'N Beans

If you have cold sliced ham left after Easter, serve it the next night with piping hot pork and beans. The cold meat and hot beans make a pleasant contrast to each other. Also pass a salad bowl of cucumbers with lettuce and French dressing. Fit for a king.

Gelatin Desserts Are Here Again

When things are too familiar, you're bound to take them for granted occasionally. But you're missing a lot of good eating if you don't explore the possibilities of gelatin as a basis for exciting new desserts, made with very little fuss and bother. Glorified with the cream that whips itself as it comes from the can, these desserts are enough to make a French chef take lessons from you!

One simple variation in gelatin desserts is to use fruit juices as the liquid instead of water. Ever tried preparing lemon flavored gelatin using canned unsweetened pineapple juice as the liquid? Delicious served with fresh or frozen strawberries and topped with thrifty self-whipping cream.

And there's a delectable molded salad which can double as dessert which includes cottage cheese for a rare flavor combination. Simply prepare one package flavored gelatin, as directed, and let stand until semi-firm. Whip until frothy. Add 1-cup well drained canned crushed pineapple, 1-cup cottage cheese, and 1¾-cups of cream that comes whipped from a can. Mix, pour into molds, chill until firm. So easy it can't be this good—but it is!

Gala Sunday Brunch

SUNDAY BRUNCH . . . Featuring fritters.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Here's something new and different for Sunday brunch: Cartwheels of fresh orange dipped in batter and deep-fat fried to a crispy golden brown. Sprinkle the fritters with powdered sugar and serve with pork sausage links and lots of good strong coffee. The batter for these fritters takes a shortcut: It calls for prepared biscuit mix.

ORANGE FRITTERS

Ingredients: 4 to 6 oranges, sugar, 1 cup biscuit mix, 1 egg (separated), 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ¼ cup fresh orange juice, ¼ cup milk, 1½ teaspoons sugar, powdered sugar.

Method: Peel oranges; slice each crosswise into cartwheel slices, about ⅛ inch thick. Sprinkle lightly with sugar; cover and let stand 1 hour. For batter, put biscuit mix in deep bowl; make a well in the center and add egg yolk, lemon juice, orange juice, milk and 1½ teaspoons sugar. Mix well, but don't worry if batter is slightly lumpy. Beat egg white until stiff and fold in. Cover and let stand at room temperature until ready to fry fritters. Drain orange slices and dip into batter. Fry in deep fat at 375F. Drain on absorbent paper, spinkle with powdered sugar and serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

Take plenty of time when you are cooking the small pork sausage links to go along with the orange fritters, because sausage must be thoroughly done. Place the links in a skillet add about a quarter cup of water; cover and simmer—do not boil—five minutes. (Don't prick the links with a fork or the juices will escape. Turn with tongs or two spoons.) Drain off water and fry slowly, browning on all sides.

Garnishes For Your Meat Dish

Gay garnishes can set off your dinner roast. A bit of color adds the finishing touch to your dinner table, the same as accessories to a basic dress.

Hot garnishes are suggested for hot meat dishes; cold garnishes for cold meat dishes. Of course, there are exceptions to this rule. Bright spiced crabapple, spiced peaches or apricots, orange slices, fruit-filled orange cups are all fine for garnishing roasts.

Occasionally, let your dinner vegetable serve as a garnish. Glazed carrots are an ideal addition. Baked potatoes topped with butter, asparagus, frencned or cut green beans, all may be used successfully. For cold servings such as sliced pork loin, ham, or chilled lamb, salad molds make an attractive garnish.

However, let your meat determine the garnish — fruits for pork, ham or lamb; vegetables for beef and veal. Remember, never garnish the platter? They may get in your carver's way, leading to garnishes scattered over your dinner table.

A law on the Idaho statute books makes it illegal to buy a chicken between sundown and sunrise without first notifying the sheriff.

Old German Beer deserves its friends — makes new ones every day — because its good, GOOD flavor never varies. You see, Old German is soundly and honestly "built" on an Old World brewing formula that has come down through the generations. And since this long-proven recipe demands the very choicest ingredients, and the most artful brewing technique . . . well, is it any wonder that Old German Beer stays at the top of the quality tree in quality and flavor . . . year in and year out?

Gala Sunday Brunch

SUNDAY BRUNCH . . . Featuring fritters.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Here's something new and different for Sunday brunch: Cartwheels of fresh orange dipped in batter and deep-fat fried to a crispy golden brown. Sprinkle the fritters with powdered sugar and serve with pork sausage links and lots of good strong coffee. The batter for these fritters takes a shortcut: It calls for prepared biscuit mix.

ORANGE FRITTERS

Ingredients: 4 to 6 oranges, sugar, 1 cup biscuit mix, 1 egg (separated), 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ¼ cup fresh orange juice, ¼ cup milk, 1½ teaspoons sugar, powdered sugar.

Method: Peel oranges; slice each crosswise into cartwheel slices, about ⅓ inch thick. Sprinkle lightly with sugar; cover and let stand 1 hour. For batter, put biscuit mix in deep bowl; make a well in the center and add egg yolk, lemon juice, orange juice, milk and 1½ teaspoons sugar. Mix well, but don't worry if batter is slightly lumpy. Beat egg white until stiff and fold in. Cover and let stand at room temperature until ready to fry fritters. Drain orange slices and dip into batter. Fry in deep fat at 375F. Drain on absorbent paper, spinkle with powdered sugar and serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

Take plenty of time when you are cooking the small pork sausage links to go along with the orange fritters, because sausage must be thoroughly done. Place the links in a skillet add about a quarter cup of water; cover and simmer—do not boil—five minutes. (Don't prick the links with a fork or the juices will escape. Turn with tongs or two spoons.) Drain off water and fry slowly, browning on all sides.

Garnishes For Your Meat Dish

Gay garnishes can set off your dinner roast. A bit of color adds the finishing touch to your dinner table, the same as accessories to a basic dress.

Hot garnishes are suggested for hot meat dishes; cold garnishes for cold meat dishes. Of course, there are exceptions to this rule. Bright spiced crabapple, spiced peaches or apricots, orange slices, fruit-filled orange cups are all fine for garnishing roasts.

Occasionally, let your dinner vegetable serve as a garnish. Glazed carrots are an ideal addition. Baked potatoes topped with butter, asparagus, frenched or cut green beans, all may be used successfully. For cold servings such as sliced pork loin, ham, or chilled lamb, salad molds make an attractive garnish.

However, let your meat determine the garnish — fruits for pork, ham or lamb; vegetables for beef and veal. Remember, never garnish the platter? They may get in your carver's way, leading to garnishes scattered over your dinner table.

A law on the Idaho statute books makes it illegal to buy a chicken between sundown and sunrise without first notifying the sheriff.

Rice, Pork Patties With Tomato Sauce

These budget saving Rice and Pork Patties are stupendously savory because of a perfectly heavenly combination of several ingredients which really "pack a seasoning punch." Just the right touch of these flavor lifters means that these patties are a gourmet's dream. When the connoisseur — the family — tastes these easily made Rice and Pork Patties hot from the frying pan and swimming in a luscious red tomato sauce — you will know immediately that these patties have made a hit because not a crumb will remain on the platter.

Ingredients

- 2½ cups ground cooked, lean pork
- 2 cups cooked rice
- 1 cup milk
- 1 tablespoon finely chopped celery leaves
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ½ teaspoon thyme
- Flour
- Cooking Fat
- 1 10½ ounce can cream of tomato soup

Preparing the fluffy white rice: To make 3 liberal cups of fluffy rice, put 1 cup of uncooked rice, 2 cups of cold water and 1 teaspoon of salt into a 2-quart saucepan and bring to a vigorous boil. Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover saucepan with a lid and leave over this low heat for 14 minutes. Turn off the heat. Do not remove lid nor stir rice while it is cooking. After rice has cooked, remove saucepan from heat—but keep the lid on until you are ready to use the rice.

Use exact measurements of uncooked rice and water. Time the cooking accurately.

For real convenience and economy of time and effort, keep rice in the refrigerator in a covered container at all times. Use it for many quick, delicious and inexpensive soups, salads, casserole dishes, hot breads and desserts.

METHOD: Mix together the pork, rice, milk, celery leaves, onions, salt, pepper and thyme. Cover and chill the mixture in the refrigerator. Form into patties, using about ⅓ cup of the mixture for each pattie. Dip the patties in the flour and brown on both sides in hot fat. Heat the tomato soup. Serve the patties with the tomato soup poured over them. Garnish with celery leaves if desired. This recipe makes 8 patties.

Garnish Soup With Garlic Croutons

Tasty topper for tomato soup is a sprinkling of garlic croutons. To make these, heat a small clove of garlic (minced) in 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Then brown about 1 cup of bread cubes in the butter till it is all absorbed. Pass a bowl of croutons at the table. And each one can garnish his own soup.

Pork Roast For Any Occasion

With pork in plentiful supply and attractively priced, now's the time to choose pork roasts for family dinners and for those special meals when company's coming. For a really festive occasion, a pork loin roast or a crown rib roast, gaily garnished with olives stuck on the bone ends, is an excellent choice. For a family dinner, a good buy is a pork shoulder roast, sometimes called Boston butt.

Any pork roast is easy to prepare. Just sprinkle with salt and pepper and rub, if desired, with a little sage or a cut garlic clove. Place the roast on a rack in a shallow, open roaster and place in a 325°F. oven. The roast should not be floured before roasting and it need not be basted during cooking. (It will be self-basting.)

Cook a pork loin roast 35 to 40 minutes per pound. A shoulder roast, which is more compact, requires longer time for complete heat penetration. Allow 45 to 50 minutes per pound.

Broiler Franks

For a clever frankfurter serving, cut franks nearly through lengthwise and top with mashed potatoes. Slip them under your broiler to heat through and to give the potatoes a golden tinge.

Here's Oven Meal With Veal Round

Here's a veal oven meal that presents an interesting combination of flavors. Liver sausage is rolled up in veal round, skewered, then braised in a slow oven, 300° F., until tender. Serve this meat roll with creamed potatoes, buttered peas, a perfection salad, hot rolls, lemon sponge and coffee or milk.

VEAL-LIVER SAUSAGE ROLLS

- 1½ pounds veal round, cut ¼ inch thick
- ½ pound liver sausage
- 1 egg
- 6 tablespoons milk
- 2 teaspoons chopped onion
- ¾ cup dry bread crumbs
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup flour
- 3 tablespoons lard
- 1½ cups water
- Flour for gravy

Remove bone from meat. Cut into 6 uniform pieces. Mash liver sausage. Add egg, milk, onion, and crumbs. Spread mixture on veal, roll and fasten with wooden pick. Mix seasonings and flour. Dredge rolls with flour. Brown in lard. Add water. Cover bake in moderate oven (300° F.) 1½ hours or until tender. Thicken liquid for gravy. 6 servings.

Sardine-Cheese Spread

- 1 can Sardines (3¼ oz. size)
- 4 3-oz. packages cream cheese
- ¼ cup sherry wine
- 2 tablespoons capers
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- ¼ teaspoon paprika
- onion salt to taste

Drain oil from sardines. Place cream cheese in a bowl and mash with a fork; blend in sardines. Gradually blend in sherry. Add capers, parsley, lemon rind, paprika and onion salt; beat until well blended. Store, covered in the refrigerator until needed. Makes about 2 cups. This recipe is scaled for a large party; for a small group, halve the ingredients.

Note: For best results, have cheese at room temperature when you start to mix the spread.

Stuffed Baked Cucumbers

- 3 cans Sardines (3¼ oz. size)
- 6 medium cucumbers
- 1-½ cups soft bread crumbs
- 1 can condensed tomato soup, undiluted
- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- salt, pepper, oregano to taste

Parboil cucumbers 5 minutes. Peel and cut in half lengthwise. Scoop out centers to make long pocket.

Combine tomato soup, bread crumbs and onions in saucepan. Simmer until thickened. Add seasonings and Worcestershire. Drain oil from sardines and break into small pieces. Add to tomato sauce. Stuff cucumbers with this mixture. Place stuffed cucumbers on baking sheet and sprinkle with grated Italian-type cheese. Place under brioler until cheese is browned. Serve immediately. 6 servings.

Orange Stuffing

Choose orange stuffing for a cushion-style lamb shoulder. Add grated orange rind to the bread crumbs. Moisten with orange juice. Chopped mint may be added if desired.

- 4 3-oz. packages cream cheese
- ¼ cup sherry wine
- 2 tablespoons capers
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- ¼ teaspoon paprika
- onion salt to taste

Drain oil from sardines. Place cream cheese in a bowl and mash with a fork; blend in sardines. Gradually blend in sherry. Add capers, parsley, lemon rind, paprika and onion salt; beat until well blended. Store, covered in the refrigerator until needed. Makes about 2 cups. This recipe is scaled for a large party; for a small group, halve the ingredients.

Note: For best results, have cheese at room temperature when you start to mix the spread.

Stuffed Baked Cucumbers

- 3 cans Sardines (3¼ oz. size)
- 6 medium cucumbers
- 1-½ cups soft bread crumbs
- 1 can condensed tomato soup, undiluted
- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- salt, pepper, oregano to taste

Parboil cucumbers 5 minutes. Peel and cut in half lengthwise. Scoop out centers to make long pocket.

Combine tomato soup, bread crumbs and onions in saucepan Simmer until thickened. Add seasonings and Worcestershire. Drain oil from sardines and break into small pieces. Add to tomato sauce. Stuff cucumbers with this mixture. Place stuffed cucumbers on baking sheet and sprinkle with grated Italian-type cheese. Place under brioler until cheese is browned. Serve immediately. 6 servings.

Orange Stuffing

Here's Handy Review Of Economy Beef Cuts

Beef continues in abundant supply, with many cuts wearing extremely attractive price tags. Here is a summary of some of the best buys in beef and how to cook them.

Good Buys In Pot Roasts

Beef pot roasts is a favorite choice for he-man dinners in many households. The most popular buys in pot roasts are as follows: Blade, round bone and boneless chuck roasts(from the shoulder), rump roast and heel of round.

Follow this simple procedure for preparing a tempting pot roast:

Flour the roast and brown thoroughly in a little hot fat in a Dutch oven or other large, heavy utensil. Sprinkle well with salt and pepper and add any desired seasoning (onions, celery leaves, herbs). Slip a flat rack under the meat and add a small amount of liquid (about ½ cup) such as water, tomato juice or bouillon. Cover and simmer over low heat until meat is very tender, 2 to 3 hours. If desired, vegetables may be added about an hour before the meat is done.

Economy Beef Steaks

Steak every Sunday and often during the week can be your motto if you choose from these: Round and blade bone chuck steaks, round and flank steaks.

These steaks should not be broiled like their fancier cousins, the porterhouse, T-bone and club; they should be braised. To braise, follow the directions given for preparing pot roast. Use ¼ to ½ cup liquid and add a little more as it cooks away.

Penny-Wise Stew Meat

A hearty stew is one good answer to big appetites. For ribsticking goodness, prepare your stew this way:

Cut the meat into 1 to 2 inch cubes. If desired, the meat may be floured before browning. Brown a few cubes at a time in a little hot fat. Add seasonings and cover meat with liquid. Cover pan and cook over low heat until meat is nearly tender. Add vegetables, such as onions, potatoes and carrots, and continue cooking until these are done. Before serving, the meat and vegetables may be removed and the liquid thickened with a flour and water paste.

Into The Grinder And Out

In any review of economical beef buys, ground beef usually tops the list. Here are some thrifty cuts to have ground for use at meat loaves, patties, sauces and casseroles: Flank, chuck, shank, plate, rump and heel of round.

First Step To Economy

To start you on your way towards planning good tasting and economical beef dishes, here's a tested recipe for pot roast cooked with sour cream. Serve with cooked noodles topped with the gravy.

Swedish Pot Roast with Noodles

3½ to 4 pound pot roast; 3 tablespoons lard; 2 medium onions, sliced; 1 clove garlic, minced; 1 teaspoon salt; ½ pint sour cream (1 cup); 1 cup water; 4-ounce package noodles.

In a Dutch oven or other heavy utensil, melt lard and in it lightly brown onion and garlic. Push to one side. Rub meat with salt and brown well. Combine sour cream with water and pour over meat. Top meat with onions and garlic, cover and cook over low heat for 2½ hours, or until tender. Remove roast, skim off all but 4 tablespoons fat. Into fat, stir 4 tablespoons flour; gradually add 2 cups bouillon or water and the sour cream mixture, stirring constantly, until thickened. Season to taste with salt, pepper and paprika. Serve sauce on cooked noodles.

Enlists In WAVES

When precise measurements are to be made against the meter, the instrument must be put in an air-conditioned, humidity-controlled room for 48 hours, so that the temperature of the meter is at room temperature. The body heat of the operator would be enough to cause variation, so in running tests he must stand behind a shield.

Some 700 physical standards are in the Bureau of Standards—including the kilogram, the ohm, the volt, also the master crystal clocks which are kept in a vault below the ground and from which come the nation's time signals.

All this indicates why the Bureau of Standards, above all things, must be nonpartisan and accurate. It also indicates why the firing of Director Allen Astin on the charge that the bureau unfairly tested a solution for pepping up auto batteries is a considerable jolt.

Giant Pill Which Costs $4 May Save Your Life In Atom Attack

CHICAGO — (INS) — A panel of the nation's top scientists today said a giant-sized pill that weighs two ounces and costs about four dollars probably can save your life from an A-bomb's lethal rays.

The pill — which contains Cysteine, a protein substance — would be effective against high radiation only if you take it about an hour before the bomb drops, the scientists added, so you would need advance warning of an impending attack.

In a round-table discussion at the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology in Chicago, the radiation experts said the pill already has been tried on some humans and insisted general use could be practical in the not-too-distant future. At present it is available only for experimental trials.

(In Washington, however, Pentagon medical experts said anti-radiation chemicals still are in the experimental stage and there are no definite plans yet for their use.)

Here are the essentials of the scientists' reports:

Cysteine pills given to experimental animals an hour before they are exposed to lethal radiation saves almost all of them from death. It apparently would do the same for humans.

It has already been used successfully to protect the normal tissues of cancer patients so their tumors can be destroyed by super-voltage X-rays.

Cysteine apparently works, the scientists said, by reducing the oxygen content in body tissues, which somehow gives protection aganist radiation.

Dr. Harvey Patt, who tested the new compound at the Argonne National Laboratory in Chicago, told newsmen:

"I would take Cysteine myself if an A-bomb attack were imminent, though I wouldn't dose myself day after day in anticipation. That might be dangerous.

"But don't misunderstand me. I'd run first — and worry about protection later."

Radiation sickness, which usually occurs about seven to 12 days after exposure to the lethal rays from an atomic bomb, is marked by bleeding, shock, damage to the blood-forming tissues in the spleen and bone marrow, and infection.

Other scientists participating in the Chicago report were Dr. Leon Jacobson of the University of Chicago; Drs. Willie W. Smith, Robert Q. Marston and Gilbert Ashwell of the U. S. Public Health Service; Dr. Harry J. Deuel of the University of Southern California, and Dr. Nelson F. Young of the Medical College of Virginia.

Doped Horse Brings Huge Double Payoff

SYDNEY, Australia, April 9 (INS)—An Australian race horse, whose victory last Saturday helped produce a whopping double payoff, was disqualified today by the Australian Jockey Club because it was doped.

The findings by the jockey club set off a police investigation and rocked the Australian turf world.

The disqualified winner was Tarien, who copped the Doncaster Handicap. Tarien, coupled with Carioca, winner of the Sydney Cup on Monday produced a double that was worth over 500,000 Australian pounds ($1,200,000). Tarien's victory alone clipped bookmakers for 300,000 pounds ($666,000).

When precise measurements are to be made against the meter, the instrument must be put in an air-conditioned, humidity-controlled room for 48 hours, so that the temperature of the meter is at room temperature. The body heat of the operator would be enough to cause variation, so in running tests he must stand behind a shield.

Some 700 physical standards are in the Bureau of Standards—including the kilogram, the ohm, the volt, also the master crystal clocks which are kept in a vault below the ground and from which come the nation's time signals.

All this indicates why the Bureau of Standards, above all things, must be nonpartisan and accurate. It also indicates why the firing of Director Allen Astin on the charge that the bureau unfairly tested a solution for pepping up auto batteries is a considerable jolt.

Giant Pill Which Costs $4 May Save Your Life In Atom Attack

CHICAGO — (INS) — A panel of the nation's top scientists today said a giant-sized pill that weighs two ounces and costs about four dollars probably can save your life from an A-bomb's lethal rays.

The pill — which contains Cysteine, a protein substance — would be effective against high radiation only if you take it about an hour before the bomb drops, the scientists added, so you would need advance warning of an impending attack.

In a round-table discussion at the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology in Chicago, the radiation experts said the pill already has been tried on some humans and insisted general use could be practical in the not-too-distant future. At present it is available only for experimental trials.

(In Washington, however, Pentagon medical experts said anti-radiation chemicals still are in the experimental stage and there are no definite plans yet for their use.)

Here are the essentials of the scientists' reports:

Cysteine pills given to experimental animals an hour before they are exposed to lethal radiation saves almost all of them from death. It apparently would do the same for humans.

It has already been used successfully to protect the normal tissues of cancer patients so their tumors can be destroyed by super-voltage X-rays.

Cysteine apparently works, the scientists said, by reducing the oxygen content in body tissues, which somehow gives protection aganist radiation.

Dr. Harvey Patt, who tested the new compound at the Argonne National Laboratory in Chicago, told newsmen:

"I would take Cysteine myself if an A-bomb attack were imminent, though I wouldn't dose myself day after day in anticipation. That might be dangerous.

"But don't misunderstand me. I'd run first — and worry about protection later."

Radiation sickness, which usually occurs about seven to 12 days after exposure to the lethal rays from an atomic bomb, is marked by bleeding, shock, damage to the blood-forming tissues in the spleen and bone marrow, and infection.

Kent State Opens Series At Keyser Today

Potomac State Hosts Ohioans, Totten To Hurl

Game Set For 2 P. M., PVC Contests Today At Franklin, Romney

Coach Matthew Resnick's Kent State College Golden Flashes of Kent, Ohio, are scheduled to open a two-game series with Potomac State College's baseball team today at 2 p. m. at Stayman Field, Keyser.

The Ohioans return to Potomac State's schedule after an absence of one year. In 1951 Potomac won two out of three games from the Buckeye State nine. Jack McClung pitched the Cats to both wins, 3-0, and 3-2 in 13 innings, while the Golden Flashes won the finale, 7-3, defeating Lou Schaper.

Totten Slated To Pitch

"Rowdy" Totten probably will get the pitching assignment from Coach John Maiden in today's game while Junior Dove is slated to hurl Saturday's game. Bob Lee and Keith McCarthy, southpaws, may both see action in the Kent State series.

All Catamount games are free of charge and high school players should take advantage of these contests.

The teams will conclude their series at Keyser Saturday at 2 p. m.

Potomac State dropped its first two games to Mount Union College's Purple Raiders of Alliance, Ohio, last week by scores of 14-7 and 9-5.

On Saturday night the Potomac State College Athletic Department will honor its athletes in all sports at a dinner to be held at Davis Hall at 7 o'clock.

Champs Open Season

Franklin High School's Panthers, coached by Bob Hartman, will open defense of their Potomac Valley Conference crown when they play host to Coach Guy Propst's Circleville High School Indians at 2 p. m. in Franklin. The Panthers won the title with a 7-1 record last season and they shut out Circleville twice, 6-0 and 2-0.

On another P.V.C. tilt on tap for today, West Virginia School for the Deaf, with Glenn R. Hawkins at the helm, will cross bats with Romney High School's Pioneers on the latter's field at 2 p. m.

Pioneers Swept Series

Coach Dick McElwee's tossers defeated the Lions twice last year by scores of 9-4 and 17-3.

Southern High of Oakland is slated to play Terra Alta today on the Preston County team's field.

LaSalle High School will play a practice game with Keyser High School today at 3:30 p. m. at Community Park, Coach Al Martin announced last night.

Babe Didrikson Zaharias III, Fabulous Career Nearing End

Famed Woman Athlete Suffers From Malady Of Malignant Nature

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

BEAUMONT, Tex., April 9 (AP)— The fabulous athletic career of Mildred Babe Didrikson Zaharias that spanned more than two decades and included virtually every competitive sport apparently was at an end today.

Mrs. Zaharias was in a Beaumont hospital waiting the fateful words of her family doctor, who Saturday is expected to announce that she never again can compete in big-time sports, perhaps never can participate in any kind of sports again. The Babe is suffering from a malady reportedly of a malignant nature.

Started At Beaumont

The end of that magnificent career, which had brought her designation as the greatest woman athlete of the half-century, apparently is ending where it started. It was in Beaumont, where she lived 15 of her early years, that the Babe developed her athletic ability.

She went from here to Dallas, where she was All-America in basketball and was the star of the 1932 Olympic Games in which she won three events and set world's records in all. She lost one of those, however, when it was ruled that she did not use the proper form in the high jump.

She ran the 80 meter hurdles in 11.7 seconds, threw the javelin 143 feet, 4 inches and high jumped 5 feet, 5 inches in her record-smashing spree.

Won All Golf Titles

She became a golfer, won all the amateur titles, including the British Women's Championship, then became the queen of the professionals. Only Sunday she had won the tournament named for her—the Babe Zaharias Open in Beaumont. This probably is the last title she ever will win.

The Babe, wife of former wrestler George Zaharias, was to have gone from here to Phoenix for the next women's tournament. But she stopped off at Fort Worth for an examination for a condition that had been troubling her since she underwent an operation for hernia in Beaumont last spring. She was examined by Dr. William C. Tatum of Fort Worth, who reportedly described her ailment as "along the line of malignancy."

She returned to Beaumont and now is in Hotel Dieu where the family doctor, Dr. W. E. Tatum, no relation to the Fort Worth physician but his long-time friend, will make x-rays and tests that should reveal within 48 hours exactly what is wrong with the great woman athlete.

Mrs. R. L. Bowen, with whom Babe and her husband stayed while in Fort Worth, said:

Babe's Very Sick Girl

"Babe will never be able to play golf again. She took the report that she is a very sick girl standing up."

Dr. W. E. Tatum said, "I don't know yet if surgery will cure her but I will say that she never again will play golf of championship caliber."

Mrs. Zaharias, 39, was adept in every sport—tennis, swimming, diving, bowling, fencing, polo, track and field, golf, baseball, softball, boxing, and even football. She once pitched an exhibition game for the St. Louis Cardinals. She could drive a golf ball more than 300 yards.

Stadium Inn Takes Title

Wins Over Amvets In Shuffle Finale

Stadium Inn of Frostburg won the championship of the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League last night by defeating the Cumberland Amvets at the Amvets Home, 74-63.

The Amvets had won by the first three games of the series by the margin of four points, 64-60, but Stadium Inn overcome that lead last night and won the six games by seven points, 134-127.

Bob Powers of Stadium Inn and Tommy Geatz of the Amvets led the scorers last night with 22 points each.

Members of the championship team are Charles Duckworth and Jack Smouse, co-captains; Curtis Green, Art Shuey, Max Stangle, Joe Donahue, Bob Powers, Art Kergan, Niles Sperry and Simeon Green.

Stadium Inn won the title in 1951 but was defeated in the finals of the playoffs last year by the Amvets.

Lakers Can Take Pro Crown With Victory Tonight

NEW YORK, April 9 (AP) — The Minneapolis Lakers need just one more game to repeat as National Basketball Association champions, and they aim to get it tomorrow night.

They play the reeling New York Knickerbockers at the 69th Regiment Armory. If the Lakers win, the professional basketball season is over. If the Knicks hang on, the series moves to Minneapolis for the final two games, if necessary, next Sunday and Wednesday.

Down three games to one after losing their third straight at the Armory last night, 71-69, the Knicks' hopes hang by a tattered thread.

"We're not dead yet. We're just breathing hard."

It was Lapchick who came home after splitting the first two games in Minneapolis and said his charges were confident they could take three straight from the Lakers on the friendly Armory court. But it's the Lakers who are fulfilling Joe's prediction.

Gambling to stay alive, Lapchick said he would start Ernie Vandeweghe in place of the non-scoring Dick McGuire in the fifth game tomorrow night, although Vandeweghe's defensive lapse caused last night's defeat.

Kent State Opens Series At Keyser Today

Game Set For 2 P. M., PVC Contests Today At Franklin, Romney

Coach Matthew Resnick's Kent State College Golden Flashes of Kent, Ohio, are scheduled to open a two-game series with Potomac State College's baseball team today at 2 p. m. at Stayman Field, Keyser.

The Ohioans return to Potomac State's schedule after an absence of one year. In 1951 Potomac won two out of three games from the Buckeye State nine. Jack McClung pitched the Cats to both wins, 3-0, and 3-2 in 13 innings, while the Golden Flashes won the finale, 7-3, defeating Lou Schaper.

Totten Slated To Pitch

"Rowdy" Totten probably will get the pitching assignment from Coach John Maiden in today's game while Junior Dove is slated to hurl Saturday's game. Bob Lee and Keith McCarthy, southpaws, may both see action in the Kent State series.

All Catamount games are free of charge and high school players should take advantage of these contests.

The teams will conclude their series at Keyser Saturday at 2 p. m.

Potomac State dropped its first two games to Mount Union College's Purple Raiders of Alliance, Ohio, last week by scores of 14-7 and 9-5.

On Saturday night the Potomac State College Athletic Department will honor its athletes in all sports at a dinner to be held at Davis Hall at 7 o'clock.

Champs Open Season

Franklin High School's Panthers, coached by Bob Hartman, will open defense of their Potomac Valley Conference crown when they play host to Coach Guy Propst's Circleville High School Indians at 2 p. m. in Franklin. The Panthers won the title with a 7-1 record last season and they shut out Circleville twice, 6-0 and 2-0.

On another P.V.C. tilt on tap for today, West Virginia School for the Deaf, with Glenn R. Hawkins at the helm, will cross bats with Romney High School's Pioneers on the latter's field at 2 p. m.

Pioneers Swept Series

Coach Dick McElwee's tossers defeated the Lions twice last year by scores of 9-4 and 17-3.

Southern High of Oakland is slated to play Terra Alta today on the Preston County team's field.

LaSalle High School will play a practice game with Keyser High School today at 3:30 p. m. at Community Park, Coach Al Martin announced last night.

Babe Didrikson Zaharias Ill, Fabulous Career Nearing End

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

BEAUMONT, Tex., April 9 (AP)—The fabulous athletic career of Mildred Babe Didrikson Zaharias that spanned more than two decades and included virtually every competitive sport apparently was at an end today.

Mrs. Zaharias was in a Beaumont hospital waiting the fateful words of her family doctor, who Saturday is expected to announce that she never again can compete in big-time sports, perhaps never can participate in any kind of sports again. The Babe is suffering from a malady reportedly of a malignant nature.

Started At Beaumont

The end of that magnificent career, which had brought her designation as the greatest woman athlete of the half-century, apparently is ending where it started. It was in Beaumont, where she lived 15 of her early years, that the Babe developed her athletic ability.

She went from here to Dallas, where she was All-America in basketball and was the star of the 1932 Olympic Games in which she won three events and set world's records in all. She lost one of those, however, when it was ruled that she did not use the proper form in the high jump.

She ran the 80 meter hurdles in 11.7 seconds, threw the javelin 143 feet, 4 inches and high jumped 5 feet, 5 inches in her record-smashing spree.

Won All Golf Titles

She became a golfer, won all the amateur titles, including the British Women's Championship, then became the queen of the professionals. Only Sunday she had won the tournament named for her—the Babe Zaharias Open in Beaumont. This probably is the last title she ever will win.

The Babe, wife of former wrestler George Zaharias, was to have gone from here to Phoenix for the next women's tournament. But she stopped off at Fort Worth for an examination for a condition that had been troubling her since she underwent an operation for hernia in Beaumont last spring. She was examined by Dr. William C. Tatum of Fort Worth, who reportedly described her ailment as "along the line of malignancy."

She returned to Beaumont and now is in Hotel Dieu where the family doctor, Dr. W. E. Tatum, no relation to the Fort Worth physician but his long-time friend, will make x-rays and tests that should reveal within 48 hours exactly what is wrong with the great woman athlete.

Mrs. R. L. Bowen, with whom Babe and her husband stayed while in Fort Worth, said:

Babe's Very Sick Girl

"Babe will never be able to play golf again. She took the report that she is a very sick girl standing up."

Dr. W. E. Tatum said, "I don't know yet if surgery will cure her but I will say that she never again will play golf of championship caliber."

Mrs. Zaharias, 39, was adept in every sport—tennis, swimming, diving, bowling, fencing, polo, track and field, golf, baseball, softball, boxing, and even football. She once pitched an exhibition game for the St. Louis Cardinals. She could drive a golf ball more than 300 yards.

Turpin-Humez Bout Billed As Title Go

Winner Must Oppose American Champion

LONDON, April 9 (AP)—Britain's Boxing Board of Control today announced it would recognize the Randy Turpin-Charles Humez fight as a world championship contest, an act which may torpedo the formation of a world boxing organization.

The BBBC stipulated that the winner of the June 9 fight in London must agree to defend his title against the American champion within 90 days if called on to do so.

In New York, Bob Christenberry, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, said American boxing authorities will not recognize the Turpin-Humez winner as world champion.

"There's no change in our position," said Christenberry.

"We expect Paddy Young (of New York) and Bobo Olson (of San Francisco) to meet for the American championship and we'd like the winner to fight the Turpin-Humez winner for the world championship."

Sandy Is Favorite

NEW YORK, April 9 (AP)—Randy Sandy, a skinny, six-foot Harlemite, today was made a 9 to 5 favorite to whip substitute Jimmy Beau of New Canaan, Conn., in the top ten rounder at St. Nicholas Arena tomorrow night.

Beau, a strong-chinned, ring rusty 160-pounder, replaced Willie Troy for the 10 p. m. radio-television network fight when Troy came up with a fever yesterday.

Turpin-Humez Bout Billed As Title Go

Winner Must Oppose American Champion

LONDON, April 9 (AP)—Britain's Boxing Board of Control today announced it would recognize the Randy Turpin-Charles Humez fight as a world championship contest, an act which may torpedo the formation of a world boxing organization.

The BBBC stipulated that the winner of the June 9 fight in London must agree to defend his title against the American champion within 90 days if called on to do so.

In New York, Bob Christenberry, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, said American boxing authorities will not recognize the Turpin-Humez winner as world champion.

"There's no change in our position," said Christenberry.

"We expect Paddy Young (of New York) and Bobo Olson (of San Francisco) to meet for the American championship and we'd like the winner to fight the Turpin-Humez winner for the world championship."

Walcott Guaranteed $250,000 For Fight

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 9 (AP) — Manager Felix Bocchicchio said today Jersey Joe Walcott has been guaranteed $250,000 for his title fight with Heavyweight Champion Rocky Marciano in Chicago May 15.

"Al Weill (Marciano's manager) don't have to worry about us not showing up in Chicago," said Bocchicchio. "Jim Norris (president of the International Boxing Club) has guaranteed us the quarter-million and a team of wild horses couldn't keep us away. We've got the dough and now we'll take back the title."

Baker Sprains Back, Johnstown Bout Off

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., April 9 (AP)—A back sprain forced Bob Baker, Pittsburgh heavyweight, today to cancel his 10-round bout here with Nino Valdes of Havana April 20.

Dr. Aldo Mazzoni of the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission ordered Baker to take a three week rest. The Pittsburgh Negro suffered the injury while working in a steel mill and aggravaged the condition in training.

Sandy Is Favorite

NEW YORK, April 9 (AP)—Randy Sandy, a skinny, six-foot Harlemite, today was made a 9 to 5 favorite to whip substitute Jimmy Beau of New Canaan, Conn., in the top ten rounder at St. Nicholas Arena tomorrow night.

Beau, a strong-chinned, ring rusty 160-pounder, replaced Willie Troy for the 10 p. m. radio-television network fight when Troy came up with a fever yesterday.

Harbert Posts 4-Under-Par 68, Leads Masters

Snead Gets Bad Break, Wrong Score Confuses

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 9 (AP) — Husky Chick Harbert, who has come close to a lot of golf titles but never took a big one, provided the one sure thing in a day of confusion as the 17th Masters Tournament began today.

Harbert fired a four-under-par round of 68 over the Augusta National Course and watched it stand up all day as a half challengers wilted under the blazing sun. But there was always someone coming close enough to keep a record first-day crowd of more than 5,000 racing around the course.

And to cap the day's eventful doings, defending champion Sam Snead teetered on the edge of disqualification for a moment before some confusion about his score card was cleared up. Snead settled for a one-under par round of 71, which left him in a four-way tie for sixth place.

Marks Down Wrong Score

Actually, Sam scored a 70, matching the totals of 1951 winner Ben Hogan and Lean Milon Marusic of Herkimer, N. Y. But his playing partner, Byron Nelson, put down a four on Snead's card for the 18th hole instead of the birdie three Sam shot. Snead signed the card without noticing, and when the error was discovered it was ruled that his score had to go in the books the way the card showed.

The one stroke could make a lot of difference, the way the star shotmakers were playing today. With the pins in difficult positions on the big greens, they couldn't take the course apart the way they did in practice.

Par for the 6,900 yard course is 36-36—72.

Nine Break Par

Nine of the 70 starters came in under that figure. Sharing the 71 bracket with Snead were Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y., Tommy Bolt of Maplewood, N. J., and Bob Hamilton of Evansville, Ind. Two amateurs, Frank Stranahan of Toledo and Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C., and one pro, Skip Alexander, had par 72's.

Still very much in the running were such players as National Open Champion Julius Boros, Jim Turnesa, the PGA titleholder, Jimmy Demaret, the only three-time winner of the Masters and a flock of others who had 73's and 74's.

Ike's Decision to Play Golf Makes Capital Ball Fans Mad

Calvin Coolidge, 1925.

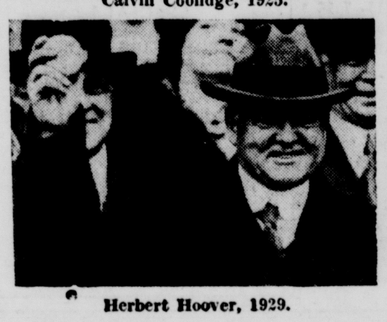
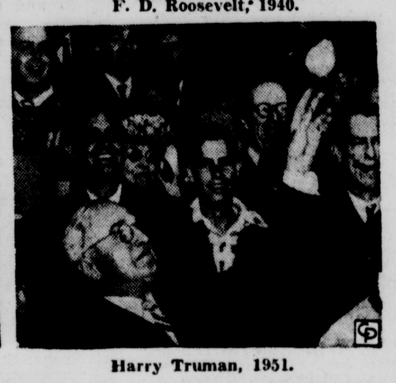
F. D. Roosevelt, 1940.



Herbert Hoover, 1929.



Harry Truman, 1951.

IT JUST seemed the thing to do, to have the President throw out the first ball for the opening major league game in Washington, the nation's capital. Presidents from William Howard Taft have been doing it, adding to baseball's stature as the national game. But President Eisenhower made Washington ball fans mad when he announced that he would be playing golf on opening day, April 13. (International)

DeSpirito Injured In 3-Horse Spill

LINCOLN DOWNS, R.I., April 9 (AP) — Jockey Anthony DeSpirito, who set a world record by riding 390 winners last year, was injured in a three horse spill at this track today.

The 17-year-old rider was found to have suffered a brain concussion and bruises of the nose, right arm and left thigh. His condition was termed "good" and he is expected to go home tomorrow.

DeSpirito, whose 390 winners last year set a new world's record, was riding a horse named ten per cent when it and two others went down as they neared the first turn in the fourth race.

Neither of the other jockeys, Raymond Desmarais and Richard Rushworth, was seriously hurt.

Speiser Knocks Out Fifield In Seventh

DETROIT, April 9 (AP) — Chuck Speiser, former Michigan State and Olympic sharpshooter, won a technical knockout at the Motor City Arena tonight over Billy Fifield, Canada's No. 2 ranking light heavyweight in 49 seconds of the seventh round.

Speiser, who weighed 174, never floored his man, but had the 170½-pound Fifield groggy in the third, socking home at least 10 blows for every one he took. The seventh was the same story, with Fifield floundering in a daze and all but pitching on his face twice.

The fight, scheduled for eight rounds, drew 1,242 and was an ABC Television feature.

Will the gasoline you're buying help keep your car from STALLING?
It may surprise you, as it has many motorists, to know that one of the commonest causes of stalling in the first few minutes of driving can be prevented by the right gasoline. In damp, cool weather (30° to 55°) the gasoline sprayed into your carburetor acts as a refrigerant. It freezes the moisture in the air into tiny particles of frosty ice. These ice particles clog the carburetor openings and cause stalling. This cannot be corrected by mechanical repairs. It can be corrected with Esso Extra Gasoline, which contains an added ingredient...a built-in anti-freeze which acts as a carburetor defroster and helps prevent cold start stalling. It's especially good in cars with automatic transmissions, where restarting after stalling is more troublesome. In addition to this protection, you get Esso Extra's famous combination of qualities . . . quick starting, fast warm-up, high anti-knock, power, and long mileage . . . everything you need for Happy Motoring from the instant you touch the starter. Harbert Posts 4-Under-Par 68, Leads Masters

Snead Gets Bad Break, Wrong Score Confuses

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 9 (AP) — Husky Chick Harbert, who has come close to a lot of golf titles but never took a big one, provided the one sure thing in a day of confusion as the 17th Masters Tournament began today.

Harbert fired a four-under-par round of 68 over the Augusta National Course and watched it stand up all day as a half challengers wilted under the blazing sun. But there was always someone coming close enough to keep a record first-day crowd of more than 5,000 racing around the course.

And to cap the day's eventful doings, defending champion Sam Snead teetered on the edge of disqualification for a moment before some confusion about his score card was cleared up. Snead settled for a one-under par round of 71, which left him in a four-way tie for sixth place.

Marks Down Wrong Score

Actually, Sam scored a 70, matching the totals of 1951 winner Ben Hogan and Lean Milon Marusic of Herkimer, N. Y. But his playing partner, Byron Nelson, put down a four on Snead's card for the 18th hole instead of the birdie three Sam shot. Snead signed the card without noticing, and when the error was discovered it was ruled that his score had to go in the books the way the card showed.

The one stroke could make a lot of difference, the way the star shotmakers were playing today. With the pins in difficult positions on the big greens, they couldn't take the course apart the way they did in practice.

Harbert posted his round of 33-35—68 early in the day. At the windup it was just enough for a one-stroke lead over Ed "Porky" Oliver and big Al Besselink. Hogan and Marusic tied for fourth with 70's.

Par for the 6,900 yard course is 36-36—72.

Nine Break Par

Nine of the 70 starters came in under that figure. Sharing the 71 bracket with Snead were Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y., Tommy Bolt of Maplewood, N. J., and Bob Hamilton of Evansville, Ind. Two amateurs, Frank Stranahan of Toledo and Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C., and one pro, Skip Alexander, had par 72's.

Still very much in the running were such players as National Open Champion Julius Boros, Jim Turnesa, the PGA titleholder, Jimmy Demaret, the only three-time winner of the Masters and a flock of others who had 73's and 74's.

Brooklyn Looks To Repeat This Season With Bolstering Of Weak Mound Staff

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Writer

Even the Men in Blue, the umpires, who seldom are quoted, said it was "amazing and it wouldn't ever happen again" when the Brooklyn Dodgers won the pennant last year with virtually a one-man pitching staff.

With the acquisition of Russ Meyer, the pop-off pitcher from the Phils, many writers and baseball men, including a quoted Charlie Dressen, the Bums' manager, figured it was all over but the shouting this year. The Bums will win it again.

Dressen, the natty little guy who almost lost his job the year before when the club blew a 15-game lead and dropped the flag to the Giants, says he was misquoted. He doesn't think it's that easy. In fact, he says every other club in the league excepting the Pirates are laying claim to the flag.

"I didn't say I'd win the pennant when we got Meyer," Dressen told this reporter in camp at Vero Beach, Fla. "I know we can't win it easy. We've got some problems and we're hoping to get the same good performances we had last year with our older men and help from the newcomers."

"WHY," Charlie continued "many of the writers in camp last year figured we couldn't do it then when we lost Don Newcombe to the service. However, we did, and remember Don had won 21 games the year before and Preacher Roe 22. What did we get from them last year? Nothing from Newcombe and only 11 victories from the Preach. We won it, though.

"I'll tell you when we won it. The last week of spring training when we got Joe Black from the St. Paul roster. I don't mean he was the whole team, naturally, for this is a team club, but without Black we certainly couldn't have copped the flag.

"Black, I know, isn't a freak. He'll win for us again. And this year I know I have him."

Charlie's pitching, actually, was pitiful although he did get some help from newcomers last season. Both Ralph Branca and Clem Labine, who were figured as helpers, were having trouble. Black, the ace, won 15 games, and then had to start three World Series games.

Dressen got 14 wins from Carl Erskine, 13 from Billy Loes, a rookie; and 11 from Roe. He has the same four back, of course, and several fine young prospects who may help along with Meyer.

INCLUDED in the list of newcomers are John Podres, the young lefthander who was so impressive in camp last spring. He came up with a back injury and finished the season at Montreal. He has a fine slow curve and a fast ball.

Another who is expected to stick and help is Ronald Lee, a lefthander and serviceman who had a 14-4 record with Montreal in 1950. He's the choice of Dressen, at this stage, to make good. He spent 13 months in Korea.

Bob Milliken, another serviceman coming back, is a fine prospect. A righthander, he has had three years of pro experience.

Glenn Mickens is another. He is a righthander with limited experience but one who did well pitching in the service. He won 33 games out of 40 starts.

Then there is Jim Hughes, who came up from Montreal to win two games for the Dodgers late last season. He wasn't eligible for the Series, but had he been Dressen opines the Dodgers might have won it.

Both Branca and Labine look better this spring.

Also on deck is Ben Wade. The Dodgers' pitching could be vastly improved with help from the youngsters and Mr. Meyer.

THE BIG story here is the move made by Dressen to lift Billy Cox, rated the best third sacker in the league last year and sensational in the World Series, from the hot corner and make him a utility man.

This caused more than eyebrow lifting but Dressen points out the reasoning. First, he said, they tried to make a trade for him because the Dodgers are loaded with young talent at third and some of it has to be kept.

When that didn't work out, the brass decided that since Cox not only was the best third baseman, but also the best shortstop and the best second baseman on the club, it might be wise to use him as a fill-in for Pee Wee Reese at short or Jackie Robinson at second, each of whom is getting older and probably can't stand the gaff of a 154-game schedule.

Thus, he reasons, he would be prepared for any eventuality at the infield spots.

Bobby Morgan did a fine job filling in for Cox at third last year and then there is Don Hoak, from Montreal.

He says Hoak is "great," can run and field and in his case it's only a question of hitting. He was rated the "finest third baseman" in the International league in the last 10 years.

Jim (Junior) Gilliam, purchased from the Baltimore Elite Giants in 1950 and the International league's all-star second sacker last year, is on hand to fill in for Robinson if and when the veteran slows up too much.

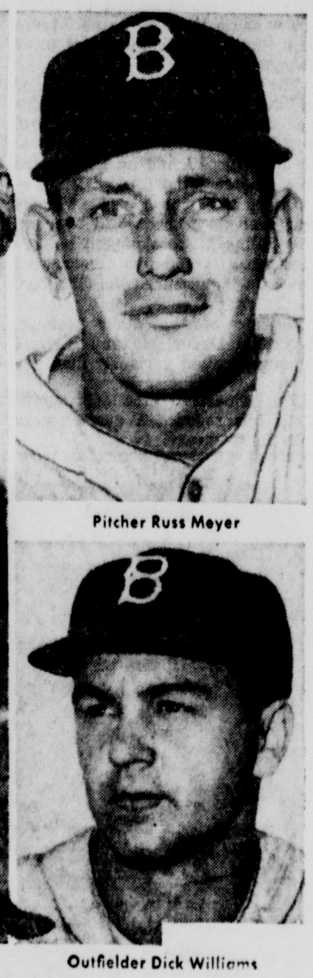
Dressen may carry at least three catchers because Roy Campanella, the star, came up injured several times last year and may need help. Al Walker will be retained and the other may be Dixie Howell, formerly with Cincinnati and now on the St. Paul roster.

The two outfield posts, center and right, are set with Duke Snider and Carl Furillo. The spot open is the one held in 1952 by Andy Pafko, who was traded, and there are at least five seeking the berth.

Included in this list are George Shuba, Don Thompson, Dick Williams, Bill Antonello and Carmen Mauro. Shuba had a knee operation and Williams a bad shoulder, but each is a ranking contender for the spot.

Pitcher Don Podres



Pitcher Russ Meyer

Outfielder Dick Williams

DATA ON THE DODGERS—

Brooklyn's pitching much better and if the old regulars hold together and the youngsters come through as capable fill-ins, it could be another pennant.

Gilliam, Podres Sign Brooklyn Contracts

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP)—Jim (Junior) Gilliam and two Brooklyn farmhands were officially signed to Dodger contracts today as the National League champions returned one player to their Montreal farm and released three others.

Besides Gilliam, the Dodgers brought up Pitchers Johnny Podres and Bob Milliken, both righthanders. Podres, who had a 5-5 record at Montreal last year, has been the Brooks' spring pitching sensation. Milliken, returning serviceman who performed last for Montreal, also has looked impressive in exhibition games.

Shortstop Don Zimmer and Righthanded Pitcher Ronnie Negray were optioned to St. Paul of the American Association and Ed Roebuck, righthanded pitcher, was released to Montreal.

Yanks Give Ike Pass

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP)—President Eisenhower today received a lifetime pass to the home baseball games of the world champion New York Yankees.

Cincinnati Wants Tag Of "Redlegs"

CINCINNATI, April 9 (AP)—Its the Cincinnati Redlegs now, the management said today.

Originally this city's National League club was known as the Cincinnati Red Stockings. It is so-called again in the club's 1953 yearbook.

From Red Stockings, the name gradually became Redlegs, then to make it shorter it finally was reduced to Reds.

General Manager Gabe Paul prefers the club to be called Redlegs.

No reason was given for the change.

The political significance of the word "Reds" these days and its effect on the change was not discussed by management.

Pirates Trim Yankees, 10-5

Mantle, Kiner, Abrams, O'Connell Hit Homers

PITTSBURGH, April 9 (AP)—Home runs by Ralph Kiner, Cal Abrams and Danny O'Connell paced the National League Pittsburgh Pirates to a 10-5 victory over the championship New York Yankees of the American League in Pittsburgh's first exhibition game of the year.

Murry Dickson got credit for the win although he left the mound after giving up nine hits in four innings. Vic Raschi was charged with the loss.

Mickey Mantle homered for the Yanks in the seventh, driving the ball over the right field stands — a feat accomplished only twice before, once by Babe Ruth in 1935 and again in 1950 by Teddy Beard, then a Pirate.

Roberts struck out seven in pitching the shutout. Bobby Shantz, the star left hander of the A's, opened against Roberts and turned in a fine performance. Shantz allowed two hits, one run and struckout seven in his five inning trick.

Lefty Alex Kellner relieved Shantz in the sixth and promptly was belted for three runs. Shantz was the loser.

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Writer

Even the Men in Blue, the umpires, who seldom are quoted, said it was "amazing and it wouldn't ever happen again" when the Brooklyn Dodgers won the pennant last year with virtually a one-man pitching staff.

With the acquisition of Russ Meyer, the pop-off pitcher from the Phils, many writers and baseball men, including a quoted Charlie Dressen, the Bums' manager, figured it was all over but the shouting this year. The Bums will win it again.

Dressen, the natty little guy who almost lost his job the year before when the club blew a 15-game lead and dropped the flag to the Giants, says he was misquoted. He doesn't think it's that easy. In fact, he says every other club in the league excepting the Pirates are laying claim to the flag.

"I didn't say I'd win the pennant when we got Meyer," Dressen told this reporter in camp at Vero Beach, Fla. "I know we can't win it easy. We've got some problems and we're hoping to get the same good performances we had last year with our older men and help from the newcomers."

"WHY," Charlie continued "many of the writers in camp last year figured we couldn't do it then when we lost Don Newcombe to the service. However, we did, and remember Don had won 21 games the year before and Preacher Roe 22. What did we get from them last year? Nothing from Newcombe and only 11 victories from the Preach. We won it, though.

"I'll tell you when we won it. The last week of spring training when we got Joe Black from the St. Paul roster. I don't mean he was the whole team, naturally, for this is a team club, but without Black we certainly couldn't have copped the flag.

"Black, I know, isn't a freak. He'll win for us again. And this year I know I have him."

Charlie's pitching, actually, was pitiful although he did get some help from newcomers last season. Both Ralph Branca and Clem Labine, who were figured as helpers, were having trouble. Black, the ace, won 15 games, and then had to start three World Series games.

Dressen got 14 wins from Carl Erskine, 13 from Billy Loes, a rookie; and 11 from Roe. He has the same four back, of course, and several fine young prospects who may help along with Meyer.

INCLUDED in the list of newcomers are John Podres, the young lefthander who was so impressive in camp last spring. He came up with a back injury and finished the season at Montreal. He has a fine slow curve and a fast ball.

Another who is expected to stick and help is Ronald Lee, a lefthander and serviceman who had a 14-4 record with Montreal in 1950. He's the choice of Dressen, at this stage, to make good. He spent 13 months in Korea.

Bob Milliken, another serviceman coming back, is a fine prospect. A righthander, he has had three years of pro experience.

Glenn Mickens is another. He is a righthander with limited experience but one who did well pitching in the service. He won 33 games out of 40 starts.

Then there is Jim Hughes, who came up from Montreal to win two games for the Dodgers late last season. He wasn't eligible for the Series, but had he been Dressen opines the Dodgers might have won it.

Both Branca and Labine look better this spring.

Also on deck is Ben Wade. The Dodgers' pitching could be vastly improved with help from the youngsters and Mr. Meyer.

THE BIG story here is the move made by Dressen to lift Billy Cox, rated the best third sacker in the league last year and sensational in the World Series, from the hot corner and make him a utility man.

This caused more than eyebrow lifting but Dressen points out the reasoning. First, he said, they tried to make a trade for him because the Dodgers are loaded with young talent at third and some of it has to be kept.

When that didn't work out, the brass decided that since Cox not only was the best third baseman, but also the best shortstop and the best second baseman on the club, it might be wise to use him as a fill-in for Pee Wee Reese at short or Jackie Robinson at second, each of whom is getting older and probably can't stand the gaff of a 154-game schedule.

Thus, he reasons, he would be prepared for any eventuality at the infield spots.

Bobby Morgan did a fine job filling in for Cox at third last year and then there is Don Hoak, from Montreal.

He says Hoak is "great," can run and field and in his case it's only a question of hitting. He was rated the "finest third baseman" in the International league in the last 10 years.

Jim (Junior) Gilliam, purchased from the Baltimore Elite Giants in 1950 and the International league's all-star second sacker last year, is on hand to fill in for Robinson if and when the veteran slows up too much.

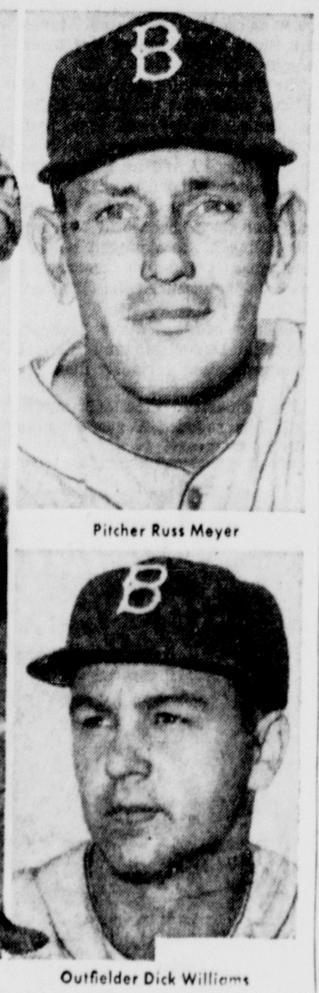
Dressen may carry at least three catchers because Roy Campanella, the star, came up injured several times last year and may need help. Al Walker will be retained and the other may be Dixie Howell, formerly with Cincinnati and now on the St. Paul roster.

The two outfield posts, center and right, are set with Duke Snider and Carl Furillo. The spot open is the one held in 1952 by Andy Pafko, who was traded, and there are at least five seeking the berth.

Included in this list are George Shuba, Don Thompson, Dick Williams, Bill Antonello and Carmen Mauro. Shuba had a knee operation and Williams a bad shoulder, but each is a ranking contender for the spot.

Pitcher Don Podres



Pitcher Russ Meyer

Outfielder Dick Williams

DATA ON THE DODGERS—

Brooklyn's pitching much better and if the old regulars hold together and the youngsters come through as capable fill-ins, it could be another pennant.

Gilliam, Podres Sign Brooklyn Contracts

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP)—Jim (Junior) Gilliam and two Brooklyn farmhands were officially signed to Dodger contracts today as the National League champions returned one player to their Montreal farm and released three others.

Besides Gilliam, the Dodgers brought up Pitchers Johnny Podres and Bob Milliken, both righthanders. Podres, who had a 5-5 record at Montreal last year, has been the Brooks' spring pitching sensation. Milliken, returning serviceman who performed last for Montreal, also has looked impressive in exhibition games.

Shortstop Don Zimmer and Righthanded Pitcher Ronnie Negray were optioned to St. Paul of the American Association and Ed Roebuck, righthanded pitcher, was released to Montreal.

Pirates Trim Yankees, 10-5

Mantle, Kiner, Abrams, O'Connell Hit Homers

PITTSBURGH, April 9 (AP)—Home runs by Ralph Kiner, Cal Abrams and Danny O'Connell paced the National League Pittsburgh Pirates to a 10-5 victory over the championship New York Yankees of the American League in Pittsburgh's first exhibition game of the year.

Murry Dickson got credit for the win although he left the mound after giving up nine hits in four innings. Vic Raschi was charged with the loss.

Mickey Mantle homered for the Yanks in the seventh, driving the ball over the right field stands — a feat accomplished only twice before, once by Babe Ruth in 1935 and again in 1950 by Teddy Beard, then a Pirate.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 9 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals spotted the Memphis Chicks to four runs in the first inning, then roared from behind for a 12-5 victory today.

The Redbirds included three home runs and seven doubles in their 13-hit attack. The four-baggers came from the bats of Ray Jablonski, Larry Miggins and Les Fusselman.

COLUMBUS, O., April 9 (AP)—Detroit pitcher Ned Garver was pounded for five home runs, two of them by centerfielder Gus Bell, as the Cincinnati Redlegs defeated the Tigers, 13-3, in an exhibition baseball game here today.

Bell's two homers accounted for four runs. Ted Kluszewski added another six runs on a homer and two doubles.

Rocky Bridges and Andy Seminick got the other homer for Cincinnati in the fifth.

Rogovin, officially tabbed by Manager Paul Richards as Tuesday's starter, allowed five hits and walked none. He was followed by Harry Dorish, who yielded two hits in the last two frames.

Roberts Blanks A's

PORTSMOUTH, Va., April 9 (AP)—Robin Roberts limited the Philadelphia Athletics to five hits today as the Philadelphia Phillies blanked their intra-city rivals 4-0 in an exhibition game here.

Roberts struck out seven in pitching the shutout. Bobby Shantz, the star left hander of the A's, opened against Roberts and turned in a fine performance. Shantz allowed two hits, one run and struckout seven in his five inning trick.

Lefty Alex Kellner relieved Shantz in the sixth and promptly was belted for three runs. Shantz was the loser.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK—(INS)—There's a quiet but intense fight on between the Department of Defense and the Atomic Energy Commission over the latter's release of information about the proximity of troops to atomic blasts.

And thereby hangs a tale. The military has never become reconciled to civilian control of the A-bomb. Its point is simple and direct: The most important uses of Uranium-235 and plutonium up to now have been military. Therefore, it feels it is no more sensible to place the A-bomb in the hands of civilians than it would have been if the predominantly civilian Office of Scientific Research and Development had decreed, early in World War II, that it would retain control of two weapons it developed, the sea-going jeep and the bazooka.

Pentagon regulars believe the AEC was completely naive in telling the world, particularly Russia, that troops and observers were successfully placed two miles from a 15 kiloton bomb at Yucca Flat, and that later a small group of officers went up to within about a mile or a mile and a half of a similar blast.

One general was telling me, "We've given them more or less complete information about how to defend themselves against the atomic cannon, if we must use it in Korea." He urged that control of all military aspects of the atom be returned to the military, but agreed that there was very little likelihood that this would happen.

A recent piece here about the Nescafe Company's "Win A Trip To The Coronation" contest inadvertently gave the impression that the winners already have been chosen. Not so. What took place was a dress rehearsal, a press review, of how the actual winners (when they are chosen) will be briefed before they take off on May 29.

Bert Bacharach, men's clothing expert, warned potential winners, "No ice cream suits. No 'loafers'. No open neck shirts, and no open-toed shoes. Dark suits, same trousers, same jackets, same darkness. No Bohemians. There is nothing casual about a coronation."

Most entertaining movie I've seen in the age of a very elderly racoon is "Trouble Along The Way," with John Wayne, Charlie Coburn and Donna Reed. It's the story of a discredited football coach (Wayne) who tries to put a bankrupt college over, financially, while trying to hand on to his daughter—who is menaced by a prim young inspector (Donna) from the State Welfare Society which claims Wayne is an inept father. Coburn's portrayal of an old priest trying to save his school, via a store-bought football team, is a rare bit of magic.

Ed Gardner and his beautiful wife, Simone, send a rare postcard from Cairo, chiefly rare because the Egyptian postoffice department apparently still is issuing stamps bearing the ample likeness of King Farouk. In his best Duffy's Tavern manner, Ed writes:

"The swimming ain't so good here in the Nile, but, oh, that yachting! We chartered a 30-foot sloop yesterday at two piastres a foot—which is roughly (or gently) a buck-eighty. This was Egyptian plan, of course."

Small, famished child who is related to my wife and myself by marriage was led by the hand recently to Mt. Vernon—his first trip. Enroute, his father gave him a complete account of how George Washington became owner of the great estate on the Potomac, how he spent his time there, etc. The child interrupted occasionally to yell for food.

At last the great moment arrived. We approached the mansion from its graceful rear. Proudly the father stopped, and with a sweeping gesture toward the home announced, "Well, son, there it is."

Hardening Of Arteries Not Caused By Fat, Doctor Says

By JOHN GEIGER
(INS Science Writer)

CHICAGO, April 9 (INS) — A research team has offered evidence that the wear and tear of blood rushing through your arteries literally can turn parts of the blood-vessel wall into rock.

The scientists said these rocky deposits, made up of calcium and lime salts, are the real beginning of arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries.)

They believe, contrary to most current medical opinion, that excess fat in the bloodstream plays only a minor role.

If the new arteriosclerosis findings are supported by further studies, one researcher said, doctors should stop worrying about the fat in your diet — or your blood — and concentrate on ways to protect you from the turbulence of your bloodstream.

Dr. H. T. Blumenthal of St. Louis University described the pioneering new research to International News Service at a Chicago meeting of the Federation of American Scientists for experimental biology.

Thousands of careful post-mortem studies on arteriosclerosis victims, he said, showed that parts of the elastic artery walls had turned into calcium and lime salts. The rocky deposits were covered with fat, but that was only a secondary effect.

Dr. Blumenthal said a further check showed that the deposits almost always occurred at points where the blood hurtles fastest through the arteries and pounds hardest at the blood-vessel walls.

These were in the coronary arteries, tiny tubes just above the heart that must handle a tremendously forceful spurt of blood with each heart contraction.

Thin-walled brain arteries — which have less elastic fiber and therefore wear out sooner — also are vulnerable. They branch frequently, and Dr. Blumenthal believes friction is increased as the blood careens around right-angle turns.

The researcher said these findings may explain why arteriosclerosis is the chief cause of cerebral strokes and heart attacks due to clots in the coronary arteries.

Where do the artery rocks, the calcium and lime salts, come from? The St. Louis specialist said the calcium is in the elactic fibers of the artery wall itself but safely bound to proteins.

The constant pounding of the blood stream may wear out these fibers, just as a garden hose wears out. When the fibers decompose, the calcium is freed to form the rocky deposits.

Dr. Blumenthal said current attempts to cut down or counter-act serum cholesterol, the fatty blood-stream substance involved in artery-hardening, may be of little value because they fail to deal with the primary cause.

His research, aided by Drs. J. Owen Blache and Fred Handler, was conducted at St. Louis' Jewish and Homer Phipps hospitals.

Worry of FALSE TEETH
Slipping or Irritating?

Don't be embarrassed by loose false teeth slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, talk or laugh. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. This pleasant powder gives a remarkable sense of added comfort and security by holding plates more firmly. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. It's alkaline (non-acid). Get FASTEETH at any drug store. —Advertisement.

Daily Bridge Lesson

WHAT DOES HE EXPECT?

HOW does the situation look to your partner? What trick or tricks does he expect to lose? Sometimes you can make as definite a reply to those queries as if you read his mind. If he is known to you as completely dependable, you may be able to figure out just what there is about his hand that caused him to bid as he did. On rare occasions, you can deduce that his own suit is almost certainly solid, and that he expects to lose only one trick, in a suit which had been bid by one of the opponents.

	♠ A-K-Q-7-4-2 ♥ 8-5 ♦ A-K-J-9-8 ♣ None
♠ 10-8-5 ♥ 7-2 ♦ Q-6-4-3 ♣ J-10-5-3	N W E S	♠ J-9 ♥ 9-6 ♦ 5 ♣ A-K-Q-9-8-7-4-2
	♠ 6-3 ♥ A-K-Q-J-10-4-3 ♦ 10-7-2 ♣ 6

(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
2 ♠	3 ♣	3 ♥	Pass
4 ♦	Pass	6 ♥	Pass
7 ♥

It is easy enough to understand why South went all the way to 6-Hearts after hearing his partner's original two bid and his later showing of the diamond suit. He knew his own suit should not contain any losers, that North certainly ought to have the top cards for the two suits he had bid, and that only one trick could be lost in the opponent's club suit. After studying his hand thoroughly, he decided that the best way to convey all those messages to North was by bidding 6-Hearts.

North likewise studied carefully before he made the grand slam bid. He could see that such a bid by South would have been illogical—after his own offering of a choice between two suits—unless the hearts were solid from the top down. Also, he read without difficulty that South would not have made such a bid if more than one loser in clubs was apparent. Having a lack of losers himself in that suit, and two trumps to assure the ability for a club ruff, he went the rest of the way.

You can think, if you try hard, of slightly different holdings which South might have had, also of several possible East-West distributions which might have caused a defensive ruff on the opening lead. But the likelihood of them was slight compared to the probability of the situation which did exist.

With the club J led at both tables of a team match, can you figure out how North might make his 4-Spades at one table and be set two at the other?

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK—(INS)—There's a quiet but intense fight on between the Department of Defense and the Atomic Energy Commission over the latter's release of information about the proximity of troops to atomic blasts.

And thereby hangs a tale. The military has never become reconciled to civilian control of the A-bomb. Its point is simple and direct: The most important uses of Uranium-235 and plutonium up to now have been military. Therefore, it feels it is no more sensible to place the A-bomb in the hands of civilians than it would have been if the predominantly civilian Office of Scientific Research and Development had decreed, early in World War II, that it would retain control of two weapons it developed, the sea-going jeep and the bazooka.

Pentagon regulars believe the AEC was completely naive in telling the world, particularly Russia, that troops and observers were successfully placed two miles from a 15 kiloton bomb at Yucca Flat, and that later a small group of officers went up to within about a mile or a mile and a half of a similar blast.

One general was telling me, "We've given them more or less complete information about how to defend themselves against the atomic cannon, if we must use it in Korea." He urged that control of all military aspects of the atom be returned to the military, but agreed that there was very little likelihood that this would happen.

A recent piece here about the Nescafe Company's "Win A Trip To The Coronation" contest inadvertently gave the impression that the winners already have been chosen. Not so. What took place was a dress rehearsal, a press review, of how the actual winners (when they are chosen) will be briefed before they take off on May 29.

Bert Bacharach, men's clothing expert, warned potential winners, "No ice cream suits. No 'loafers'. No open neck shirts, and no open-toed shoes. Dark suits, same trousers, same jackets, same darkness. No Bohemians. There is nothing casual about a coronation."

Most entertaining movie I've seen in the age of a very elderly racoon is "Trouble Along The Way," with John Wayne, Charlie Coburn and Donna Reed. It's the story of a discredited football coach (Wayne) who tries to put a bankrupt college over, financially, while trying to hand on to his daughter—who is menaced by a prim young inspector (Donna) from the State Welfare Society which claims Wayne is an inept father. Coburn's portrayal of an old priest trying to save his school, via a store-bought football team, is a rare bit of magic.

Ed Gardner and his beautiful wife, Simone, send a rare postcard from Cairo, chiefly rare because the Egyptian postoffice department apparently still is issuing stamps bearing the ample likeness of King Farouk. In his best Duffy's Tavern manner, Ed writes:

"The swimming ain't so good here in the Nile, but, oh, that yachting! We chartered a 30-foot sloop yesterday at two piastres a foot—which is roughly (or gently) a buck-eighty. This was Egyptian plan, of course."

Small, famished child who is related to my wife and myself by marriage was led by the hand recently to Mt. Vernon—his first trip. Enroute, his father gave him a complete account of how George Washington became owner of the great estate on the Potomac, how he spent his time there, etc. The child interrupted occasionally to yell for food.

At last the great moment arrived. We approached the mansion from its graceful rear. Proudly the father stopped, and with a sweeping gesture toward the home announced, "Well, son, there it is."

Hardening Of Arteries Not Caused By Fat, Doctor Says

By JOHN GEIGER
(INS Science Writer)

CHICAGO, April 9 (INS) — A research team has offered evidence that the wear and tear of blood rushing through your arteries literally can turn parts of the blood-vessel wall into rock.

The scientists said these rocky deposits, made up of calcium and lime salts, are the real beginning of arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries.)

They believe, contrary to most current medical opinion, that excess fat in the bloodstream plays only a minor role.

If the new arteriosclerosis findings are supported by further studies, one researcher said, doctors should stop worrying about the fat in your diet — or your blood — and concentrate on ways to protect you from the turbulence of your bloodstream.

Dr. H. T. Blumenthal of St. Louis University described the pioneering new research to International News Service at a Chicago meeting of the Federation of American Scientists for experimental biology.

Thousands of careful post-mortem studies on arteriosclerosis victims, he said, showed that parts of the elastic artery walls had turned into calcium and lime salts. The rocky deposits were covered with fat, but that was only a secondary effect.

Dr. Blumenthal said a further check showed that the deposits almost always occurred at points where the blood hurtles fastest through the arteries and pounds hardest at the blood-vessel walls.

These were in the coronary arteries, tiny tubes just above the heart that must handle a tremendously forceful spurt of blood with each heart contraction.

Thin-walled brain arteries — which have less elastic fiber and therefore wear out sooner — also are vulnerable. They branch frequently, and Dr. Blumenthal believes friction is increased as the blood careens around right-angle turns.

The researcher said these findings may explain why arteriosclerosis is the chief cause of cerebral strokes and heart attacks due to clots in the coronary arteries.

Where do the artery rocks, the calcium and lime salts, come from? The St. Louis specialist said the calcium is in the elactic fibers of the artery wall itself but safely bound to proteins.

The constant pounding of the blood stream may wear out these fibers, just as a garden hose wears out. When the fibers decompose, the calcium is freed to form the rocky deposits.

Dr. Blumenthal said current attempts to cut down or counter-act serum cholesterol, the fatty blood-stream substance involved in artery-hardening, may be of little value because they fail to deal with the primary cause.

His research, aided by Drs. J. Owen Blache and Fred Handler, was conducted at St. Louis' Jewish and Homer Phipps hospitals.

WHAT DOES HE EXPECT?

HOW does the situation look to your partner? What trick or tricks does he expect to lose? Sometimes you can make as definite a reply to those queries as if you read his mind. If he is known to you as completely dependable, you may be able to figure out just what there is about his hand that caused him to bid as he did. On rare occasions, you can deduce that his own suit is almost certainly solid, and that he expects to lose only one trick, in a suit which had been bid by one of the opponents.

	♠ A-K-Q-7-4-2 ♥ 8-5 ♦ A-K-J-9-8 ♣ None
♠ 10-8-5 ♥ 7-2 ♦ Q-6-4-3 ♣ J-10-5-3	N W E S	♠ J-9 ♥ 9-6 ♦ 5 ♣ A-K-Q-9-8-7-4-2
	♠ 6-3 ♥ A-K-Q-J-10-4-3 ♦ 10-7-2 ♣ 6

(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
2 ♠	3 ♣	3 ♥	Pass
4 ♦	Pass	6 ♥	Pass
7 ♥

It is easy enough to understand why South went all the way to 6-Hearts after hearing his partner's original two bid and his later showing of the diamond suit. He knew his own suit should not contain any losers, that North certainly ought to have the top cards for the two suits he had bid, and that only one trick could be lost in the opponent's club suit. After studying his hand thoroughly, he decided that the best way to convey all those messages to North was by bidding 6-Hearts.

North likewise studied carefully before he made the grand slam bid. He could see that such a bid by South would have been illogical—after his own offering of a choice between two suits—unless the hearts were solid from the top down. Also, he read without difficulty that South would not have made such a bid if more than one loser in clubs was apparent. Having a lack of losers himself in that suit, and two trumps to assure the ability for a club ruff, he went the rest of the way.

You can think, if you try hard, of slightly different holdings which South might have had, also of several possible East-West distributions which might have caused a defensive ruff on the opening lead. But the likelihood of them was slight compared to the probability of the situation which did exist.

With the club J led at both tables of a team match, can you figure out how North might make his 4-Spades at one table and be set two at the other?

Nominees Named For Piedmont Primary Monday

Will Be Held At Opera House

PIEDMONT — Mayor Allan L. Hill and City Councilmen Mervin High, Joseph Maybury and Norman Baughman whose terms expire May 31, have announced they will be candidates at the biennial primary to be held Monday at 8 p. m. at the Piedmont Opera House.

The successful nominees at this convention will be placed on the offical ballot at the election to be held Monday, May 11.

Others may be nominees by holding another convention or filing a petition containing the names of 25 qualified voters with the city clerk.

A candidate for mayor shall have property assessed on the city tax books for at least $500 or for the council, $300.

Mayor Hill is completing his first term of two years as head of the city government. High and Maybury were elected for four years in 1949 and Baughman was elected for two years at that time.

The mayor will be selected for two years and the two candidates for the council receiving the highest number of votes will serve for four years and the next highest nominee for two years.

Councilmen Eugene W. Paxton and W. Garland Cheshire who were elected in 1951 for four years, are holdovers.

BURLINGTON VARIETY SHOW—Julia Trenton and Burton Miller, belle and beau of 1898, pupils at Burlington (W. Va.) Model Elementary School, were outstanding performers in the Eighth Grade Variety Show. The production was rated by Miss Mirnie Judy, principal, as one of the best ever given by the student body. First given several weeks ago, it was repeated earlier this week.

Reorganization Group Reports Mixed Success

ANNAPOLIS, April 9 (AP) — The Commission on Reorganization of State Government had mixed success with its suggestions to Maryland lawmakers who earlier this week ended a 90-day legislative session.

Among successes the study group, headed by Enos S. Stockbridge, can point to are:

1. Passage of a bill to take parole powers from the governor except in cases of life sentences.

2. A bill reorganizing the Board of Correction under an unpaid chairman and placing administrative responsibility in the superintendent of prisons.

3. Preventing state-shared money from going to subdivisions which fail to raise at least $1 per capita of their own revenue.

4. Placing the Board of Public Welfare in charge of the Department of Public Welfare. (The welfare director formerly had control)

Many of the commission's proposals never reached the General Assembly in bill form and the list of those that did and died outweighs the list of those that were passed.

Among the most important of the commission's proposals which failed was a bill to reduce state control and give towns and cities a stronger voice in their own affairs.

Rector Accepts Call To Church In Delaware

Rev. Mowen Once Liven In Frostburg

FROSTBURG—Rev. Harold Mowen, rector of The Church of The Advent, Devil's Lake, North Dakota, for the past nine years, and a former resident of Frostburg, was here Wednesday on a brief visit while enroute to Selbyville, Del., to assume his new duties as Vicar of St. Martins-In-The-Field, an Episcopal church, which is part of a group of congregations that Vicar Mowen will serve.

Rev. Mowen celebrated his seventh anniversary of his ordination to the Episcopal priesthood March 21, after he had been transferred from North Dakota to Delaware.

One of the outstanding events in connection with his departure from North Dakota was a reception tendered in his honor by the Masonic bodies of Devil's Lake, and the Shrine at Grand Forks, North Dakota. He was the chaplain of all Masonic bodies in Devil's Lake and was the recipient of a diamond studded Masonic ring engraved with the insignias of all Masonic bodies in which he held membership.

Rev. Mowen is a son of the late Mrs. Jane Quidas, of Baltimore, who died March 27. He was ordained a deacon August 6, 1945, and advanced to the priesthood, March 21, 1947. During his residence in North Dakota he had charge of the church at Devil's Lake and was also assigned as visiting rector to churches at Lagota, Langon, Leeds, Fort Tattem, and Dunseith. He was editor of the "Sheaf," an Episcopal publication, and served in various other capacities as a member of the Department of Promotion in the state of North Dakota.

Illegal Tag Given W. Va. Budget Bill

Attorney-General Cites Deficit

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 9 (AP)—The West Virginia attorney general's office said today the budget bill passed by the 1953 Legislature is "unconstitutional in its entirety" because it creates a deficit.

That point was contained in an answer filed with the Supreme Court to a proceeding instituted by the State Board of School Finance against Auditor Edgar B. Sims.

Atty. Gen. John G. Fox will argue Sims' case before the court next week in what probably will be a test of the budget bill passed in closing moments of the recent 60-day legislative session.

The board seeks to require Sims to pay a $24,017 deficiency appropriation for the education of homebound school children which the veteran auditor refused to pay on the grounds the budget was unconstitutional.

The constitution prohibits the Legislature from increasing items of the original budget bill prepared by the Board of Public Works, except for appropriations for the judiciary and the Legislature itself.

The appellate court agreed March 31 to consider the case and directed Sims to appear next Tuesday after hearing J. Hornor Davis of Charleston present the board's side of the controversy.

Nominees Named For Piedmont Primary Monday

Will Be Held At Opera House

PIEDMONT — Mayor Allan L. Hill and City Councilmen Mervin High, Joseph Maybury and Norman Baughman whose terms expire May 31, have announced they will be candidates at the biennial primary to be held Monday at 8 p. m. at the Piedmont Opera House.

The successful nominees at this convention will be placed on the offical ballot at the election to be held Monday, May 11.

Others may be nominees by holding another convention or filing a petition containing the names of 25 qualified voters with the city clerk.

A candidate for mayor shall have property assessed on the city tax books for at least $500 or for the council, $300.

Mayor Hill is completing his first term of two years as head of the city government. High and Maybury were elected for four years in 1949 and Baughman was elected for two years at that time.

The mayor will be selected for two years and the two candidates for the council receiving the highest number of votes will serve for four years and the next highest nominee for two years.

Councilmen Eugene W. Paxton and W. Garland Cheshire who were elected in 1951 for four years, are holdovers.

BURLINGTON VARIETY SHOW—Julia Trenton and Burton Miller, belle and beau of 1898, pupils at Burlington (W. Va.) Model Elementary School, were outstanding performers in the Eighth Grade Variety Show. The production was rated by Miss Mirnie Judy, principal, as one of the best ever given by the student body. First given several weeks ago, it was repeated earlier this week.

Rector Accepts Call To Church In Delaware

Rev. Mowen Once Liven In Frostburg

FROSTBURG—Rev. Harold Mowen, rector of The Church of The Advent, Devil's Lake, North Dakota, for the past nine years, and a former resident of Frostburg, was here Wednesday on a brief visit while enroute to Selbyville, Del., to assume his new duties as Vicar of St. Martins-In-The-Field, an Episcopal church, which is part of a group of congregations that Vicar Mowen will serve.

Rev. Mowen celebrated his seventh anniversary of his ordination to the Episcopal priesthood March 21, after he had been transferred from North Dakota to Delaware.

One of the outstanding events in connection with his departure from North Dakota was a reception tendered in his honor by the Masonic bodies of Devil's Lake, and the Shrine at Grand Forks, North Dakota. He was the chaplain of all Masonic bodies in Devil's Lake and was the recipient of a diamond studded Masonic ring engraved with the insignias of all Masonic bodies in which he held membership.

Rev. Mowen is a son of the late Mrs. Jane Quidas, of Baltimore, who died March 27. He was ordained a deacon August 6, 1945, and advanced to the priesthood, March 21, 1947. During his residence in North Dakota he had charge of the church at Devil's Lake and was also assigned as visiting rector to churches at Lagota, Langon, Leeds, Fort Tattem, and Dunseith. He was editor of the "Sheaf," an Episcopal publication, and served in various other capacities as a member of the Department of Promotion in the state of North Dakota.

Illegal Tag Given W. Va. Budget Bill

Attorney-General Cites Deficit

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 9 (AP)—The West Virginia attorney general's office said today the budget bill passed by the 1953 Legislature is "unconstitutional in its entirety" because it creates a deficit.

That point was contained in an answer filed with the Supreme Court to a proceeding instituted by the State Board of School Finance against Auditor Edgar B. Sims.

Atty. Gen. John G. Fox will argue Sims' case before the court next week in what probably will be a test of the budget bill passed in closing moments of the recent 60-day legislative session.

The board seeks to require Sims to pay a $24,017 deficiency appropriation for the education of homebound school children which the veteran auditor refused to pay on the grounds the budget was unconstitutional.

The constitution prohibits the Legislature from increasing items of the original budget bill prepared by the Board of Public Works, except for appropriations for the judiciary and the Legislature itself.

The appellate court agreed March 31 to consider the case and directed Sims to appear next Tuesday after hearing J. Hornor Davis of Charleston present the board's side of the controversy.

Reorganization Group Reports Mixed Success

ANNAPOLIS, April 9 (AP) — The Commission on Reorganization of State Government had mixed success with its suggestions to Maryland lawmakers who earlier this week ended a 90-day legislative session.

Among successes the study group, headed by Enos S. Stockbridge, can point to are:

1. Passage of a bill to take parole powers from the governor except in cases of life sentences.

2. A bill reorganizing the Board of Correction under an unpaid chairman and placing administrative responsibility in the superintendent of prisons.

3. Preventing state-shared money from going to subdivisions which fail to raise at least $1 per capita of their own revenue.

4. Placing the Board of Public Welfare in charge of the Department of Public Welfare. (The welfare director formerly had control)

Many of the commission's proposals never reached the General Assembly in bill form and the list of those that did and died outweighs the list of those that were passed.

Among the most important of the commission's proposals which failed was a bill to reduce state control and give towns and cities a stronger voice in their own affairs.

Police Cancel Inquest Into Fatal Mishap

Schwinabar Held Under $500 Bond

An inquest into the death of James R. Turbin, 64, of New Creek, W. Va., who was killed last Friday when struck by a pick-up truck while crossing U. S. Route 50 near his home, scheduled for Wednesday afternoon, was cancelled according to West Virginia State Police.

Cpl. O. G. Webley, of the Keyser detachment, said authorities decided not to have the inquest because the driver of the truck which killed Turbin had already been bound over to the Grand Jury.

Webley said the driver, Donald F. Schwinabart, 23, of Elk Garden, W. Va., waived preliminary hearing on a charge of involuntary manslaughter before Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle and was released under $500 bond for action of the Grand Jury.

State Police said Turbin had gone to the area about nine miles from Keyser to call on a woman friend. He apparently started to walk across Route 50 in front of the home of Roy Becker when he was struck.

Schwinabart who was driving the truck toward Keyser and was its only occupant, told police he glanced towards Pancake's Garage to his left to see if his friend, Frank Pancake Jr., was in sight. When he looked to the front again, Turbin was directly in front of him, police quoted Schwinabart.

The impact of the crash dented the front of the truck, and death was believed to be instant, police added. They pointed out that Turbin's body was "badly crushed."

Services for the victim were held Monday at the Rogers Funeral Home with Rev. Fred M. Bowman, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, officiating. Burial was in Queens Point Cemetery.

Pallbearers were L. C. Kelley, Melvin Bishop, Howard Turbin, Lyle Hines, Morris Harper and E. L. Hines.

Police Cancel Inquest Into Fatal Mishap

Schwinabar Held Under $500 Bond

An inquest into the death of James R. Turbin, 64, of New Creek, W. Va., who was killed last Friday when struck by a pick-up truck while crossing U. S. Route 50 near his home, scheduled for Wednesday afternoon, was cancelled according to West Virginia State Police.

Cpl. O. G. Webley, of the Keyser detachment, said authorities decided not to have the inquest because the driver of the truck which killed Turbin had already been bound over to the Grand Jury.

Webley said the driver, Donald F. Schwinabart, 23, of Elk Garden, W. Va., waived preliminary hearing on a charge of involuntary manslaughter before Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle and was released under $500 bond for action of the Grand Jury.

State Police said Turbin had gone to the area about nine miles from Keyser to call on a woman friend. He apparently started to walk across Route 50 in front of the home of Roy Becker when he was struck.

Schwinabart who was driving the truck toward Keyser and was its only occupant, told police he glanced towards Pancake's Garage to his left to see if his friend, Frank Pancake Jr., was in sight. When he looked to the front again, Turbin was directly in front of him, police quoted Schwinabart.

The impact of the crash dented the front of the truck, and death was believed to be instant, police added. They pointed out that Turbin's body was "badly crushed."

Services for the victim were held Monday at the Rogers Funeral Home with Rev. Fred M. Bowman, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, officiating. Burial was in Queens Point Cemetery.

Pallbearers were L. C. Kelley, Melvin Bishop, Howard Turbin, Lyle Hines, Morris Harper and E. L. Hines.

Rent Control In State May Expire On June 1

Legislature Pulls Snafu In Bill To Extend Ceiling

BALTIMORE, April 9 (AP)—Rent controls may expire throughout Maryland because of a clerical error in the confusion which marked the windup of the General Assembly last Tuesday morning, it was disclosed today.

Dr. Carl N. Everstine, acting director of the Department of Legislative Reference, examined the journals of the Senate and the House today and concluded the two bodies passed different versions of the same bill.

The Senate bill contained an amendment exempting Baltimore County. The House measure didn't.

A bill, to become law, must be identical in the form in which it passes both chambers.

The Senate early Tuesday morning received for action the House bill which would enable Baltimore, Baltimore County and Hagerstown to extend rent controls if they so desire.

Senate Amendment

The weary senators amended the bill to add Allegany County and its incorporated towns and to remove from the bill Baltimore County.

Baltimore County's removal came on a motion by Sen. Turnbull (D-Balto County).

The bill was then returned to the House. The House concurred in the amendments, but the question now arises—what happened to that amendment exempting Baltimore County.

Dr. Everstine says the House Journal does not show that the lower legislative body passed its bill with that amendment attached.

"In my opinion, this is fatal to the legislation," Dr. Everstine said.

Haste And Confusion

It was not immediately apparent just how the mixup at Annapolis occurred. Dr. Everstine said it may have been simply an inadvertent clerical error which cropped up in the haste and confusion of the final hectic moments of the General Assembly.

Unless extended by Congress, Federal rent controls expire April 30. The Maryland regulations now on the books continue only until June 1.

The difference in Senate and House bills was detected at Towson where conflicting reports were being circulated as to whether or not Baltimore County was included among those governing bodies which could extend rent control.

The bill was designed to give the governing bodies named the authority to extend rent control until June 1, 1955.

The assistant attorney general, Kenneth C. Proctor, said if the journals show what Dr. Everstine says they show he will inform Gov. McKeldin that the "act" has no standing in law.

TNT Club Establishes Committee

A Welfare committee was established at the April covered dish dinner of the TNT Club, earlier in the week at the home of Mrs. Charles Johnson, Laing Avenue.

The committee is to purchase the gifts for the club and send flowers and cards to members when they are ill. Mrs. Esther Arbogast and Mrs. Beatrice Bloss were named to the committee.

During the business session plans were made for the initiation of a new member, at the home of Mrs. Harry Cooper, Avirett Avenue. Mrs. Eleanor Mullin was welcomed as a member and Mrs. Gladys Fisher, Akron, was a guest for the evening.

A house warming gift was presented to the hostess. Mrs. Charlotte Adams won the hostess gift and secret sisters for the last year were revealed and thank you gifts were exchanged. New ones for the coming year were selected.

Concluding the evening dessert was served.

County Departments Ask For $195,000 Increases

A perusal of the budget lists submitted by the various department of county government show that in most instances they call for increases over the current budgets which expire June 30.

Largest hike in budgets so far turned in to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners is that of the Board of Education which is requesting $1,530,550, an increase of $109,382 over the current figure.

The arduous task of preparing the tax levy based on the budgets of the various departments in underway. The levy will be set Tuesday, April 21, at the session of the commissioners at the Court House.

Increased Rate Seen

Combining the Board of Education budget of $1,530,550, and the major departments of the county government listed below the grand total is $2,496,548.06 for the coming fiscal year as compared to the current budget for the same departments of $2,300,800.21.

This makes an increase of $195,749.85 without any provision for school bond issues or increases in the other departments of the county government which have not released their requests.

No information has been given out by responsible county officials on the direction of the tax rate—up or down—but most guesses are to the effect that some increase will be necessary. Issuance of $1,500,000 in school bonds for expansion of facilities during the coming fiscal year would make a tax rate hike necessary, it is believed.

Surplus Helped

It was pointed out that last year the country had a surplus of approximately $500,000 and this "cushioned" the impact of increases in various budgets so that the tax rate was kept at $1.82 per $100 of assessable property. The "cushion" also resulted in an increase in salaries to school teachers without the necessity of hiking the tax rate.

The following budget requests were among those calling for either no changes or for decreases in the amounts for the coming fiscal year. The county farm agent's office, $8,820 as compared to the current budget of $8,952.50. The Upper Potomac River Commission, $26,434 (no change from the current year), County Home, $54,000, a decrease from $54,485.75.

Increases are called for in the budgets of the following departments: Board of Election Supervisors, $40,635.35, an increase from $38,670 for the current year. County Infirmary, $190,000, an increase from $184,567.92. Sylvan Retreat, $90,000, an increase from $89,733.29.

More Increases

Health Department, $34,555.28, an increase from $33,007.25. Roads Department, $353,000, an increase from $299,629. Circuit Court stenographer's office, $5,000, an increase from $4,500. Allegany County Welfare Board, $163,033.40, an increase from $159,533.50.

The other budgets not listed above will be at least as much as last year and in all probability will carry some increase.

The key to how much of a tax rate increase can be expected will be determined by the amount of surplus funds in the current budget. A large surplus may make it possible to keep the tax rate at the present level, or else mitigate the effect so that only a slight hike is necessary.

Rent Control In State May Expire On June 1

Legislature Pulls Snafu In Bill To Extend Ceiling

BALTIMORE, April 9 (AP)—Rent controls may expire throughout Maryland because of a clerical error in the confusion which marked the windup of the General Assembly last Tuesday morning, it was disclosed today.

Dr. Carl N. Everstine, acting director of the Department of Legislative Reference, examined the journals of the Senate and the House today and concluded the two bodies passed different versions of the same bill.

A bill, to become law, must be identical in the form in which it passes both chambers.

The Senate early Tuesday morning received for action the House bill which would enable Baltimore, Baltimore County and Hagerstown to extend rent controls if they so desire.

Senate Amendment

Baltimore County's removal came on a motion by Sen. Turnbull (D-Balto County).

The bill was then returned to the House. The House concurred in the amendments, but the question now arises—what happened to that amendment exempting Baltimore County.

Dr. Everstine says the House journal does not show that the lower legislative body passed its bill with that amendment attached.

Haste And Confusion

It was not immediately apparent just how the mixup at Annapolis occurred. Dr. Everstine said it may have been simply an inadvertent clerical error which cropped up in the haste and confusion of the final hectic moments of the General Assembly.

The difference in Senate and House bills was detected at Towson where conflicting reports were being circulated as to whether or not Baltimore County was included among those governing bodies which could extend rent control.

The assistant attorney general, Kenneth C. Proctor, said if the journals show what Dr. Everstine says they show he will inform Gov. McKeldin that the "act" has no standing in law.

Wants Special Session

Mayor D'Alesandro said today that if the legislature intended to give Baltimore city and the other subdivisions the power to extend rent controls "as apparently it did," then Gov. McKeldin should "call a special session of the legislature" to set things straight.

A special session called to rectify a similar error in a school bond bill cost the state about $25,000.

Sen. McLaughlin (R-Washington) who put Hagerstown on the bill said today he felt that some good may come of the mistake after all.

"It will be up to the landlords when Federal controls expire. If they don't get too greedy, this may work out all right," he said.

"If it leads to hardships and skyrocketing rents, we can always call a special session of the legislature to put rent control back on the books," he said.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—(INS)—Now that the Navy has given the green light to Stanley Kramer, and he has himself a big bankroll, he'll produce "The Caine Mutiny," by Herman Wouk. This is the best story of the sea ever written and headed the best seller list for months.

Kramer has already named Jose Ferrer to play the role of Barney Greenwald, the lawyer. This is the first casting of any role, and Ferrer will be surrounded by other stars. He won an Academy Award for "Cyrano de Bergerac," also a Kramer picture, so this is really a reunion.

"Caine Mutiny" will be made partly in Honolulu and partly at the Columbia Studio and Edward Dmytryk has been selected to direct.

Beautiful blonde Virginia Bruce, who went to Turkey to live after her marriage to Ali Ipar, is the star of a picture he made in Istanbul. He returned here a few months ago.

"I'm still working on my picture which we'll call 'Istanbul,'" he said. "But more important, won't you say I am in no trouble with my country, nor with my marriage. My only trouble is my golf game."

Ipar, who had to separate from Virginia while he served in the Turkish Army, will commute between Hollywood and Turkey (some commuting). He has interests there which from time to time will require his attention, but he'll spend most of his time in Hollywood.

I believe I did Hans Habe a great injustice, so I would like to quote part of a letter from him.

He says, "When I was working on 'The Mindszenty Story' you questioned my qualifications and I lost my job. I was born in Hungary and felt very deeply about the fate of the Cardinal."

Habe said that he couldn't make any statement at that time because his parents were in Hungary and any explanation would have endangered their lives. "Today," said Habe, "They are dead. Their passports were taken from them when they attempted to escape. They committed suicide.

"All my life," he said, "I have fought totalitarian ideas, both Communist and Fascist. I have never belonged to any party or organization. I escaped from German captivity and enlisted in the United States Army and became a major."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Feliza Vanderbilt, ex-wife of Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., changed her mind about being married at her Beverly Hills home. She was married in Connecticut several weeks ago to Elliott William Plowe, New York business man.

Had dinner with Corinne Griffith and George Marshall just two days before they moved out of their beautiful house. Dorothy McGuire and John Swope bought it.

Nice gesture on the part of Jack Dempsey. Before he flew east he made arrangements for his ex-wife, Hannah, who was so badly burned, to move into an apartment he owns, to be near their daughters, Joan and Barbara.

Central Nominees

Girls Central High School nominees for most popular girl to be chosen at the Men of LaSalle bazaar at SS. Peter and Paul, April 14-16, are Senior Jean Rozum and Margaret Blake, a junior. They are two of the six girl candidates from three Catholic girls schools to participate in the contest along with six LaSalle High students. The most popular boy and girl will receive a pen and pencil set after balloting is completed the first two days of the bazaar. The winners will be announced Thursday, April 16.

By the time this is in print Garwood Van, orchestra leader, will be a father. He was summoned to Redwood City after his wife was taken to the hospital.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

County Office Jobs Approved

All of the appointees to offices in Allegany County were confirmed by the State Senate before it adjourned this week.

They were nominated for their positions by Governor McKeldin. All terms run for two years.

Re-appointed trial magistrates were: Donald W. Mason and J. Milton Dick, Cumberland, and Morris Baron, substitute; James Carter and Fred Crowe, Frostburg.

Carl W. Shaffer, Westernport; Melvin S. Sloan, Lonaconing; Howard R. Stevens, Mt. Savage; James G. Blair, Midland, William E. Meagher, Cresaptown.

Also confirmed were the three members of the Allegany County Board of License Commissioners (the liquor board). They are Walter C. Capper, Stanley Hamilton and James E. Kenny of Westernport.

The Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors confirmed is comprised of William A. Wilson, Victor A. Hebb and Matthew Mullaney.

Equity Suits Filed

Reporter Has Good Time At Experimental Tasting Party

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP) — Everything happens in the nation's capital including such things as wine-tasting.

The invitation grandly said: You are cordially invited "to attend a tasting of Spanish sherries under the auspices of the Oficino Comercial de Espana." An accompanying note said that sherry-sippings are old stuff in Europe but are a new experiment here.

Naturally your reporter—purely in the interests of science, of course—scurried over to be in on such a historic occasion.

A number of fellow scientists already had staked out a claim by the first bottle, and Harvey Stone, the American representative of Gonzales, Byass and Company, Ltd., of Spain and England, was busy lecturing.

"The word sherry," Stone was saying, "is merely the anglicized form of the Spanish Jerez. The original sherry came from Spain, but the English have taken it over as if it were their own. They have supplied most of the commercial backing. That's why most firms, like my own, are both English and Spanish.

"Shall we work down the line?"

We worked down the line to where the second table was set up.

"We start with a dry wine and work toward the sweet," Stone said. "It's no trick to become a connoisseur of fine wine. All you need to do is make a mental note of each wine as you taste it.

"Excuse me, I believe I see the British minister."

While Stone was gone various reporters made various mental notes.

"Now," Stone said, on returning, "we can clean our palate on these cheeses, and we'll move on to sweet sherries. Excellent for evening."

The scientific expedition beat its way to the sweet sherry where someone asked Stone how much his sherry costs.

It turned out the price range was from $3.19 to $4.90, the sweet sherry being the most expensive.

"Why?" Stone asked, and then answered his own question. "That's because sweet sherry requires more care. The grape must dry longer, until there is little yield in juice."

Stone said the object of the wine tasting was an attempt to persuade drinkers who have gone in for hard liquor to switch to wine, and that he believes—.

"Excuse me," he said, "I think that's the Spanish ambassador."

Several scientists returned to the cheese table, and found the photographer still there, happy as a mouse who has found steady employment.

"By golly," the photographer said, "this cheese is really good."

Lazy Thyroid Is Blamed For Sore Throats, Colds

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

CHICAGO, (AP) — A lazy thyroid gland was blamed today for making many people easy prey to colds, sore throats and other respiratory infections.

Giving thyroid hormone to wake up the gland builds up resistance in people of all ages, said Dr. Broda O. Barnes of Denver. He described the thyroid treatment to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

Dr. Barnes finds that people who suffer repeated colds, sinus or ear troubles, bronchitis and other infections usually have a subnormal temperature, are easily tired, sensitive to cold, and show other signs of a lazy thyroid, the pacemaker gland of the body. He said perhaps 20 per cent of Americans have this trouble and are pushovers for colds and infections.

In the last 11 years, he said, he has used thyroid medicine on 234 patients from 3½ months to 80 years old.

Every one has had fewer infections, he said, and many have shown increased resistance to infections. If the treatment was stopped, they lost this resistance in a few months time, got it back when they took the hormone again.

The better defense against colds and sore throats may also protect against rheumatic fever and tuberculosis, Dr. Barnes added.

Scout Training Courses Planned

Forty Scoutmasters of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts, will converge on Camp Potomac this weekend for training, according to Willis V. Smith, council executive.

Registration will begin at 1 p. m. Saturday with instruction starting at 2 p. m. The leaders will stay in the camp's two winterized troop lodges.

Courses and their instructors are: Patrol and troop organization and leadership, Alton Fortney of Luke; helping the individual boy grow, Joseph Stanislawczyk of Keyser; hiking, Robert Zarefoss, Frostburg; program planning, Smith, and troop meetings, Roy Pepper, Frostburg.

On Vacation

John Crosby, who writes the Radio and Television column for The Cumberland News, is on vacation. His next column will appear Monday, May 4.

Baby foods were introduced to grocery stores in 1929 and within six years the industry was selling at a rate of three million dozen units annually.

Lazy Thyroid Is Blamed For Sore Throats, Colds

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

CHICAGO, (AP) — A lazy thyroid gland was blamed today for making many people easy prey to colds, sore throats and other respiratory infections.

Giving thyroid hormone to wake up the gland builds up resistance in people of all ages, said Dr. Broda O. Barnes of Denver. He described the thyroid treatment to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

Dr. Barnes finds that people who suffer repeated colds, sinus or ear troubles, bronchitis and other infections usually have a subnormal temperature, are easily tired, sensitive to cold, and show other signs of a lazy thyroid, the pacemaker gland of the body. He said perhaps 20 per cent of Americans have this trouble and are push-overs for colds and infections.

In the last 11 years, he said, he has used thyroid medicine on 234 patients from 3½ months to 80 years old.

Every one has had fewer infections, he said, and many have shown increased resistance to infections. If the treatment was stopped, they lost this resistance in a few months time, got it back when they took the hormone again.

The better defense against colds and sore throats may also protect against rheumatic fever and tuberculosis, Dr. Barnes added.

Scout Training Courses Planned

Forty Scoutmasters of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts, will converge on Camp Potomac this weekend for training, according to Willis V. Smith, council executive.

Registration will begin at 1 p. m. Saturday with instruction starting at 2 p. m. The leaders will stay in the camp's two winterized troop lodges.

Courses and their instructors are: Patrol and troop organization and leadership, Alton Fortney of Luke; helping the individual boy grow, Joseph Stanislawczyk of Keyser; hiking, Robert Zarefoss, Frostburg; program planning, Smith, and troop meetings, Roy Pepper, Frostburg.

On Vacation

John Crosby, who writes the Radio and Television column for The Cumberland News, is on vacation. His next column will appear Monday, May 4.

Baby foods were introduced to grocery stores in 1929 and within six years the industry was selling at a rate of three million dozen units annually.

In Memoriam

In memory of my dear wife, who died 6 years ago, April 10, 1947, Pearl B. Kneriem.

Away in the beautiful hills of God,

Market Declines Gently In Wake Of Two-Day Recovery

NEW YORK, April 9 (AP) — The stock market declined today in a gentle manner after two days of recovery.

The small volume was taken as an indication of diminished downside pressure. The total was the smallest in nearly two months.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 40 cents and stood at $109.80 at the close. The industrial component was off 40 cents, the railroads were off 60 cents, and the utilities were down 10 cents.

The list with 1,151 issues traded was 35 smaller than yesterday. There were 282 issues advancing and 591 declining with 12 new highs and 82 new lows for the year touched during the day.

Western Union added ¾ at 41⅞. Libby, McNeil & Libby was up ⅛ at 9½.

Pepsi-Cola was the day's most active issue for the second straight day up ⅞ at 14⅝ with 64,200 shares traded. The company announced a 9 per cent increase in its syrup prices.

Coca-Cola was up 1½ at 119 and Canada Dry gained ¼ at 12⅝.

It was followed by Willys-Overland unchanged at 15, Pacific Western Oil off ⅜ at 42, and Alleghany unchanged at 5.

Among lower stocks were Southern Railway off 1⅝ at 84, Sinclair Oil ⅜ at 39⅞, American Telephone ⅛ at 155½, Phelps Dodge 1⅛ at 35¾, Allied Chemical 1⅜ at 70⅛, Cities Service 1⅜ at 85⅞, Bethlehem Steel ¼ at 50¾, Chrysler ¾ at 79⅞, Goodrich 1 at 69¼, Boeing ¾ at 40⅛, and Philco ⅝ at 32⅜.

Higher were such issues as Standard Oil (NJ) up ⅛ at 71, Chesapeake & Ohio ¼ at 37⅛, Dome Mines ⅜ at 21⅝, United Aircraft ¼ at 34¼, and Sears Roebuck ¼ at 58¼.

Corporate bonds were lower. U. S. governments in the over the counter market also were lower.

Adv. N—April 3-10-17.

NOTICE

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 127 of the Charter of the City of Cumberland, Maryland, 1950 Edition, notice is hereby given that the Mayor and Council of Cumberland, did, in regular session on Monday, March 16, 1953, approve the Report of Commissioners on the closing of an Unnamed Alley and Short Avenue which extend northwardly from Isabel Street to Orlando Street and lie parallel to and westward of Ford Avenue. Said commissioners were appointed by virtue of Ordinance No. 1943 for the purpose of assessing any damages or benefits incurred by or accruing to any owners of property affected by the closing of said Unnamed Alley or Street. After meeting on the premises to be affected without hearing any claims for damages, the commissioners present the following:

"It is our opinion, therefore, that no damages are inflicted by the closing of said unnamed alley and Short Avenue and that no material benefit not already enjoyed, will accrue to adjoining property owners. It is therefore recommended that said alley and avenue be closed as indicated and that no damages be assessed or awarded to any adjoining property owner."

Any person, persons, firm or corporation feeling aggrieved by the decision of the commissioners may appeal therefrom within thirty (30) days after March 16, 1953, by filing written notice of such appeal with the City Clerk of the City of Cumberland, Maryland, who will transmit same to the Circuit Court for Allegany County to be docketed for jury trial.

Lois G. Sheavly, Ellerslie, Maryland, Complainant, vs. Horace A. Sheavly, 1830 Beech St., McKeesport, Pa., Respondent. No. 23151 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree divorcing the Complainant from the Respondent A VINCULO MATRIMONII.

The Bill states that the parties were married in Cumberland, Maryland, on March 12, 1936; that they lived together until December, 1948, on which date the Respondent abandoned and deserted the Complainant; that said abandonment has continued uninterruptedly down to the present time, if of at least eighteen months duration, is deliberate and final, and beyond hope of reconciliation.

That two children, H. Fremont Sheavly and Sherril Kay Sheavly, were born to the parties of this marriage, that Complainant has been a resident of Allegany County for more than one year last past, and that Respondent's last known address was 1830 Beech Street, McKeesport, Pennsylvania.

It is thereupon, this 8th day of April, 1953, ORDERED by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, that the Complainant causes this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County, Maryland, once a week for four weeks before the 11th day of May, 1953, giving notice to the said Horace A. Sheavly, absent Respondent, of the object and substance of this Bill and warning him to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 28th day of May, 1953, and show cause, if any he has, why a Decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Market Declines Gently In Wake Of Two-Day Recovery

NEW YORK, April 9 (AP) — The stock market declined today in a gentle manner after two days of recovery.

The fall was orderly and never extended very far, although virtually all segments of the market were engulfed.

Volume came to only 1,520,000 shares.

The small volume was taken as an indication of diminished downside pressure. The total was the smallest in nearly two months.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 40 cents and stood at $109.80 at the close. The industrial component was off 40 cents, the railroads were off 60 cents, and the utilities were down 10 cents.

The list with 1,151 issues traded was 35 smaller than yesterday. There were 282 issues advancing and 591 declining with 12 new highs and 82 new lows for the year touched during the day.

Western Union added ¾ at 41⅞. Libby, McNeil & Libby was up ⅛ at 9½.

Pepsi-Cola was the day's most active issue for the second straight day up ⅞ at 14⅜ with 64,200 shares traded. The company announced a 9 per cent increase in its syrup prices.

Coca-Cola was up 1½ at 119 and Canada Dry gained ¼ at 12⅝.

International Telephone was up ⅛ at 17½. The company reorted 1952 sales and profits established new high records.

It was followed by Willys-Overland unchanged at 15, Pacific Western Oil off ⅜ at 42, and Alleghany unchanged at 5.

Among lower stocks were Southern Railway off 1⅝ at 84, Sinclair Oil ⅜ at 39⅞, American Telephone ⅛ at 155½, Phelps Dodge 1⅛ at 35¾, Allied Chemical 1⅜ at 70⅛, Cities Service 1⅜ at 85⅞, Bethlehem Steel ¼ at 50¾, Chrysler ¾ at 79⅞, Goodrich 1 at 69¼, Boeing ¾ at 40⅛, and Philco ⅝ at 32⅜.

Higher were such issues as Standard Oil (NJ) up ⅛ at 71, Chesapeake & Ohio ¼ at 37⅛, Dome Mines ⅜ at 21⅝, United Aircraft ¼ at 34¼, and Sears Roebuck ¼ at 58¼.

Corporate bonds were lower. U. S. governments in the over the counter market also were lower.

Joseph E. Boden, Clerk.

Adv. N—April 3-10-17.

NOTICE

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 127 of the Charter of the City of Cumberland, Maryland, 1950 Edition, notice is hereby given that the Mayor and Council of Cumberland, did, in regular session on Monday, March 16, 1953, approve the Report of Commissioners on the closing of an Unnamed Alley and Short Avenue which extend northwardly from Isabel Street to Orlando Street and lie parallel to and westward of Ford Avenue. Said commissioners were appointed by virtue of Ordinance No. 1943 for the purpose of assessing any damages or benefits incurred by or accruing to any owners of property affected by the closing of said Unnamed Alley or Street. After meeting on the premises to be affected without hearing any claims for damages, the commissioners present the following:

"It is our opinion, therefore, that no damages are inflicted by the closing of said unnamed alley and Short Avenue and that no material benefit not already enjoyed, will accrue to adjoining property owners. It is therefore recommended that said alley and avenue be closed as indicated and that no damages be assessed or awarded to any adjoining property owner."

Any person, persons, firm or corporation feeling aggrieved by the decision of the commissioners may appeal therefrom within thirty (30) days after March 16, 1953, by filing written notice of such appeal with the City Clerk of the City of Cumberland, Maryland, who will transmit same to the Circuit Court for Allegany County to be docketed for jury trial.

Lois G. Sheavly, Ellerslie, Maryland, Complainant, vs. Horace A. Sheavly, 1830 Beech St., McKeesport, Pa., Respondent. No. 23151 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree divorcing the Complainant from the Respondent A VINCULO MATRIMONII.

The Bill states that the parties were married in Cumberland, Maryland, on March 12, 1936; that they lived together until December, 1948, on which date the Respondent abandoned and deserted the Complainant; that said abandonment has continued uninterruptedly down to the present time, if of at least eighteen months duration, is deliberate and final, and beyond hope of reconciliation.

That two children, H. Fremont Sheavly and Sherril Kay Sheavly, were born to the parties of this marriage, that Complainant has been a resident of Allegany County for more than one year last past, and that Respondent's last known address was 1830 Beech Street, McKeesport, Pennsylvania.

It is thereupon, this 8th day of April, 1953, ORDERED by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, that the Complainant causes this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County, Maryland, once a week for four weeks before the 11th day of May, 1953, giving notice to the said Horace A. Sheavly, absent Respondent, of the object and substance of this Bill and warning him to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 28th day of May, 1953, and show cause, if any he has, why a Decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Mt. Savage Man Is Killed While Unloading Logs

Harry F. Paul, 61, Crushed To Death

A Mt. Savage Celanese worker was crushed to death between two logs early yesterday afternoon at the Melvin Karns sawmill in Wellersburg, Pa., while helping his son unload logs from a truck.

Harry Franklin Paul, 61, was standing on a log while aiding his son, Wilbert, remove another from the truck when the heavy beam on the vehicle slipped and struck the elder Paul across the chest, crushing him between it and the log on the ground, Dr. H. V. Deming, county medical examiner reported.

Paul, a spinning maintenance employee at the Amcelle plant, had gone with his son to help haul the truck-load of logs from the Wilbert Paul farm to the sawmill, and the mishap occurred as the two men were removing the last log from the truck.

The injured man was brought to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland about 1 p. m. in Melvin Karns' automobile but was dead on arrival, Dr. Deming stated.

Paul was born in Wellersburg, April 20, 1892, a son of the late George and Catherine Trimble Paul. He was married to Arvada Fair Paul, August 9, 1914, and lived with his family in Mt. Savage.

Besides his widow and son he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Lorena Bassler, Catonsville, Md., a brother, George Paul, Koppel, Pa., and six sisters, Mrs. Alice Allen, Sandana, Calif., Mrs. Gertrude Smith, Cumberland, Mrs. Stella Neff, Youngstown, Ohio, Mrs. Effie Freeland, Keyser, W. Va., Mrs. Margaret Ray, Homewood Addition, Cumberland, Mrs. Clara Shillingburg, Ridgeley, W. Va., and Mrs. Grace Strutz, Wellersburg.

Paul was a member of Mt. Savage Methodist Church and the JOUAM, Jennings Run Council.

Friends will be received at the residence after 7 p. m. today, the family said. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

60 Businessmen Attend Route 40 Group Meeting

A second meeting of the Route 40 Association was held last night at LaVale Fire Hall with more than 60 area businessmen present. Reports from the steering committee showed that over 100 have been enrolled in membership and nine men volunteered to assist the steering committee in soliciting more members.

Action was taken to keep the temporary officers in charge until the association is incorporated and an attorney was designated to begin incorporation proceedings immediately.

There were representatives of the Uniontown, Pa., Chamber of Commerce at the meeting who expressed their interest in the plan to publicize Route 40 through this area as a tourist attraction. They expressed a desire to affiliate with the local association when they learned that it is designed to help promote the entire area.

Representatives of the Hotel Men's Association, the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce and other civic groups were also present in addition to a number of service station operators and other businessmen in the area.

Plans were outlined for the erection of signboards advertising "toll free" Route 40 through this area, along with plans for some 50,000 folders and maps for general distribution.

It was indicated another meeting will be called within a couple of weeks.

Clothing Demonstration Planned At LaVale

Another series of clothing construction demonstrations will be started next Tuesday at LaVale Elementary School for women living in the LaVale section.

Miss Ruth C. McColly, supervisor of home economics in the county schools, will conduct the demonstrations each Tuesday from 1:30 until 3 p. m. for six weeks. This will be the third series for women this year. The first, at Gephart School, attracted about 30 women each week. The second, at East Side, which just ended, averaged about 20 women.

Colored Rec Program To GetUnderway

Committee Meets Today To Map Plans

Meeting what Earle L. Bracey, principal of Carver School termed "a community problem," civic leaders met last night with heads of this city's colored community and laid plans for getting a social and recreational program for youths underway next week.

Bracey said the meeting was called after youngsters from Carver School revealed they had been attending parties and "getting home pretty late" and were admitted to pool rooms and similar places even though officials knew they were too young.

This and a wave of incidents which have been advertised in the press, Bracey said, pointed out the need for immediate action toward a properly supervised social and recreational program.

He emphasized it was not a school but a community problem and said all existing facilities, and leadership must be coordinated to meet the challenge.

Robert E. Pence, city recreation director, said colored children participate equally in all recreation department activities. He said the city's Teen Age Program is not operated by the city but by Central YMCA.

Plan Your Club

Pence added, however, that the department is planning to sponsor a Teen Age Club for colored youths of 13 to 20 if leadership is found and parents cooperate to furnish supervision.

He added the department will put a leader at Carver School Playground as soon as Benjamin Banneker Village opens.

Plans for the use of the $150,000 recreation bond issue were discussed by Lewyn C. Davis, a member of the city rec board.

He said the money will be spent as soon as a decision can be made on the proper use of the funds and added the size of the bond issue makes it virtually impossible to build a much needed recreation center. He indicated the funds will have to be spent to improve existing play centers.

City Will Aid

Promising the cooperation of the city, Mayor Roy W. Eves said the $150,000 recreation bond issue will be spent when the board decides the proper use of the funds. Work out your plan and the Mayor and Council will help you, he added.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, suggested that the Carver students might be able to use the Canada Hose House as a center for supervised play.

"If you find the answer, the Mayor and Council will go along," Mrs. Roeder said.

She suggested that the churches lead the way in planning the recreation program and expressed pleasure that a recreation room will be available at the colored public housing project which will open near Carver School soon.

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long said all city officials are interested in the problem and the chief problem will be leadership. He promised city aid in "your plan."

The Police Boys Club, he commented, may be of some service.

Scout Troop Planned

In response to a query of Bracey, Pence is investigating the possibility of securing the armory as a skating rink one day a week. But Bracey said some way would have to be found to get skates for the youngsters.

Hope for an expanded program was expressed by Rev. George T. C. Bell, pastor of McKendree Methodist Church.

He said plans are already underway for the formation of an interracial Boy Scout troop by his congregation and emphasized the need of additional workers to aid in the program.

He defended the Cumberland Ministerial Association on a charge that Negroes are not represented in the Sunday School League, saying "you can't get a basketball team in the league until you have a team."

Rev. Mr. Bell explained that the league is composed of teams and and that each affiliated church has its own team.

Work Underway On North End Tank Reservoir

Street Department Crews Ready Site

The city yesterday began work leading toward a 75,000 gallon tank which will provide a high pressure water system in North Cumberland, according to William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and electric light.

The Street Department, he said, is cooperating in the project on Chedworth Avenue, west of Piedmont Avenue.

The city forces moved into the area yesterday to begin excavation for footers for the steel water tank. Fittings are on hand so that concrete can be poured for the footers as soon as excavation is completed and forms prepared.

This includes the water tank used by the United States Leather Company at Ridgway, Pa., together with fittings and electric pumps and for dissembling the tank and installing it on a prepared site here.

The city will also build a pump house near Forest Avenue, opposite a 24-inch water main, to pump water into the reservoir.

The site of the tank has been changed from plans made late last fall to provide a more efficient water system for the rapidly growing residential area in North Cumberland.

The use of the used tank, which has been carefully inspected and termed in first class condition, will mean a saving of both time and money, since steel was in extremely scarce supply when the city decided to install the North End reservoir last fall.

Boy, 3, Struck By Automobile

A three-year-old boy was admitted to Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon after he was struck by an automobile on Memorial Avenue extended near the hospital.

Police said last night the child, Ronald Barnes, was hit when he apparently darted in front of the car driven by John Joseph Byrnes, Jr., Jane Frazier Village, First Street.

Byrnes told investigating officers he was driving north along Memorial Avenue and saw the child standing on the curb of the street. The little boy's mother called him just then, Byrnes said, and the child ran into the street and he was unable to avoid striking him.

Hospital attaches stated last night the boy will be kept in the hospital for X-ray examinations today. He suffered lacerations and a possible fracture of the clavical bone near the shoulder. His condition is listed as "good."

The child's mother, Mrs. Norma Barnes, told police she was staying on Valley Road while visiting Cumberland. She lives in Baltimore.

Officer Richard Lashley is investigating.

Because of the child's illness, Judge and Mrs. Harris rushed to Baltimore over the weekend and he was unable to present the charge to the Grand Jury. The infant son is the first child of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Gracie Jr. She is the former Miss Phyllis Ann Harris.

Liberty Trust Co. Opens New Vacation Club Fund

A new service will be inaugurated by the Liberty Trust Company next week with the opening of its Vacation Savings Club, officials of the bank said last night.

Under the new plan accounts will be opened and weekly deposits made to the Vacation Club in the same manner in which the Christmas Club operates.

The Vacation accounts will be open May 1 and checks will be mailed the following year on or before the first of May, differing from the Christmas accounts which are opened on December 1 with checks mailed the following December.

Passbooks will be issued similar in appearance to the Christmas fund passbooks, bank officials stated.

Although the club officially opens the first week in May the Liberty Trust Company will make the service available to members anytime after Monday, April 13. The accounts will be handled at the same bank windows as the Christmas funds.

Many persons have requested this type of savings fund, the bank noted, which enables them to accumulate funds for vacation expenses, insurance premiums, taxes and other large bills which may fall due during the middle of the calendar year.

In advocating the new venture bank officials said over 3,000 Christmas Club members hold passbooks for Yuletide savings and many are expected to take advantage of the new system.

Organizations Planning For Clean-Up Week

Chamber Event Set May 9 To 16

Six civic groups and one industry have agreed to undertake specific projects as their contribution to the Clean-Up Week observance to be sponsored by the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce May 9 to 16.

Anthony Saeli, manager of the Chamber, said other groups are also planning to participate in the local clean-up event and the list of projects to be undertaken will be considerably longer before May 9.

All civic organizations, he added, are invited to cooperate in the campaign.

Girl Scouts To Help

The Cumberland Girl Scout Council will endeavor to get each of the 512 Scouts in the organization to "fix up" her own yard and basement and encourage neighbors on each side of her to do likewise. In addition, the Council will undertake a group project which is now being formulated.

The local Rotary Club will take the first step in the rehabilitation and beautification of an area situated roughly in the 400 block of upper Bedford Street. As its contribution, the club will provide the necessary filling and will plant flowers in the area.

The Newcomers Club will plant the ground surrounding the "Welcome to Cumberland" sign on Route 40, east. Members will plant lawn seed, flowers and shrubs to beautify the approach to the city.

The Woman's Civic Club will landscape the Allegany County Infirmary grounds, and the Kiwanis Club will make repairs and beautification to the Sun Shine Club. The local units of the Maryland National Guard will plant shrubs and flowers, paint the fence and "spruce up" the entrance to the State Armory.

To Show Films

During Clean-Up Week and the week preceding it, various luncheon clubs and women's organizations will show films portraying the objectives of the local observance.

H. D. "Hal" Barber, of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, and Mrs. Lucille Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, are co-chairmen of the Chamber's committee planning the Clean-Up Week.

Bernard G. Renz, manager of the local office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, is in charge of special events.

The hospital reported X-ray examinations had not been completed yesterday but the man was badly bruised about the head and body.

Indications from Trail's condition were that he may have been beaten, or possibly hit by a car. An investigation is underway.

1,659 Children Are Registered For First Grade

Cresaptown Leads Lists With 120

Some 1,659 pre-school children who will enter the first grade in September were registered late in March at 34 Allegany County public elementary schools, Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel, reported yesterday.

Higgins explained that this figure does not represent all of the six-year olds who will enter public school in September. A few parents who missed getting their children registered in the two special days last month have been registering their children each day since then.

In most schools, however, the change between the registration figures reported by Higgins and the actual figure when school starts in September will be no more than two or three per cent.

Two schools, Cresaptown and Pennsylvania Avenue, registered more than 100 new first graders each last month. Cresaptown had 120 and Penn Avenue counted 108. Nearest them were West Side, 97; Hammond Street in Westernport, 95, and Johnson Heights, 89.

On the lower end of the ladder were Rockville and Pekin, each with five; Lincoln in Frostburg, six; Moscow, seven, and Detmold, 10.

Central Elementary, 34; Detmold, 10; Rockville, 5; Pekin, 5; Jackson, 41; Barton Elementary, 50; Moscow, 7; Piney Plains, 17; Oldtown, 50; Flintstone, 45; Penn Avenue; 108; John Humbird, 52; Virginia Avenue, 49; Johnson Heights, 89; Centre Street, 49; Columbia Street, 76; West Side, 97; Mt. Royal, 57; Cresaptown, 120; Hammond Street, 95; Luke, 15; McCoole, 46; Hill Street, 44; Mt. Savage, 67; Midland, 46; Ellerslie, 22; Corriganville, 34; East Side, 82; Gephart, 45; Eckhart, 27; Beall Elementary, 78; LaVale, 75; Carver, 16; Lincoln, 6.

Of the 1,659 registered, school principals found that 375 already had been vaccinated.

Five Ball Fields Will Be Graded

Grading of five ball fields in Cumberland will get under way when the ground dries out thoroughly, Robert E. Pence, city recreation director, announced yesterday.

Fields to be graded this spring include Penn Avenue Field, Stitcher Field, Community Ball Park, Rolling Mill Field and Taylor Field.

Pence said the heavy grading equipment cannot be placed on the fields until there are three or four days of continuous dry weather.

A number of area contractors, he said, have volunteered to furnish equipment for the work.

Grand Jury Ends Activity With 22 Indictments

County Officials Get Commendation

The Grand Jury for the April term of Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday submitted its report which showed that in four days of action the body examined 78 witnesses and returned 22 indictments.

Although there are a few recommendations for improvements to county property, most of six-page report is devoted to commendation of various county officials. The report was signed by Bert A. Graham, foreman, and A. Wayne Reed and Miss Bessie R. Baird, clerks.

Fletcher Commended

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher was commended in the 12th and 1st section of the report.

"The Grand Jury wishes to commend the State's Attorney, Paul M. Fletcher, for the very efficient and noteworthy manner in which he prepared the matter from his office and presented them before the Grand Jury. This body finds that the State's Attorney has conducted his duties most diligently and all offenses brought to his attention have been properly handled by necessary investigations. Inasmuch as there were nine lady jurors in our body, we clearly observed State's Attorney Fletcher's very admirable presentation of indelicate matters during our session," the section concluded.

Three other county officers were commended in the same final section. They are County Investigator E. R. Lilya, Clerk of Circuit Court Joseph E. Boden and Deputy Sheriff Edgar M. Lewis.

In one of its recommendations, the Grand Jury suggested that various pencil markings, which appear on the walls throughout the County Jail, should be erased or eliminated in some manner and should be done regularly from time to time. The prisoners should be required to do this work, the report adds.

Sheriff Edward R. Muir and his deputies were praised for the excellent conditions existing at the jail when considered in connection with its age and need for modernization. There were 15 white male prisoners in the jail at the time of inspection.

Civic Club Cited

Twice in the report the Woman's Civic Club was commended. The first mention was for providing a television set for use and entertainment of residents of the County Home. The second concerned provisions for landscaping and beautifying the grounds around the County Infirmary. This has been done by the Garden Group of the Woman's Civic Club.

"We feel that this is a very commendable activity and service which is being conducted by the Civic Club and, in our opinion, it will lend a great deal to the attractiveness of the Infirmary when completed," the report states.

Court House Repairs

Several suggestions for improvements at the Court House also were embodied in the Grand Jury recommendations.

"Your Grand Jury has observed that the wood trim on the exterior of windows generally throughout the building has deteriorated and is badly in need of replacement and paint," the report reads. "It is recommended that repainting or replacement of the frames be made immediately.

"We also noted that chairs now being used in the Register of Wills office have deteriorated and are in need of replacement generally. It was also observed that there is a lack of filing space in the Land Records office of the Clerk of Circuit Court and it appears to your Grand Jury that immediate arrangements should be made to provide for adequate filing." Alvin Snyder, Court House custodian, was cited for the cleanliness and order throughout the building.

The 14 men on the Grand Jury also took the opportunity to commend the nine women on the investigating body. The lady jurors efficiency and cooperation was cited and the men added that the use of lady jurors is an improvement to the judicial system of the county. Special note was made of the fact that Miss Baird served as assistant clerk.

First county official commended in the report was Mrs. Wilbur D. Sills, county auditor, for the excellent system she employs in keeping the receipts and disbursements and incidental records.

Mt. Savage Man Is Killed While Unloading Logs

Harry F. Paul, 61, Crushed To Death

A Mt. Savage Celanese worker was crushed to death between two logs early yesterday afternoon at the Melvin Karns sawmill in Wellersburg, Pa., while helping his son unload logs from a truck.

Harry Franklin Paul, 61, was standing on a log while aiding his son, Wilbert, remove another from the truck when the heavy beam on the vehicle slipped and struck the elder Paul across the chest, crushing him between it and the log on the ground, Dr. H. V. Deming, county medical examiner reported.

Paul, a spinning maintenance employee at the Amcelle plant, had gone with his son to help haul the truck-load of logs from the Wilbert Paul farm to the sawmill, and the mishap occurred as the two men were removing the last log from the truck.

The injured man was brought to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland about 1 p. m. in Melvin Karns' automobile but was dead on arrival, Dr. Deming stated.

He died from hemorrhage due to a crushed chest, the medical examiner concluded.

Paul was born in Wellersburg, April 20, 1892, a son of the late George and Catherine Trimble Paul. He was married to Arvada Fair Paul, August 9, 1914, and lived with his family in Mt. Savage.

60 Businessmen Attend Route 40 Group Meeting

A second meeting of the Route 40 Association was held last night at LaVale Fire Hall with more than 60 area businessmen present. Reports from the steering committee showed that over 100 have been enrolled in membership and nine men volunteered to assist the steering committee in soliciting more members.

Action was taken to keep the temporary officers in charge until the association is incorporated and an attorney was designated to begin incorporation proceedings immediately.

There were representatives of the Uniontown, Pa., Chamber of Commerce at the meeting who expressed their interest in the plan to publicize Route 40 through this area as a tourist attraction. They expressed a desire to affiliate with the local association when they learned that it is designed to help promote the entire area.

Representatives of the Hotel Men's Association, the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce and other civic groups were also present in addition to a number of service station operators and other businessmen in the area.

Plans were outlined for the erection of signboards advertising "toll free" Route 40 through this area, along with plans for some 50,000 folders and maps for general distribution.

It was indicated another meeting will be called within a couple of weeks.

Kopp, campaign chairman, who reported the drive went over the top of its goal of $32,800 with a return of $33,024.32.

Colored Rec Program To GetUnderway

Committee Meets Today To Map Plans

Meeting what Earle L. Bracey, principal of Carver School termed "a community problem," civic leaders met last night with heads of this city's colored community and laid plans for getting a social and recreational program for youths underway next week.

Bracey said the meeting was called after youngsters from Carver School revealed they had been attending parties and "getting home pretty late" and were admitted to pool rooms and similar places even though officials knew they were too young.

This and a wave of incidents which have been advertised in the press, Bracey said, pointed out the need for immediate action toward a properly supervised social and recreational program.

He emphasized it was not a school but a community problem and said all existing facilities, and leadership must be coordinated to meet the challenge.

Robert E. Pence, city recreation director, said colored children participate equally in all recreation department activities. He said the city's Teen Age Program is not operated by the city but by Central YMCA.

Plan Your Club

Pence added, however, that the department is planning to sponsor a Teen Age Club for colored youths of 13 to 20 if leadership is found and parents cooperate to furnish supervision.

He added the department will put a leader at Carver School Playground as soon as Benjamin Banneker Village opens.

Plans for the use of the $150,000 recreation bond issue were discussed by Lewyn C. Davis, a member of the city rec board.

He said the money will be spent as soon as a decision can be made on the proper use of the funds and added the size of the bond issue makes it virtually impossible to build a much needed recreation center. He indicated the funds will have to be spent to improve existing play centers.

City Will Aid

Promising the cooperation of the city, Mayor Roy W. Eves said the $150,000 recreation bond issue will be spent when the board decides the proper use of the funds. Work out your plan and the Mayor and Council will help you, he added.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, suggested that the Carver students might be able to use the Canada Hose House as a center for supervised play.

"If you find the answer, the Mayor and Council will go along," Mrs. Roeder said.

She suggested that the churches lead the way in planning the recreation program and expressed pleasure that a recreation room will be available at the colored public housing project which will open near Carver School soon.

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long said all city officials are interested in the problem and the chief problem will be leadership. He promised city aid in "your plan."

The Police Boys Club, he commented, may be of some service.

Scout Troop Planned

In response to a query of Bracey, Pence is investigating the possibility of securing the armory as a skating rink one day a week. But Bracey said some way would have to be found to get skates for the youngsters.

Hope for an expanded program was expressed by Rev. George T. C. Bell, pastor of McKendree Methodist Church.

He said plans are already underway for the formation of an interracial Boy Scout troop by his congregation and emphasized the need of additional workers to aid in the program.

He defended the Cumberland Ministerial Association on a charge that Negroes are not represented in the Sunday School League, saying "you can't get a basketball team in the league until you have a team."

Rev. Mr. Bell explained that the league is composed of teams and and that each affiliated church has its own team.

Work Underway On North End Tank Reservoir

Street Department Crews Ready Site

The city yesterday began work leading toward a 75,000 gallon tank which will provide a high pressure water system in North Cumberland, according to William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and electric light.

The Street Department, he said, is cooperating in the project on Chedworth Avenue, west of Piedmont Avenue.

The city forces moved into the area yesterday to begin excavation for footers for the steel water tank. Fittings are on hand so that concrete can be poured for the footers as soon as excavation is completed and forms prepared.

Last fall, the city contracted with an Altoona, Pa., firm for the installation of a used water tank for a package price of $18,000.

This includes the water tank used by the United States Leather Company at Ridgway, Pa., together with fittings and electric pumps and for dissembling the tank and installing it on a prepared site here.

The city will also build a pump house near Forest Avenue, opposite a 24-inch water main, to pump water into the reservoir.

The site of the tank has been changed from plans made late last fall to provide a more efficient water system for the rapidly growing residential area in North Cumberland.

The use of the used tank, which has been carefully inspected and termed in first class condition, will mean a saving of both time and money, since steel was in extremely scarce supply when the city decided to install the North End reservoir last fall.

Boy, 3, Struck By Automobile

A three-year-old boy was admitted to Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon after he was struck by an automobile on Memorial Avenue extended near the hospital.

Police said last night the child, Ronald Barnes, was hit when he apparently darted in front of the car driven by John Joseph Byrnes, Jr., Jane Frazier Village, First Street.

Byrnes told investigating officers he was driving north along Memorial Avenue and saw the child standing on the curb of the street. The little boy's mother called him just then, Byrnes said, and the child ran into the street and he was unable to avoid striking him.

Hospital attaches stated last night the boy will be kept in the hospital for X-ray examinations today. He suffered lacerations and a possible fracture of the clavical bone near the shoulder. His condition is listed as "good."

The child's mother, Mrs. Norma Barnes, told police she was staying on Valley Road while visiting Cumberland. She lives in Baltimore.

Officer Richard Lashley is investigating.

Liberty Trust Co. Opens New Vacation Club Fund

A new service will be inaugurated by the Liberty Trust Company next week with the opening of its Vacation Savings Club, officials of the bank said last night.

The idea behind the new savings club is similar to Christmas Savings Clubs which have been very popular in this area for many years.

Under the new plan accounts will be opened and weekly deposits made to the Vacation Club in the same manner in which the Christmas Club operates.

The Vacation accounts will be open May 1 and checks will be mailed the following year on or before the first of May, differing from the Christmas accounts which are opened on December 1 with checks mailed the following December.

Passbooks will be issued similar in appearance to the Christmas fund passbooks, bank officials stated.

Although the club officially opens the first week in May the Liberty Trust Company will make the service available to members anytime after Monday, April 13. The accounts will be handled at the same bank windows as the Christmas funds.

Many persons have requested this type of savings fund, the bank noted, which enables them to accumulate funds for vacation expenses, insurance premiums, taxes and other large bills which may fall due during the middle of the calendar year.

In advocating the new venture bank officials said over 3,000 Christmas Club members hold passbooks for Yuletide savings and many are expected to take advantage of the new system.

During Clean-Up Week and the week preceding it, various luncheon clubs and women's organizations will show films portraying the objectives of the local observance.

H. D. "Hal" Barber, of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, and Mrs. Lucille Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, are co-chairmen of the Chamber's committee planning the Clean-Up Week.

1,659 Children Are Registered For First Grade

Cresaptown Leads Lists With 120

Some 1,659 pre-school children who will enter the first grade in September were registered late in March at 34 Allegany County public elementary schools, Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel, reported yesterday.

Higgins explained that this figure does not represent all of the six-year olds who will enter public school in September. A few parents who missed getting their children registered in the two special days last month have been registering their children each day since then.

In most schools, however, the change between the registration figures reported by Higgins and the actual figure when school starts in September will be no more than two or three per cent.

Two schools, Cresaptown and Pennsylvania Avenue, registered more than 100 new first graders each last month. Cresaptown had 120 and Penn Avenue counted 108. Nearest them were West Side, 97; Hammond Street in Westernport, 95, and Johnson Heights, 89.

On the lower end of the ladder were Rockville and Pekin, each with five; Lincoln in Frostburg, six; Moscow, seven, and Detmold, 10.

Central Elementary, 34; Detmold, 10; Rockville, 5; Pekin, 5; Jackson, 41; Barton Elementary, 50; Moscow, 7; Piney Plains, 17; Oldtown, 50; Flintstone, 45; Penn Avenue, 108; John Humbird, 52; Virginia Avenue, 49; Johnson Heights, 89; Centre Street, 49; Columbia Street, 76; West Side, 97; Mt. Royal, 57; Cresaptown, 120; Hammond Street, 95; Luke, 15; McCoole, 46; Hill Street, 44; Mt. Savage, 67; Midland, 46; Ellerslie, 22; Corriganville, 34; East Side, 82; Gephart, 45; Eckhart, 27; Beall Elementary, 78; LaVale, 75; Carver, 16; Lincoln, 6.

Of the 1,659 registered, school principals found that 375 already had been vaccinated.

Grand Jury Ends Activity With 22 Indictments

County Officials Get Commendation

The Grand Jury for the April term of Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday submitted its report which showed that in four days of action the body examined 78 witnesses and returned 22 indictments.

Although there are a few recommendations for improvements to county property, most of six-page report is devoted to commendation of various county officials. The report was signed by Bert A. Graham, foreman, and A. Wayne Reed and Miss Bessie R. Baird, clerks.

Fletcher Commended

"The Grand Jury wishes to commend the State's Attorney, Paul M. Fletcher, for the very efficient and noteworthy manner in which he prepared the matter from his office and presented them before the Grand Jury. This body finds that the State's Attorney has conducted his duties most diligently and all offenses brought to his attention have been properly handled by necessary investigations. Inasmuch as there were nine lady jurors in our body, we clearly observed State's Attorney Fletcher's very admirable presentation of indelicate matters during our session," the section concluded.

Three other county officers were commended in the same final section. They are County Investigator E. R. Lilya, Clerk of Circuit Court Joseph E. Boden and Deputy Sheriff Edgar M. Lewis.

In one of its recommendations, the Grand Jury suggested that various pencil markings, which appear on the walls throughout the County Jail, should be erased or eliminated in some manner and should be done regularly from time to time. The prisoners should be required to do this work, the report adds.

Sheriff Edward R. Muir and his deputies were praised for the excellent conditions existing at the jail when considered in connection with its age and need for modernization. There were 15 white male prisoners in the jail at the time of inspection.

Civic Club Cited

Twice in the report the Woman's Civic Club was commended. The first mention was for providing a television set for use and entertainment of residents of the County Home. The second concerned provisions for landscaping and beautifying the grounds around the County Infirmary. This has been done by the Garden Group of the Woman's Civic Club.

"We feel that this is a very commendable activity and service which is being conducted by the Civic Club and, in our opinion, it will lend a great deal to the attractiveness of the Infirmary when completed," the report states.

Court House Repairs

Several suggestions for improvements at the Court House also were embodied in the Grand Jury recommendations.

"Your Grand Jury has observed that the wood trim on the exterior of windows generally throughout the building has deteriorated and is badly in need of replacement and paint," the report reads. "It is recommended that repainting or replacement of the frames be made immediately.

"We also noted that chairs now being used in the Register of Wills office have deteriorated and are in need of replacement generally. It was also observed that there is a lack of filing space in the Land Records office of the Clerk of Circuit Court and it appears to your Grand Jury that immediate arrangements should be made to provide for adequate filing." Alvin Snyder, Court House custodian, was cited for the cleanliness and order throughout the building.

The 14 men on the Grand Jury also took the opportunity to commend the nine women on the investigating body. The lady jurors efficiency and cooperation was cited and the men added that the use of lady jurors is an improvement to the judicial system of the county. Special note was made of the fact that Miss Baird served as assistant clerk.

First county official commended in the report was Mrs. Wilbur D. Sills, county auditor, for the excellent system she employs in keeping the receipts and disbursements and incidental records.

Raymond Messmer, superintendent of Sylvan Retreat, was commended for the general excellent condition of the premises. At the time of inspection there were 84 patients, 36 male and 48 female and all white, and 30 employes.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Grim similarly were cited for conditions at the County Home and County Infirmary. There were 38 residents of the County Home when inspected and 18 employes. The County Infirmary had 88 patients, 34 male and 54 female, at the time of inspection. There are 72 employes there. One County Infirmary recommendation is painting the walls on the second floor.

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris received the Grand Jury report and excused the 23 grand jurors with a reminder that under unusual circumstances they might be recalled before the next Grand Jury convenes in October.
